SPAIN TORN BY REVOLT

Five Killed in Clash and Severe Battle Impends Near Huesca

Gen. Ramon Franco, Famous Flier, Reported Leading Disloyal Troops

MADRID, Dec. 13, (Saturday) (AP)—Open revolt, long expected in Spain as the result of political discontent, has broken out near the French frontier. At least 3000 troops at Jaca rebelled, turned their guns on the town and defied the government of Premier Damaso Berenguer.

Loyalist soldiers were marching for Huesca early today, and en route by many civilians. It was feared a battle was imminent there, where the loyal garrison had already left its barracks to join the insurgents.

CABINET ALARMED

All night the government held extraordinary all-night session in the cabinet to discuss the situation. A government spokesman explained that all the garrisons in northern Spain might be counted upon except that at Jaca.

There were rumors here, however, that members of the Cabinet, to discuss that other had joined the revolt. This spread all over Spain were arrested and imprisoned hurriedly in Madrid, Ciudad Real and other cities which have been hotbeds of suspected uprisings in the past and which are reported to have been united by the Jaca rebels.

LED BY FRANCO

The rebellious are reported to have been led at Jaca by this rebel general.

Ramon Franco, Spain's premier aviator, is reported to be at the head of the revolting forces.

Two of the soldiers killed at Jaca were a corporal, a corporal of the Civil Guard. It was reported also that the garrison there had joined the movement.

GOVERNMENT APPLIED

A strict censorship imposed over the country, no authentic news of the revolt could be obtained.

Jaca, said to be one of the strongest fortresses in Spain, was carriously estimated from 2000 to 6000 infantrymen and artillerymen. Jaca is situated near the Pyrenees mountains at the base of one of the passes.

Jaca is the seat of the revolt movement in Madrid than every other disturbance in the north of Spain. Troop trains were rushed from Jaca and a squadron of planes, under one of Spain's ablest officers in the air service, ordered to the frontier.

Martial law was immediately established over the most harmonious

Romola Group Loses Motion to Quash Charges

United States District Judge James yesterday decided that Alexander R. Hursh, former head of Romola, Inc., and twenty-nine employees and officers of the concern will have to stand trial on a charge of using the mails to defraud. The court denied a motion to quash the indictment and also denied motions for separate trials. The case will come up Monday to be set for trial.

It is charged the thirty defendants defrauded investors by misrepresenting the value of lands controlled by the corporation in Riverside county and Arizona.

Will Rogers Remarks:

BEVERLY HILLS, Dec. 12. [To the Editor of The Times:] Germany has banned that splendid film, "All Quiet on the Western Front," on account of it showing Germany losing the war. They are going to take it back and make it with a different finish. Well, they can show us losing it and they won't be far wrong, and I am sure there will be no kick.

Another disarmament conference disbanded in Geneva without doing anything but getting more suspicious of each other. If any two nations don't hate each other, why just let 'em confer on something and they will before it's over. Stop conferring and you will stop fighting.

DOUMERGUE WINS WITH "BIG STICK"

Threat of Parliamentary Dissolution Ends Strife in French Chamber

PARIS, Dec. 12. (AP)—President Doumergue today took the big stick of parliamentary dissolution out of the glass case in which it has been since 1877 and the warring political parties of the Chamber of Deputies, suddenly pacified, agreed to grant at least a measure of support to a Cabinet headed by Senator Steeg.

As a result, M. Steeg told the President tonight he will have his Ministry ready for presentation at the Elysee Palace tomorrow.

The President, in no way overstepping the limits of the constitution, let it be conveyed quietly to the leaders of the thirteen groups in the Chamber that unless a Cabinet is formed tonight he might have to "take definite measures." This was interpreted as meaning Parliament would be dissolved under Article V of the French constitution.

Within an hour the leaders of three small groups of the Center and Right-Center called on M. Steeg and informed him they were ready to co-operate providing the Radicals would lift their exclusion veto against members of the Right parties. The veto was provisionally lifted and M. Steeg set about the formation of his Ministry, completing it late tonight.

BRAZIL WILL CLAMP LID ON IMMIGRATION

RIO DE JANEIRO, Dec. 12. (AP)—Immigration from Europe to Brazil is to be forbidden for a period of six months under a new government program to solve the unemployment problem. Unofficial estimates place the number of unemployed here at 60,000.

Mayors of 210 Cities Report Increase of 11 Per Cent in Municipal Work

BY LAURENCE M. BENEDICT
"Times" Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12, (Exclusive)—A great increase in employment is reported in the public works programs of the Federal, State and municipal branches of the government throughout the entire country, according to reports received and made public today by Col. Arthur Woods, chairman of the President's emergency committee for employment.

At least 200,000 more employees are engaged on public building projects this year than at the same time last year, it is estimated on the basis of the reports thus far received.

Mayors of 210 cities, replying to inquiries from the President's committee, reported that 11 per cent more workers are employed now than at the same time a year ago. In November, 1930, a total of 248,784 workers were employed in public work construction. In November, 1929, the employees of the same cities numbered 224,698.

SUCCESS REVEALED

"Marked success has attended one of the principal efforts of the administration to increase employment in the field of public works," said Col. Woods. "The reports from mayors of these cities clearly reveal that mayors and city governments have patriotically co-operated in the effort to increase public building and construction projects. This was urged at the beginning of last winter by President Hoover, who pointed out that at a time when industrial employment was declining it seemed extremely important that as many as possible of the workers should find an opportunity to work in the field of public construction."

Of the 363 cities which have been asked for statistics on municipal employees the largest increases in employment were reported from New Britain, Ct., and Mishawaka, Ind. New Britain had a total of 1250 men at work on November 15, 1930, compared with 310 employees a year ago. Mishawaka increased its employees from 170 to 686. Other large increases were Racine, Wis., from 225 to 496; Peoria, Ill., from 672 to 1654, and Cleveland, from 9600 to 12,134.

INCREASE SHOWN

Twenty States have reported that the number of workers employed in November, 1930, totaled 182,380. In November, 1929, the same States employed 171,894. The increase is more than 6 per cent.

States which have reported are Maine, New Hampshire, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Ohio, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, South Dakota, Maryland, West Virginia, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Texas, Montana, Wyoming, New Mexico Utah and Oregon.

A sharp increase in number of workers on Federal-aid road projects has been noted within the last few months. A total of 288,732 men are on the pay roll of Federal-aid roads as of November 1, 1930. In 1929 on the same date the number of workers was 259,206. States have rapidly been qualifying for Federal aid on these road projects, and the employment of workers has shown an increase of 21 per cent within the last few months.

FOUR COMPANIES PLAN
$120,000,000 OUTLAY

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 12. (AP)—Construction programs calling for expenditures of more than $120,000,000 in 1931 were completed today by four leading California public-utility companies. Budgeted expenditures of the "Big Four" are:

Pacific Gas and Electric Company, $40,000,000.

Pacific Telephone and Telegraph, $40,000,000.

Southern California Edison, $22,000,000.

Pacific Lighting Corporation operating subsidiaries, $12,000,000.

C. O. G. Miller, president of the Pacific Lighting Corporation, expressed the sentiment of the major California utilities.

"We are going forward with our plans," he said, "making cuts of no kind due to the temporary business recession in the country. People will continue to come to California to live. They will need light and gas service."

CONTRACTORS TO TAKE BUILDING JOBS AT COST

BALTIMORE, Dec. 12. (AP)—With the aim of encouraging private construction projects and thus relieving unemployment, most of the contractors associated in the Baltimore Builders' Exchange have agreed to accept contracts for work this winter at cost, without profit to themselves.

A letter to Arthur Wood, chairman of the President's emergency committee for unemployment, announced the agreement today.

SUNSHINE POWER OF FUTURE

Dr. Millikan Says Science Already Has Answer to Problem of Coal and Oil Exhaustion

NEW YORK, Dec. 12. (AP)—Dr. Robert A. Millikan, physicist, said today that science already knows enough to outline a method of getting power out of sunshine. He predicted this will be done when coal and oil sources are exhausted, in an address before the Association of Life Insurance Presidents.

He said one other possible continuous source of energy exists in hydrogen from sea water, but with no known way of using it.

"For the past century," he said, "men have been using the sunshine bottled in coal and oil in bygone ages and this reserve will do us and our children, but what then? The answer is here, and it is not a hopeless one."

FOR ALL NEEDS

"It is this: There is enough energy sent us each day by the sun for all our needs, those present now and those reasonably in prospect, and without calling upon stored-up supplies of any kind. Two modern countries in our latitude receive from the sun in a day as much heat as is produced by all the coal burned in twenty-four hours throughout the world.

"Further, we know enough already to be able to outline the main methods by which to go to work to utilize this inflow of sunshine. It cannot be done without work or without brains. That alone makes it worth doing. But it is only an economic reason that prevents us from utilizing sunshine directly now. We are not likely to utilize it appreciably so long as coal and oil and gas are as abundant and accessible as now.

"There is but one possible continuous source of energy other than the sun, the utilization of which does not involve a violation of physical principles which have been so thoroughly established that no physicist doubts them for a moment.

SEA SECOND SOURCE

"It is this: If it were possible that the hydrogen in the water of the sea could, by any process whatever, be made to combine on the earth's surface with helium, oxygen, carbon, nitrogen, silicon, etc., energy would be released in enormous quantities by these acts and no violation of the principle of the conservation of energy or of any established thermodynamic laws would be involved in this process."

Evidence of cosmic rays, he added, indicates that this cannot take place on earth.

He sketched a future in which science will "almost indefinitely increase the satisfaction of human wants." Science, he said, creates more jobs than it destroys, adding:

"In the long run I expect science, or better, the methods of science, to go a long way toward solving the unemployment problem."

GIRLS TOLD WAY TO PICK GOOD MATE

He Should Allow Wife to Audit His Finances, Professor Declares

EVANSTON (Ill.) Dec. 12. (AP)—A business girl seeking happiness in marriage will pick a husband who permits her to audit his finances, if the advice of Dr. Edward Lyman Cornell of Northwestern University is followed.

"And," he cautioned the university co-eds for whom he outlined ten "commandments" for a good husband, "if you must live on a budget or an allowance keep a fund for yourself that you don't have to audit for your husband."

Dr. Cornell, who recently attracted wide attention by advising young business men to marry their secretaries, told the girls that they should look for the following in picking a husband:

(1.) He should allow you to audit his finances.
(2.) He should be healthy enough to swim twenty-five yards in thirty seconds.
(3.) He should be willing to rear children.
(4.) He should be ambitious and industrious.
(5.) He should be willing to make you an equal partner.
(6.) He should possess tact and a good disposition.
(7.) He should be mentally stable.
(8.) He should not be a braggart.
(9.) He should be of good character.
(10.) He should maintain a good appearance.

ACTRESS WEDS FLOUR KING'S SON

Dolores Salazar Takes Vows in Nevada With John R. Holmes

LAS VEGAS (Nev.) Dec. 13. (AP)—The marriage here yesterday of Dolores L. Salazar, 23 years of age, film actress, and John R. Holmes, 21, son of the late Payton R. Holmes, Minneapolis flour magnate, was revealed early today by District Judge William E. Orr, who performed the ceremony.

The bride announced her engagement to young Holmes last spring shortly after she obtained $17,000 damages from Ferdinand Pinney (Affinity) Earle, artist now living in Paris, for asserted breach of a premarital agreement. The engagement was denied emphatically by Mrs. Payton Holmes and her son, the bridegroom, who were residing in Minneapolis, where the young man attended the University of Minnesota.

Later the actress also denied the engagement.

In obtaining their marriage license here both the young people gave their home addresses as Los Angeles. Young Holmes attended the Hollywood High School before returning to Minneapolis to enter the university.

The marriage recalled the lengthy trial of Miss Salazar's suit for damages against Earle. She charged she met him Christmas of 1926 and he proposed to her, promising also to settle $15,000 on her before the marriage and agreeing to give her the lead in a motion picture he was producing. She said she accompanied him to Mexico City, where a mock wedding was performed.

In his answer, made by deposition, Earle said he never had proposed marriage to Miss Salazar, but she, like a ripe peach, fell into his lap at his first smile. The jury, however, awarded Miss Salazar $15,000 damages and $2000 expenses. After several attempts by Earle's attorneys to stay judgment had failed, Miss Salazar announced March 31 she had received payment and signed a satisfaction of judgment paper.

BEESEMYER AIDES SEIZED AS FRAUD QUIZ WIDENS

Another Man and Girl Arrested in $8,000,000 Swindle While Grand Jury Calls Twenty Persons

Rupert L. Fleury, vice-president and auditor of the Guaranty Building and Loan Association, was locked in the County Jail last night when he confessed complicity with Gilbert H. Beesemyer, indicted yesterday for the wrecking of the loan association. The latter's defalcations, according to his own admissions, amount to approximately $8,000,000.

Following Fleury's arrest, Miss Ethel Flanigan, head bookkeeper of the financial institution and a witness before the grand jury, was placed in the custody of a female deputy sheriff and detained in a downtown hotel.

While Beesemyer in his confession admitted turning almost $8,000,000 of company assets into his personal accounts, Fleury, according to his own and Beesemyer's statements, never made 1 cent profit from his efforts to assist his superior.

It was on the witness stand under the questions of Dist.-Atty. Fitts that Fleury broke down and admitted that he had known of Beesemyer's financial transactions for many years and, in fact, had assisted him in his weird book-keeping. Then he was ordered arrested.

WOMAN TELLS STORY

Miss Flanigan, a trusted employee of the loan association, was in the grand jury room for almost an hour and, according to Fitts, gave evidence of great importance. From what could be learned from the officials she told of the keeping of a little black ledger book which set forth the amounts of money embezzled by Beesemyer.

Both Beesemyer and Fleury told the grand jury that the bookkeeper had nothing to do with the embezzlement of any funds and did not profit by any of the transactions which wrecked the loan association.

With two officials of the loan association already in jail a complete investigation of the financial dealings of the association is scheduled for Tuesday morning, when more than a score of witnesses will appear before the grand jury.

CHIEF DEVELOPMENTS

Out of the maze of investigation yesterday which followed the midnight confession of Beesemyer Thursday, other outstanding developments were as follows:

(1.) Beesemyer was indicted by the grand jury on ten felony embezzlement counts and bail was fixed at $250,000.

(2.) Grand jury investigation was called for Tuesday with all the directors of the Guaranty Building and Loan Association, State Building and Loan Commissioner Charles A. Whitmore, his staff of experts and others ordered to be present.

(3.) Announcement by experts that the loss to the loan association will pass $8,000,000.

(4.) Announcement by experts that investors probably will salvage about 50 per cent of their deposits.

LITTLE CARE EXERCISED

(5.) Beesemyer, investigation developed, took little or no means to conceal his defalcations.

(6.) Beesemyer in his official confession blamed the Building and Loan Commission experts for not catching his defalcations years ago.

(7.) New laws governing the examination of building and loan association books probably will result from this investigation.

(8.) The amount of money taken by Beesemyer from the North American Bond and Mortgage Company was fixed at $500,000.

(9.) The books and records of several building and loan associations in which Beesemyer was an official were ordered seized by Fitts.

(10.) Personal bank accounts of various persons mentioned in connection with the investigation were ordered checked.

STORY QUICKLY TOLD

It took Beesemyer only about an hour to tell his story to the grand jury. He was questioned by Fitts, Chief Deputy District-Attorney Stewart and Dep. Dist.-Atty. Hammon.

"If the State Building and Loan Commissioner of California had thoroughly and adequately done his duty, I would never have been able to have gotten away with this money." Thus did Beesemyer explain his actions to the grand jury, according to Foreman Morris.

Examination of the loan association books came only once a year, according to Beesemyer, and then the examiner took the company figures and totals as correct.

A graphic story of the finding of the huge deficit was told by Com-

Ousting Will Be Demanded

Governor-elect Asserts He Will Ask Legislature for Immediate Removal

Blame in Beesemyer Case Placed on Loan Official; Young Hurls Answer

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 12. (AP) Governor-elect Rolph today blamed Charles A. Whitmore, State Building and Loan Commissioner, for the $8,000,000 embezzlement of Gilbert Beesemyer in Los Angeles.

Mr. Rolph said he will ask the Legislature to oust Whitmore on the ground of incompetency after he has assumed office as Governor. He denounced the "appointment of repudiated public officials" by the outgoing administration and said he will ask the Legislature to change the law and make such "death bed appointments" impossible.

Whitmore resigned last month and was reappointed by Gov. Young for a four-year term.

TEXT OF STATEMENT

In a statement to the press Rolph said:

"Since the primary election I have received hundreds of letters denouncing Whitmore as incompetent.

"Does anyone think $8,000,000 was stolen in an hour, or a night? No, it was stolen during the time the incompetent Mr. Whitmore, who has had no experience with building and loan matters, was supposed to be on the job.

"That is terrible enough. But think of saddling a man like that on my administration. I shall certainly ask the Legislature to remove him, and I shall certainly ask the Legislature to prohibit any outgoing Governor from saddling his repudiated employees on the new administration.

QUESTION ASKED

"I am going into the Governor's office with only half an administration. The other half is composed of men who attacked me during the campaign, men whom the people said they wanted out of office.

"How can anyone be held responsible for the government when he has not the power to remove the incompetents?

"Each Governor should be held responsible for his administration, and that's impossible unless the Governor has a whole administration.

"That there was something wrong in connection with this building and loan association has been gossiped for some time.

"Where was Mr. Whitmore? Why didn't he discover that $8,000,000 had been stolen?"

BAR TO MEXICANS OPPOSED

Western Farm Assembly Calls on Legislators to Carry on Fight Against Exclusion

EL PASO (Tex.) Dec. 12. (AP)—A declaration directed to Senators and Representatives of California, Texas, New Mexico, Arizona and Colorado, urging against the passage of any legislation further restricting the immigration of farm labor from Mexico, was adopted by the Central Chamber of Agriculture and Commerce here today.

"Only one common laborer was admitted for the first time into the United States between June 1 and September 30, last," said the declaration, "and adequate control of immigration from Mexico now exists. There is no justification for further legislation, which can accomplish no more restriction, yet may seriously disturb the amicable relations now existing between the United States and Mexico."

Delegates to the conference from Texas, New Mexico, Arizona, Colorado and California asserted there is no labor shortage now, but the State Department should be given authority to admit labor in times of shortage.

That a shortage of Mexican labor will develop with the return to normal conditions was the concensus of the farmers attending.

Chairman Leeman said the present problem of labor has no bearing on the unemployment situation.

"Drifters who are roving about the country do not do the work demanded by farmers," he said. "With the present stringent statutes in force with regard to Mexican immigration, farmers must devise some means to supply the demand when the present overplus of labor exists no longer."

Officers were re-elected. They are Ray Leeman, Corpus Christi, Tex., president; C. C. Teague, Santa Paula, Cal., vice-president; R. N. Wilson, San Francisco, secretary-treasurer. Directors likewise were re-elected as follows: Roland Harwell, El Paso; C. B. Moore, Los Angeles; R. P. Fleming, Las Cruces, N. M.; C. E. Barkley, Phoenix, Ariz., and C. V. Maddux, Denver, Colo.

How He Plundered Company and Tried to Make Restitution Related by Beesemyer

FITTS AND AIDES QUESTION CONFESSED SWINDLER

How He Escaped Detection Also Explained Prior to Going Before Grand Jury

Questioned in the office of Dist.-Atty. Fitts prior to going before the grand jury, Gilbert H. Beesemyer yesterday attempted to explain how he plundered his company, how he escaped detection and how he attempted to make restitution. He also stated that he intends to enter a plea of guilty.

The confessed swindler was interrogated by Fitts, Chief Deputy District Attorney Stewart, Chief Trial Deputy Beecher and Deputies Hammon, Van Cott and McKay. The highlights of the questions and answers follow:

Mr. Fitts: Mr. Beesemyer, in talking with Mr. Whitmore and Mr. Harlan Palmer this morning, I understand you have no objection to making additions to your statement.

A.: The statement as was made in the paper stands. That's the only statement I have to make and the only one that's absolutely correct. There is nothing I can say. It's right; it's clean-cut.

Q.: But it tells it in conclusion, rather than in detail. What we would like to know, naturally, and I think, frankly, Mr. Beesemyer, you owe it not only to the stockholders but you owe it to the public, if there is anybody else involved in this thing, to tell us.

A.: There is no one else involved in this.

Q.: Mr. Beesemyer, I don't see how it is humanly possible for you to do this by yourself without someone else having knowledge of it.

A.: Now, the statement I made is absolutely correct, Mr. Fitts.

Q.: It couldn't be, Mr. Beesemyer, because somebody would have to know of these things.

A.: Well, it is.

Q.: Did anybody know anything about it prior to your statement of last night, prior to your confession?

A.: Well, I made that statement, Mr. Fitts, and that's all the facts in the case. The directors knew nothing about it, as I said in the statement.

Q.: Well, Mr. Beesemyer, irrespective of the directors, if anybody else knew about it, it seems to me it is your duty to tell us, because they are still at large and if they are implicated in any wise, or participated, why, it is your duty to tell us.

A.: There is nobody that participated in that thing except myself. Now, I don't know whether you know me well enough or not, but no one is implicated in that thing in any way, shape, and I am not trying to shield anyone.

Q.: Mr. Beesemyer, how on earth could you succeed in doing it alone? Somebody was bound to check in there. How about the auditor, Fleury?

A.: Well, you know how accounts come up from downstairs and different departments, under instructions from me; this, that and the other thing; why, it's accumulated at one point and that's all there is to it.

Q.: Did anybody out of the office get a dollar of it?

A.: No sir. Well, the money was spent by me, of course, for legitimate—what I supposed was legitimate things, you know. I had no—what do you call it—

Mr. Hammon: Accomplice.

A.: Accomplice in the thing—and I had no evil intent, as far as that goes.

Q.: Of course you knew it was the company's money?

A.: Sure. The statement bears that fact.

Q.: Mr. Beesemyer, you know it wasn't spent for company purposes?

A.: Certainly.

Q.: Was an audit of the books made by an outside company?

A.: No.

Q.: Did you have an audit made of the books at all, a yearly audit of the books?

A.: No, we never did that.

Q.: So you know of no place where we could find an audit of the books?

A.: No, there isn't any because there has never been one made.

Q.: Tell us, Mr. Beesemyer, just about what procedure you adopted in taking this money. The actual cash wasn't taken, or was it?

A.: Well, eventually it would be. It wasn't actual cash taken out of the cash drawer, no.

Q.: Then how was the money taken, Mr. Beesemyer?

A.: It was taken through charge-through, I would say, regular routine business.

Q.: Just take a case and give us an example of how it was done, that's the thing I want to get at.

A.: Well, for instance, if I bought a piece of property—now, I don't say that this happened—I will tell you how it could happen—if I bought a piece of property and I gave a check on the Guaranty for the purchase of that property, that was charged up to—I instructed them to charge it up to my account.

Q.: And it was paid for with Guaranty funds?

A.: Paid for with Guaranty funds.

Q.: Title taken in your name?

A.: Yes, title taken in my name.

Q.: I notice in your statement you say that the amount involved was several millions; that is, in your statement to the directors last night. Could you approximate just how much it is?

A.: I can't tell just offhand; it is a matter of record out there. They can get that from the books. Nothing complicated about it at all.

Q.: At any time was actual cash taken?

A.: No.

Q.: Then the only process used was investments?

A.: Investments.

Mr. Beecher: Can you recall a transaction involving a specific proposition?

Mr. Stewart: In the oil deal, would that help you any?

A.: No. I will give you a transaction. When we increased our capital from $400,000 to $575,000, I paid in the entire amount by charging the overdraft account. I paid in the entire amount by charging my account and crediting the capital, see. Consequently, my personal account was overdrawn $175,000 and the capital was increased.

Mr. Hammon: Was that all in one transaction?

A.: Yes.

Mr. Stewart: Now, about the entry to your personal account of $175,000. How do you know that entry was made in the books? Did you see it made?

A.: Well, I had it run through.

Q.: But how do you know it was run through? Did you write it in yourself?

A.: Whoever it was down there; I don't know who it was.

Mr. Fitts: You got the $175,000?

A.: Well, I got the credit of that stock, you see. That stock, by the way, was never issued. The check was never cashed, but cashed to my account afterward. That's an exact transaction.

Mr. Hammon: Have you an amount in mind by which you obtained the money and used it for some purpose?

A.: No, I don't recall a single instance where I charged the account and drew cash.

Q.: Well, did you pass the check on to somebody else, in one instance? A.: Not that I recall right now.

Mr. Fitts: The reason why we are asking this, Mr. Beesemyer, from your statement in the paper this morning, I take it it is your determination to just simply plead guilty?

A.: Yes, that's right.

Mr. Hammon: In this oil enterprise that's mentioned in the newspaper. How were the amounts handled in that respect?

A.: I can't give you any specific cases, but I will tell you just how it would be handled. That's what you want to know. If the oil company needed $5000 or $1000, whichever the case would be, or any other company—

Q.: What company was it, in this instance?

A.: Well, I am not saying because I can't tell unless I get hold of the books and give you a specific transaction and follow it right through and give you the details of it. I would give the company, the Guaranty Building and Loan Company's check, and charge my account with it. That's the way it was handled. That's exactly the way.

Mr. Fitts: In other words, in these various investments you made, you simply paid for your own personal property—

A.: With a charge against my account.

Mr. Hammon: In this first instance, where you had your account charged $175,000, you received the stock of the company?

A.: The stock is still unissued, but it naturally would be issued to me.

Q.: Has any of it been issued to you?

A.: No.

Mr. Stewart: Does it stand credited to you upon the books? Do you appear of record as the owner of the stock?

A.: I presume that that's the case.

Mr. Beesemyer: I have worked until 3 o'clock in the morning, assigning all the stocks that I own, all the real estate or ninety-nine-year leases and mortgages, and then, to make it doubly sure that everything was taken care of, Mr. Wendt drew a blanket assignment, which I practically asked him to do, assigning everything that might be overlooked to the association, and, in addition to that, I left a number of quit-claim deeds and assignments of mortgage that can be filled in, if necessary, to protect. So that would save a lot of trouble, and so on. I held back nothing, absolutely nothing.

Mr. Beecher: Do you recall any description of any certain piece of real property that you quit-claimed last night?

A.: Yes, a piece of property on Ivar, just north of Hollywood Boulevard, fifty feet there, probably worth $40,000 or $50,000.

Mr. Hammon: Mr. Beesemyer, can you recall whether any of the properties which you transferred last night were purchased with company's money?

A.: I can't recall a single one piece of property, of a specific case, that was purchased with company money. That is the reason I made an absolute blanket assignment of all the personal and real property that I own, see. Just to protect the whole thing.

Mr. Fitts: Mr. Beesemyer, about what will the losses be to the company by reason of this?

A.: Well, I can't say, offhand, because it depends on the salvage out of this. If they go at it in a sane way, they will salvage a whole lot more than if they, for instance, htock that I have there—well, you know what the condition of the market is, if they go out and sacrifice that.

Q.: How much were you overdrawn last night, Mr. Beesemyer.

A.: Well, you asked me that before. I can't tell you exactly; about $7,000,000.

Mr. Fitts: Didn't the State Commission audit your books?

A.: Well, they make an audit, but it wasn't anything like the certified accountant's audit.

Q.: Didn't they find that overdraft on the books; that seven million?

A.: No.

Q.: Why not? Wasn't it carried as an overdraft?

A.: It was carried as an overdraft, but, in making up your reconcilment, it was taking your total deposits and take off this difference—there was about $10,000,000 or $11,000,000 there all the time.

Q.: What we are trying to get at is just how it was possible to keep this quiet so long.

A.: They just treated it as assets, in a way.

Q.: In other words, was the credit side there showing all this property being purchased?

A.: No, they would deduct it. For instance, if you had $100,000 of deposits and you had an overdraft of $25,000, you would show your deposits in your reconcilment, as $75,000, and then your over-draft wouldn't show up, you see?

Q.: In your reconcilment, as you call it—

A.: Well, it's a recapitulation.

Q.: What I am trying to get is, what showed? Did you carry on your books every sum on deposit to take up for that? How would you?

A.: No.

Q.: In other words, how would you cover that overdraft on your books?

A.: I didn't cover it.

Q.: It was an existing overdraft?

A.: An existing overdraft.

Q.: Would it be possible, for instance, for an auditor from this office to go in there and find that overdraft of $7,000,000?

A.: Yes, absolutely.

Q.: Then what would the auditor find from this office, assuming he would go out there before this happened, in the way of entries or anything else?

A.: He would find a personal card of mine, in red ink, showing overdraft.

Q.: What would he find showing anything to protect the company for that overdraft?

A.: Nothing. That's the reason, Mr. Fitts, that I assigned everything I have got to protect the company, as far as it would go on this.

Q.: How in the world did it escape the auditors or the examiner from the State Department that came in there—an overdraft of that much?

A.: It just did. I can't tell you that.

Q.: How often did they come in there?

A.: Well, about once a year: once in eight months.

Q.: Wasn't anything ever said about it?

A.: No.

Q.: Never called to your attention at all by any of the State departments?

A.: No sir.

Q.: When was the last time there was an auditor from the Building and Loan Commissioner people from the time of Mr. Shaw?

A.: I don't know. It must have been probably a year.

Mr. Fitts: This has been going on for about nine years, Mr. Beesemyer?

A.: Well, I can't say exactly, but it has been going on for a number of years. Now, gentlemen, there is this about it—it is a very, very simple matter, the way the accounting, the way I had ordered the accounting kept, to go out and check any particular transaction against that O.D. account; a very simple matter, very simple. You can just take, for instance, a $1000 item, $1500 or $2000, and just trace it right back to the beginning. I could help anybody do it; any auditor can very easily do it.

ROLPH SLAPS AT WHITMORE

ing Charles Whitmore as State Building and Loan Commissioner.

The Governor issued his statement after being told that his successor made comments in connection with the reported collapse of the Guaranty Building and Loan Association of Los Angeles, resulting in the arrest of Gilbert H. Beesemyer, secretary-manager, and the latter's asserted confession to defalcations totaling about $8,000,000.

"I have just been shown a statement purporting to have been issued by Mayor Rolph respecting the California Building and Loan Commissioner," Gov. Young said. "This statement is so unlike the man I have conceived the Mayor to be that I cannot believe it is authentic.

"For instance, I cannot believe that my successor would criticise me for appointing my secretary Building and Loan Commissioner, since it is obviously as appropriate to name a private secretary Building and Loan Commissioner as it would be to appoint a private secretary Superintendent of Banks.

"Neither can I believe that the Mayor claims to have received hundreds of letters denouncing the present commissioner, for I had not imagined there are that many applicants for this particular job.

"As I have said many times, I wish nothing but good fortune to the next State administration and I sincerely trust that Mayor Rolph is successful in getting as fine a body of men for State service as we have had during the past four years."

GOLDEN PLANS TO ASK INVESTIGATION

Milton M. Golden, Assemblyman for Hollywood, yesterday made the following statement: "I will demand a legislative investigation at the first session of the State Legislature in January to inquire into the building and loan situation. I am now working on some new legislation that I will introduce at the first legislative session to correct the present laxity of the building and loan laws and to make them more stringent with the idea of more thorough protection for the investor and depositor."

MRS. BEESEMYER FAITHFUL

Wife of Defalcator Refuses to Believe Husband's Amazing Confession and Sticks by Him

Unalterable faith in her husband's innocence, even in the face of his amazing confession, was expressed yesterday by Mrs. Gilbert H. Beesemyer, wife of the $8,000,000 Guarantee Building and Loan Association swindler.

Recovering from a state of collapse induced by the shock of learning her husband had been arrested, Mrs. Beesemyer remained in seclusion all day in her Hollywood home, denying herself to all excepting a few intimate friends. And it was through these friends that she gave out her expression of faith. With a loyalty born of nearly a quarter-century of happy wedlock she refused to believe her husband is the "dirty crook" he has branded himself.

"Does Mrs. Beesemyer believe, then, that her husband's confession was a fabrication?" the friends were asked.

"She believes there must be something else behind it," was the way one of them answered the question. "And she intends to stand by him through it all. And so are his friends. He has hosts of friends, you know, and they are rallying to his support."

LIKE THUNDERCLAP

Beesemyer's sensational confession and subsequent arrest struck his wife with the startling suddenness of a thunderclap, the friends declared. Not once, they insisted, during the five years he admittedly had been plundering his company's funds did she ever have reason to suspect his business affairs were of a shady nature.

The full force of the tragedy that invaded her home burst with startling suddenness on Mrs. Beesemyer when she was awakened between 3 and 4 a.m. yesterday morning by her husband who told her briefly of the night's occurrences and that he was in custody of deputy sheriffs on his way to the County Jail.

"Oh, dear," she moaned, "this can't be true," and fell into his arms as he sat on the bedside to comfort her.

"It can't be—it can't be," she cried, "You've always been so good." The woman buried her face in her hands in an attempt to hold back her pent-up grief and escape the misery that came in the night.

Outside in the still blackness with dawn not far away, stood a car from the Sheriff's office, its motor purring and waiting. A deputy was at the wheel, anxious to be gone, and two other officers were in the house with Beesemyer.

HELPS HIM PACK

Between tearful outbursts Mrs. Beesemyer helped her husband pack clean linen in a bag to take with him to the jail. During the incident, Beesemyer and two of his brothers tried to console her, but her agony was inconsolable. Often her suppressed sobs replaced strained conversation.

As he prepared to leave Mrs. Beesemyer threw herself into her husband's arms.

"I'll always stand by you, dear," she murmured through her tears, "and I'll be thinking of you every minute while you're gone."

Beesemyer, his eyes red-rimmed and lips pursed, turned quickly, picked up his bag, and nodded to the deputies that he was ready. From the house came the sobbing o fthe woman, crushed by the blow that fell between twilight and dawn.

On the way downtown Beesemyer considered stopping to see his elderly mother, but he feared the shock might be too great for her, so the cars sped on to the jail.

Mrs. Beesemyer, born Matilda Fischer, married the financier May 5, 1908, and through the more than twenty-two years of married life she has been known among her intimates for her devotion to her home. Rarely, if ever, has she taken active part in matters that had no concern with her family and household duties. The couple have one son, Elmer G. Beesemyer, still in his teens. He is out of the city at present, on a visit to relatives.

SPACIOUS HOME

The Beesemyer home at 8430 Fountain avenue, while handsomely spacious, is far from the palatial mansion one ordinarily would associate with $8,000,000. Situated on a rise at the corner of Olive Drive, it is a rambling, ten-room stucco dwelling, with red tiled roof. An especially homey touch is lent to it by the presence of a nondescript black dog, which yesterday eyed suspiciously every stranger who approached the portals, as if sensing something had gone amiss. The Beesemyers have lived there about seven years.

Hollywood is truly home to Beesemyer himself, for he was born there February 14, 1885, the son of Lillian and Sophia Beesemyer. He received his elementary education in the public schools here and then entered Southern California Business College, from which he was graduated.

FUNDS USED WISELY, SAID BEESEMYER

Guaranty Loan Association "Sound to the Core" Was Statement Last Monday

Last Monday afternoon, three days before he confessed that, during the past five years, he has plundered the Guaranty Building and Loan Association of some $8,000,000, or more than two thirds of its total resources, as set forth in its last semiannual report, Gilbert H. Beesemyer, secretary-manager of the association, issued a statement in which he declared the institution "sound to the core," and emphasizing the "wise and conservative investment of its funds."

The statement, issued in connection with the suspension of the Bank of Hollywood, of which Beesemyer was chairman of the board of directors, follows:

"The Guaranty's policy of temporarily putting into effect the legal thirty-day notice of withdrawal is in line with customary conservative building-loan procedure. This thirty-day notice constitutes the great protective wall which the State of California has constructed as an impregnable line of defense for the safety of building-loan funds. From some directions it has been implied that our policy of invoking the thirty-day requirement is too conservative in view of the fact that no question as to the financial condition of the Guaranty has entered into the procedure, and that admittedly the association is sound to the core.

"But the building-loan association is not a commercial banking institution. In order to pay interest to its savers its funds must be constantly at work. These savings funds are invested principally in amortised or monthly payment first mortgage loans on modern homes, based on appraised valuations of 50 per cent or less. Through the monthly payments these loans are constantly decreasing and the security which protects the saver's funds is steadily increasing. The experience of American building-loan associations extending over a period of 100 years has shown that this type of loan is the safest investment known in financial procedure.

"The Guaranty through wise and conservative investment of its funds, which are always working, has paid its savers interest amounting to approximately $2,000,000. The payment of this interest will continue. The Guaranty is confident that it will have the united co-operation of its 25,000 savers in carrying out its temporary precautionary policy, which upholds the century-old traditions of the American building-loan associations and vindicates the great purposes underlying the true building-loan structure. Resources of the California building-loan associations now total more than $513,110,594."

FIRST SUIT DUE TO BANK CRASH FILED

Directors of Hollywood Institution Named in Plea for Accounting Order

The first suit to hold directors of the Bank of Hollywood responsible for unpaid deposits in the bank was filed in Superior Court yesterday.

G. R. Dexter and Samuel Kress, directors, are made defendants in a demand for an accounting by William R. Hauptman, contractor, and his wife, Hannah S. Hauptman.

Mr. and Mrs. Hauptman state that during the year drawing to a close they deposited $41,900 in the bank, of which they have withdrawn only $14,000.

They ask that the court compel the two directors to account for the $27,900 still due.

The suit, which is expected to be followed by others, was filed for the Hauptmans by Attorney Nathan Goldberg.

DRAMATIC STORY RECITED OF SWINDLE DETECTED

missioner Whitmore and Milton O. Shaw, examiner for the department and an expert accountant.

Shaw, brought here from San Francisco recently to fill a position made vacant by the transfer of C. C. Barnes, former examiner here, was the first person to suspect that something was wrong with the financial structure of the building and loan company. Barnes, who made the last examination prior to Shaw, declared last night he was "bewildered" by the shortage confessed by Beesemyer. He refused, however, to make a detailed statement, declaring that all such statements must come from the head of the commission.

"I started an audit of the company's books last Monday," said Shaw yesterday. "A thing that impressed me almost immediately was that while the published value of investment certificates was approximately $10,000,000, the statement of interest paid indicated a much larger sum."

With this clew as a lead, Shaw then went to Beesemyer and demanded an explanation.

LEDGER SHOWN

"From his safe in his private office, Beesemyer took a private ledger on the debit side of which in red ink showed the astounding entry of $7,661,793.78 to the personal account of Beesemyer," said Shaw. "Beesemyer kept this ledger, I ascertained, so that each month, when the girls were totaling the investment certificates he would know exactly how much to tell them to throw out. He had to do this to make the books balance without showing the nearly $8,000,000 taken by himself. The ledger revealed that investment deposits in the company in reality exceeded $17,000,000."

Shaw said that he reported his findings to Whitmore at once, with his conclusion that undoubted irregularities existed in the accounts of the company.

QUESTIONING BEGUN

"I got in touch with Beesemyer Tuesday and questioned him until 2 a.m. Wednesday," said Whitmore, taking up the story. "He made partial admissions, but I could see that he was not telling the whole story. He was, apparently, under great stress and I knew that the breaking point was not far off. His complete confession, Thursday, therefore, was not altogether a surprise."

Whitmore declared that the ledger showing the huge red-ink deficit had never before been shown to an examiner for the Building and Loan Commission. Beesemyer, when asked about the matter, countered with the statement that no examiner had ever inquired about the existence of such a document.

"It seems to me that the building and loan examiners who visited this company during the past five years must have had their eyes closed," commented Dist.-Atty. Fitts last night after he had all the facts before him.

SURPRISE VOICED

Even Examiner Shaw admitted that he did not see how any accredited accountant could overlook the glaring discrepancy revealed by the seemingly nearly double interest paid on the published amount of the deposit certificates.

Whitmore, however, thought differently.

"The forces of the Building and Loan Commission are inadequate to provide more than an annual examination of companies under our jurisdiction, and it would have taken a keen examiner to have detected this cleverly hidden defalcation," he said. "Besides, the law does not require the examination to amount to a certified public audit."

The grand jury, however, apparently wants to hear more of both sides of the story, and late yesterday caused subpoenas to be issued for Whitmore, Shaw, Barnes and others, directing the witnesses to be present at the grand jury room Tuesday morning.

MANY WILL APPEAR

Beginning with Beesemyer only three witnesses were questioned by the grand jury yesterday, but Tuesday more than a score are scheduled to give their versions.

Fleury, who is 35 years of age and living at 580 West Dryden avenue, Glendale, followed Beesemyer before the investigating body and Miss Flanagan was the last to be heard. In all only two hours and a half were needed by the grand jury to vote the indictment against Beesemyer.

Returned before Superior Judge Wood the indictment, in ten counts, charges Beesemyer with the embezzlement of five sums from the loan association for his personal account and five sums for payment to the Elmer Oil Company. The amounts named in the indictment total $43,200.

Foreman Morris of the grand jury was unable to vote on the indictment returned against Beesemyer because the accounts of the guaranty company showed he is a depositor in the institution to the extent of $8000. Louise Mueller, court reporter, who took the transcript of the evidence presented in the grand jury room, also is a depositor in the building and loan association. Her loss is small, however, she stated.

WHERE MONEY WENT

Little could be learned as the investigation got under way just what Beesemyer had done with the huge sum embezzled over a period of more than five years.

From his own statements some $2,000,000 of the stolen money went to the Elmer Oil Company, and records already in the hands of the District Attorney's office show that seven dry holes drilled in the Santa Fe field account for most of this sum.

Real estate investments and other forms of business speculation account for the rest of the huge sum. Beesemyer told the officials, and not one cent of it was spent for any other purpose.

COMPANIES UNSHAKEN BY DEBACLE

Head of Building Loan League Says Los Angeles Concerns Are Sound

Building and loan executives in Los Angeles were not particularly concerned yesterday over the effect of the Beesemyer defalcation on the building and loan business, although it is admitted the affair has serious aspects at the moment. It is pointed out, however, that building-loan companies never have been in better cash position because of the marked tendency of idle money in the country to drift into savings institutions.

As a precautionary measure nearly a dozen of the Los Angeles companies have taken advantage of the law that permits them to demand thirty days' notice of withdrawal. Other companies elected to honor withdrawal slips on demand. Feeling the disturbance caused by the Beesemyer affair will pass in a few days.

READY FOR RUN

Because of the heavy increase of deposits in building-loan institutions in the last year most companies have built up large reserves in cash or marketable bonds and are prepared to meet extraordinary withdrawal demands. The increase in deposits has been so large, in fact, that many companies in the last few weeks have refused further deposits because of inability to employ the money at a profit.

Speaking for the building-loan companies in Los Angeles, C. H. Wade, first vice-president of the California Building Loan League and head of his own company, emphasized the point that investors with accounts in other building-loan companies should bear in mind that the trouble in the Guaranty Building and Loan Association of Hollywood was in no way attributable to anything fundamentally wrong with the building and loan business.

ONE-MAN TROUBLE

"The trouble was caused entirely," he said, "by the dishonesty of one man and this same thing has happened many times before with other men in fiduciary capacities. Because of the gross dishonesty of this one man it is not fair to assume that the building and loan business, as a business, is not fundamentally strong or that money invested in other associations is not safely invested.

"The building and loan business in the State of California as a whole appears to be in a very satisfactory condition. Building and loan associations have been successfully operated in the State for more than forty years and there is every reason to believe they will continue to be safe and profitable organizations [illegible] operative investments.

...ANCIER'S ... WELLS ...TTACHED

...en in Custody of ... on Writ Issued in ...Company Suit

...teen oil wells owned by Gil- ...H. Beesemyer, or in which he ...interested financially, yesterday ...were in the custody of the Sheriff's office by virtue of a writ of attachment emanating from a suit filed in Superior Court.

The suit, according to papers on file in the office of Capt. Jewell of the civil department, was brought by the Alco Tool Company, which seeks to collect $35,000 from the Elmer Company, Ltd., E. N. Moore and Gilbert H. Beesemyer.

Following receipt of the attachment, George Barton, assistant chief civil deputy, ordered a sheriff's custodian to take possession of each of the wells, eight of which are in Venice and six at Signal Hill.

Descriptions in the documents show that some of the Venice wells are located on property of Milo Bekins, Lloyd and Rodney Pantages, Clair W. Ward and E. W. Murphy. The wells at Signal Hill are known as the Elmer wells.

In addition the civil department of the Sheriff's office was instructed to hold all money, goods and credits which might be due the defendants from several oil companies and other agencies in Los Angeles and Long Beach. Oil companies and others named are:

Petroleo Syndicate, Hancock Oil Company, Petrol Corporation, General Petroleum Corporation, Shell Oil Company, Macmillan Petroleum Corporation, Standard Gasoline Company, Pan-California Oil Corporation, T. L. McCutcheon, Federal receiver, 518 C. C. Chapman Building; Del Rey Oil and Refining Company, and Mark Woolrey, Federal receiver, and the Citizens' National Bank.

He kept ... set of records to cover his peculations, which were so cunningly devised that it was almost impossible to locate the defalcation. Mr. Beesemyer was in such complete control of the Guaranty that he seems to have been able to do anything he pleased without let or hindrance.

OTHERS UNAFFECTED

"The situation as revealed by Mr. Beesemyer's confession is deplorable and the loss to his investors is a serious matter, much to be regretted by all. The investing public should not in fairness to other sound financial institutions feel that because of Beesemyer's defalcation investors in all building and loan associations are unsafe. In no other association in the State of which I have knowledge does any other one man have such complete control of the affairs of the association as to permit such a thing to occur, and no one need fear that the same practice is being carried on by other associations.

"Auditors are now working on the books of the Guaranty Building and Loan Association and until their work is completed it is impossible to say how great the loss will be, but it is hoped that a complete audit will disclose that the conditions are not as bad as they now appear."

MURMUR HEARD IN DRYS RANKS

Strategy Board's Members Not Satisfied

Hoover Pledged Support by Head of W.C.T.U.

Stewart and Howard Tell Need of Unity

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12. (AP)—Dissatisfaction over conditions within the dry ranks was expressed today by two members of the temperance group's new "board of unified strategy," while a third, Mrs. Ella A. Boole, president of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, called upon President Hoover to say the W.C.T.U. had supported him in 1928 and is for him now.

The two who objected to the present set-up of the dry organizations are Oliver W. Stewart, president of the flying squadron foundation, and Clinton Howard, chairman of the National United Committee for Law Enforcement. Both were appointed Wednesday to the strategy board of sixteen chosen by the national conference of organizations supporting the Eighteenth Amendment to map out plans for the defense of prohibition in the coming campaign.

CALLED INADEQUATE

Stewart prepared today to resign. Stewart said he believes it will be impossible for the existing "heads of national dry organizations to furnish the 'united command'" needed. Contending the strategy board would be all right as far as it went, but it would be "inadequate," Stewart said his organization is setting out to establish local units favoring prohibition which would be tied together in towns, cities, counties, districts and States.

"By the end of 1931," he said, "we will have an organization no politician could afford to ignore while the board of strategy will hardly have gotten under way after the complicated procedure it must go through to complete its organization."

NEED LEADERS

In an address before his committee for law enforcement in a joint meeting with the International Reform Federation, Howard asserted "there is not today a proficient dry leader listed among the executive heads of the dry organizations strong enough to command the confidence and support" of the temperance groups.

"If every dry organization, with the exception of the W.C.T.U. and the Woman's National Committee for Law Enforcement, went out of commission, the dry cause would profit by their decrease," he asserted.

Among the predictions Howard made was that if the Republican party adopted a wet plank or a wet candidate in 1932 it is scheduled for defeat, although he said the Democratic party with Gov. Roosevelt of ...w York, an anti-prohibitionist, ... a chance to win unless there is ... real organization of the dry ...

RAIL RUMOR STIRS JAPAN TO PROTEST

Envoy Sent to Mukden to Protect South Manchuria Line's Interest

TOKIO, Dec. 12. (AP)—A representative of the Japanese government was en route to Mukden today to negotiate for security of Japan's railway and economic interests in Southern Manchuria, where press reports said foreign capital, particularly American, is planning a railway building campaign.

The new railways, it is believed, may compete with the South Manchurian Railway, owned by the Japanese government, which holds a lease on the Kwantung Peninsula.

Elichi Kimura, director of the railway, was instructed by Japan to confer with Chang Hsueh-liang, Governor of Manchuria, for solution of troublesome problems and to clarify Japan's attitude concerning proposed railways, which some quarters assert will menace Japanese economic interests. This was the first move Japan had made in eighteen months to assert treaty rights pertaining to Manchurian railways.

WESTERN RAIL DEAL APPROVED

Denver and Rio Grande Must Build Dotsero Cutoff

Moffat Tunnel Trackage Affected by Action

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12. (AP)—The Interstate Commerce Commission today approved another step toward carrying out its idea of consolidating the railroads of the country into twenty-one major systems.

It approved the acquisition of the Denver and Salt Lake Railroad, also known as the Moffat line, operating 232 miles of important trackage, by the Denver and Rio Grande Western, which in turn is controlled jointly by the Missouri Pacific and Western Pacific railroads. All these lines are included in the commission's designated Missouri Pacific system.

The commission refused to touch a dispute between the Moffat Tunnel League, which owns the Moffat tunnel through the Continental Divide, and the railroads over a lease of the tunnel to the Moffat line. The commission held this was a matter for the courts and negotiation.

The commissioners did, however, attach to their decision the condition the Rio Grande must build the Dotsero cut-off from Orested on the Moffat line to Dotsero on the Rio Grande; purchase for cash at not to exceed $155 a share any stock in the Moffat line offered it within six months after the order in the case is issued, and must establish through routing with any western carrier the commission may permit to be built in the future.

The order was withheld until the Rio Grande files an "unqualified acceptance" of all conditions prescribed in the opinion.

The Dotsero cutoff will be forty one miles long and cost about $3,800,000. It cuts off 173 miles in distance between Denver and Dotsero. Work must be started within six months after the final order is issued, and completed in two years.

YOUTH TELLS OF SLAUGHTER

Mystery Surrounding Murder of Entire North Dakota Family May Be Cleared

WILLISTON (N. D.) Dec. 12. (AP)—A tangled tale by a 22-year-old farmer told piecemeal and with unexplained variations and gaps, tonight had revealed the slaying of an entire family near Schafer, N. D., but left the identity of the slayer and a motive for the crime obscure.

Bodies of four of the victims and parts of a fifth, all members of the Albert E. Haven family, were recovered yesterday while search for a sixth, that of Mrs. Haven, was being pressed tonight, after the young farmer, Charles Bannon, had told officers where they were buried.

Bannon told how the family was slain by Mrs. Haven with a hammer during a sudden fit of insanity and said he helped her bury the victims, but a short time later admitted her body, too, was buried on the farm. Despite this the youth steadfastly denied he was responsible for the slayings. He was under almost constant questioning while search was being made for Mrs. Haven's grave.

The Haven family had been missing from their home since February 10, last, while Bannon and his father have occupied the farm since that time, asserting they rented the place. The elder Bannon disappeared six weeks ago, but officials say they have learned he wrote to his son on the 2nd inst. from Oswego, Or.

BOULDER DAM'S MILLIONS VOTED

Interior Department Supply Bill Passes House

Arizona Democrat Defeated in Obstruction Move

De Priest Leads Battle for Negro Library Fund

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12. (AP)—The Interior Department supply bill carrying $15,000,000 for work on the Boulder Canyon project during the next fiscal year was passed by the House today after a provision prohibiting pay increases to classified employees had been removed.

The bill appropriates $68,554,106 for all departmental activities, an increase of $5,642,482 over current appropriations.

An effort by Representative Douglas, Democrat, Arizona, to block the appropriation for the Boulder Canyon Dam was defeated.

Controversy over the measure, the second supply bill passed by the House this session, centered on the Federal pay provision and a $400,000 appropriation for a library at Howard University, a local Negro institution. Representative De Priest, Negro Republican, Illinois, defended the library appropriation, directing his remarks at southern Democrats.

How He Plundered Company and Tried to Make Restitution Related by Beesemyer

FITTS AND AIDES QUESTION CONFESSED SWINDLER

How He Escaped Detection Also Explained Prior to Going Before Grand Jury

Questioned in the office of Dist.-Atty. Fitts prior to going before the grand jury, Gilbert H. Beesemyer yesterday attempted to explain how he plundered his company, how he escaped detection and how he attempted to make restitution. He also stated that he intends to enter a plea of guilty.

The confessed swindler was interrogated by Fitts, Chief Deputy District Attorney Stewart, Chief Trial Deputy Beecher and Deputies Hammon, Van Cott and McKay. The highlights of the questions and answers follow:

Mr. Fitts: Mr. Beesemyer, in talking with Mr. Whitmore and Mr. Marian Palmer this morning, I understand you have no objection to making additions to your statement.

A.: The statement as was made in the paper stands. That's the only statement I have to make and the only one that's absolutely correct. There is nothing I can say. It's right; it's clean-cut.

Q.: But it tells it in conclusion, rather than in detail. What we would like to know, naturally, and I think, frankly, Mr. Beesemyer, you owe it not only to the stockholders but you owe it to the public, if there is anybody else involved in this thing, to tell us.

A.: There is no one else involved in this.

Q.: Mr. Beesemyer, I don't see how it is humanly possible for you to do this by yourself without someone else having knowledge of it.

A.: Now, the statement I made is absolutely correct, Mr. Fitts.

Q.: It couldn't be, Mr. Beesemyer, because somebody would have to know of these things.

A.: Well, it is.

Q.: Did anybody know anything about it prior to your statement of last night, prior to your confession?

A.: Well, I made that statement, Mr. Fitts, and that's all the facts in the case. The directors knew nothing about it, as I said in the statement.

Q.: Well, Mr. Beesemyer, irrespective of the directors, if anybody else knew about it, it seems to me it is your duty to tell us, because they are still at large and if they are implicated in any wise, or participated, why, it is your duty to tell us.

A.: There is nobody that participated in that thing except myself. Now, I don't know whether you know me well enough or not, but no one is implicated in that thing in any way, shape, and I am not trying to shield anyone.

Q.: Mr. Beesemyer, how on earth could you succeed in doing it alone? Somebody was bound to check in there. How about the auditor, Fleury?

A.: Well, you know how accounts come up from downstairs and different departments, under instructions from me; this, that and the other thing; why, it's accumulated at one point and that's all there is to it.

Q.: Did anybody out of the office get a dollar of it?

A.: No sir. Well, the money was spent by me, of course, for legitimate—what I supposed was legitimate things, you know. I had no—what do you call it—

Mr. Hammon: Accomplice.

A.: Accomplice in the thing—and I had no evil intent, as far as that goes.

Q.: Of course you knew it was the company's money?

A.: Sure. The statement bears that fact.

Q.: Mr. Beesemyer, you know it wasn't spent for company purposes?

A.: Certainly.

Q.: Was an audit of the books made by an outside company—

A.: No.

Q.: Did you have—of the books—of the books—

A.: No, I—

Q.: So—where—recall any—piece of—claimed—

A.: [illegible]—single—specific—with com—reason I—get assign—and real—see. Just to—ing.

Q.: [illegible]—Beesemyer, about—en be to the com—of this?

A.: I can't say, offhand, because it depends on the salvage out of this. If they go at it in a sane way, they will salvage a whole lot more than if they, for instance, htock that I have there—well, you know what the condition of the market is, if they go out and sacrifice that.

Q.: How much were you overdrawn last night, Mr. Beesemyer.

A.: Well, you asked me that before. I can't tell you exactly; about $7,000,000.

Mr. Fitts: Didn't the State Commission audit your books?

A.: Well, they make an audit, but it wasn't anything like the certified accountant's audit.

Q.: Didn't they find that overdraft on the books; that seven million?

A.: No.

Q.: Why not? Wasn't it carried as an overdraft?

A.: It was carried as an overdraft, but, in making up your reconcilment, it was taking your total deposits and take off this difference—there was about $10,000,000 or $11,000,000 there all the time.

Q.: What we are trying to get at is just how it was possible to keep this quiet so long.

A.: They just treated it as assets, in a way.

Q.: In other words, was the credit side there showing all this property being purchased?

A.: No, they would deduct it. For instance, if you had $100,000 of deposits and you had an overdraft of $25,000, you would show your deposits in your reconcilment, as $75,000, and then your over-draft wouldn't show up, you see?

Q.: In your reconcilment, as you call it—

A.: Well, it's a recapitulation.

Q.: What I am trying to get is, what showed? Did you carry on your books every sum on deposit to take up for that? How would you?

A.: No.

Q.: In other words, how would you cover that overdraft on your books?

A.: I didn't cover it.

Q.: It was an existing overdraft?

A.: An existing overdraft.

Q.: Would it be possible, for instance, for an auditor from this office to go in there and find that overdraft of $7,000,000?

A.: Yes, absolutely.

Q.: Then what would the auditor find from this office, assuming he would go out there before this happened, in the way of entries or anything else?

A.: He would find a personal card of mine, in red ink, showing overdraft.

Q.: What would he find showing anything to protect the company for that overdraft?

A.: Nothing. That's the reason, Mr. Fitts, that I assigned everything I have got to protect the company, as far as it would go on this.

Q.: How in the world did it escape the auditors or the examiner from the State Department that came in there—an overdraft of that much?

A.: It just did. I can't tell you that.

Q.: How often did they come in there?

A.: Well, about once a year: once in eight months.

Q.: Wasn't anything ever said about it?

A.: No.

Q.: Never called to your attention at all by any of the State departments?

A.: No sir.

Q.: When was the last time there was an auditor from the Building and Loan Commissioner people from the time of Mr. Shaw?

A.: I don't know. It must have been probably a year.

Mr. Fitts: This has been going on for about nine years, Mr. Beesemyer?

A.: Well, I can't say exactly, but it has been going on for a number of years. Now, gentlemen, there is this about it—it is a very, very simple matter, the way the accounting, the way I had ordered the accounting kept, to go out and check any particular transaction against that O.D. account; a very simple matter, very simple. You can just take, for instance, a $1000 item, $1500 or $3000, and just trace it right back to the beginning. I could help anybody do it; any auditor can very easily do it.

Mr. Stewart: Does it stand credited to you upon the books? Do you appear of record as the owner of the stock?

A.: I presume that that's the case.

Mr. Beesemyer: I have worked until 3 o'clock in the morning, assigning all the stocks that I own, all the real estate or ninety-nine-year leases and mortgages, and then, to make it doubly sure that everything was taken care of, Mr. Wendt drew a blanket assignment, which I practically asked him to do, assigning everything that might be overlooked to the association, and, in addition to that, I left a number of—claim deeds and assign—age that can be filled to protect. So that trouble, and so—ning, absolute—

Mr. Hammon: Was that all in one transaction?

A.: Yes.

Mr. Stewart: Now, about the entry to your personal account of $175,000. How do you know that entry was made in the books? Did you see it made?

A.: Well, I had it run through.

Q.: But how do you know it was run through? Did you write it in yourself?

A.: Whoever it was down there; I don't know who it was.

Mr. Fitts: You got the $175,000?

A.: Well, I got the credit of that stock, you see. That stock, by the way, was never issued. The check was never cashed, but cashed to my account afterward. That's an exact transaction.

Mr. Hammon: Have you an amount in mind by which you obtained the money and used it for some purpose?

A.: No, I don't recall a single instance where I charged the account and drew cash.

Q.: Well, did you pass the check on to somebody else, in one instance? A.: Not that I recall right now.

Mr. Fitts: The reason why we are asking this, Mr. Beesemyer, from your statement in the paper this morning, I take it it is your determination to just simply plead guilty?

A.: Yes, that's right.

Mr. Hammon: In this oil enterprise that's mentioned in the newspaper. How were the amounts handled in that respect?

A.: I can't give you any specific cases, but I will tell you just how it would be handled. That's what you want to know. If the oil company needed $5000 or $1000, whichever the case would be, or any other company—

Q.: What company was it, in this instance?

A.: Well, I am not saying because I can't tell unless I get hold of the books and give you a specific transaction and follow it right through and give you the details of it. I would give the company, the Guaranty Building and Loan Company's check, and charge my account with it. That's the way it was handled. That's exactly the way.

Mr. Fitts: In other words, in these various investments you made, you simply paid for your own personal property—

A.: With a charge against my account.

Mr. Hammon: In this first instance, where you had your account charged $175,000, you received the stock of the company?

A.: The stock is still unissued, but it naturally would be issued to me.

Q.: Has any of it been issued to you?

A.: No.

Mr. Stewart: Does it stand credited to you upon the books? Do you appear of record as the owner of the stock?

A.: I presume that that's the case.

Mr. Beesemyer: I have worked until 3 o'clock in the morning, assigning all the stocks that I own, all the real estate or ninety-nine-year leases and mortgages, and then, to make it doubly sure that everything was taken care of, Mr. Wendt drew a blanket assignment, which I practically asked him to do, assigning everything that might be overlooked to the association, and, in addition to that, I left a number of—claim deeds and assign—age that can be filled to protect. Mr. Fitts: In other words, in these various investments you made, you simply paid for your own personal property—

A.: With a charge against my account.

Mr. Hammon: In this first instance, where you had your account charged $175,000, you received the stock of the company?

A.: The stock is still unissued, but it naturally would be issued to me.

Q.: Has any of it been issued to you?

A.: No.

Mr. Stewart: Does it stand credited to you upon the books? Do you appear of record as the owner of the stock?

A.: I presume that that's the case.

Mr. Beesemyer: I have worked until 3 o'clock in the morning, assigning all the stocks that I own, all the real estate or ninety-nine-year leases and mortgages, and then, to make it doubly sure that everything was taken care of, Mr. Wendt drew a blanket assignment, which I practically asked him to do, assigning everything that might be overlooked to the association, and, in addition to that, I left a number of—claim deeds and assign—age that can be filled to protect. So that trouble, and so—ning, absolute—

Mr. Hammon: Was that all in one transaction?

A.: Yes.

Mr. Stewart: Now, about the entry to your personal account of $175,000. How do you know that

ing Charles Whitmore as State Building and Loan Commissioner.

The Governor issued his statement after being told that his successor made comments in connection with the reported collapse of the Guaranty Building and Loan Association of Los Angeles, resulting in the arrest of Gilbert H. Beesemyer, secretary-manager, and the latter's asserted confession to defalcations totaling about $8,000,000.

"I have just been shown a statement purporting to have been issued by Mayor Rolph respecting the California Building and Loan Commissioner," Gov. Young said. "This statement is so unlike the man I have conceived the Mayor to be that I cannot believe it is authentic.

"For instance, I cannot believe that my successor would criticise me for appointing my secretary Building and Loan Commissioner, since it is obviously as appropriate to name a private secretary Building and Loan Commissioner as it would be to appoint a private secretary Superintendent of Banks.

"Neither can I believe that the Mayor claims to have received hundreds of letters denouncing the present commissioner, for I had not imagined there are that many applicants for this particular job.

"As I have said many times, I wish nothing but good fortune to the next State administration and I sincerely trust that Mayor Rolph is successful in getting as fine a body of men for State service as we have had during the past four years."

GOLDEN PLANS TO ASK INVESTIGATION

Milton M. Golden, Assemblyman for Hollywood, yesterday made the following statement: "I will demand a legislative investigation at the first session of the State Legislature in January to inquire into the building and loan situation. I am now working on some new legislation that I will introduce at the first legislative session to correct the present laxity of the building and loan laws and to make them more stringent with the idea of more thorough protection for the investor and depositor."

MRS. BEESEMYER FAITHFUL

Wife of Defalcator Refuses to Believe Husband's Amazing Confession and Sticks by Him

Unalterable faith in her husband's innocence, even in the face of his amazing confession, was expressed yesterday by Mrs. Gilbert H. Beesemyer, wife of the $8,000,000 Guarantee Building and Loan Association swindler.

Recovering from a state of collapse induced by the shock of learning her husband had been arrested, Mrs. Beesemyer remained in seclusion all day in her Hollywood home, denying herself to all excepting a few intimate friends. And it was through these friends that she gave out her expression of faith. With a loyalty born of nearly a quarter-century of happy wedlock she refused to believe her husband is the "dirty crook" he has branded himself.

"Does Mrs. Beesemyer believe, then, that her husband's confession was a fabrication?" the friends were asked.

"She believes there must be something else behind it," was the way one of them answered the question. "And she intends to stand by him through it all. And so are his friends. He has hosts of friends, you know, and they are rallying to his support."

LIKE THUNDERCLAP

Beesemyer's sensational confession and subsequent arrest struck his wife with the startling suddenness of a thunderclap, the friends declared. Not once, they insisted, during the five years he admittedly had been plundering his company's funds did she ever have reason to suspect his business affairs were of a shady nature.

The full force of the tragedy that invaded her home burst with startling suddenness on Mrs. Beesemyer when she was awakened between 3 and 4 a.m. yesterday morning by her husband who told her briefly of the night's occurrences and that he was in custody of deputy sheriffs on his way to the County Jail.

"Oh, dear," she moaned, "this can't be true," and fell into his arms as he sat on the bedside to comfort her.

"It can't be—it can't be," she cried, "You've always been so good." The woman buried her face in her hands in an attempt to hold back her pent-up grief and escape the misery that came in the night.

Outside in the still blackness with dawn not far away, stood a car from the Sheriff's office, its motor purring and waiting. A deputy was at the wheel, anxious to be gone, and two other officers were in the house with Beesemyer.

HELPS HIM PACK

Between tearful outbursts Mrs. Beesemyer helped her husband pack clean linen in a bag to take with him to the jail. During the incident, Beesemyer and two of his brothers tried to console her, but her agony was inconsolable. Often her suppressed sobs replaced strained conversation.

As he prepared to leave Mrs. Beesemyer threw herself into her husband's arms.

"I'll always stand by you, dear," she murmured through her tears, "and I'll be thinking of you every minute while you're gone."

Beesemyer, his eyes red-rimmed and lips pursed, turned quickly, picked up his bag, and nodded to the deputies that he was ready. From the house came the sobbing o fthe woman, crushed by the blow that fell between twilight and dawn.

On the way downtown Beesemyer considered stopping to see his elderly mother, but he feared the shock might be too great for her, so the cars sped on to the jail.

Mrs. Beesemyer, born Matilda Fischer, married the financier May 5, 1908, and through the more than twenty-two years of married life she has been known among her intimates for her devotion to her home. Rarely, if ever, has she taken active part in matters that had no concern with her family and household duties. The couple have one son, Elmer G. Beesemyer, still in his 'teens. He is out of the city at present, on a visit to relatives.

SPACIOUS HOME

The Beesemyer home at 3430 Fountain avenue, while handsomely spacious, is far from the palatial mansion one ordinarily would associate with $8,000,000. Situated on a rise at the corner of Olive Drive, it is a rambling, ten-room stucco dwelling, with red tiled roof. An especially homey touch is lent to by the presence of a nondescript black dog, which yesterday eyed suspiciously every stranger who approached the portals, as if sensing something had gone amiss. The Beesemyers have lived there about seven years.

Hollywood is truly home to Beesemyer himself, for he was born there February 14, 1885, the son of Lillian and Sophia Beesemyer. He received his elementary education in the public schools here and then entered Southern California Business College, from which he was graduated.

FUNDS USED WISELY, SAID BEESEMYER

Guaranty Loan Association "Sound to the Core" Was Statement Last Monday

Last Monday afternoon, three days before he confessed that, during the past five years, he has plundered the Guaranty Building and Loan Association of some $8,000,000, or more than two thirds of its total resources, as set forth in its last semiannual report, Gilbert H. Beesemyer, secretary-manager of the association, issued a statement in which he declared the institution "sound to the core," and emphasizing the "wise and conservative investment of its funds."

The statement, issued in connection with the suspension of the Bank of Hollywood, of which Beesemyer was chairman of the board of directors, follows:

"The Guaranty's policy of temporarily putting into effect the legal thirty-day notice of withdrawal is in line with customary conservative building-loan procedure. This thirty-day notice constitutes the great protective wall which the State of California has constructed as an impregnable line of defense for the safety of building-loan funds. From some directions it has been implied that our policy of invoking the thirty-day requirement is too conservative in view of the fact that no question as to the financial condition of the Guaranty has entered into the procedure, and that admittedly the association is sound to the core.

"But the building-loan association is not a commercial banking institution. In order to pay interest to its savers its funds must be constantly at work. These savings funds are invested principally in amortized or monthly payment first mortgage loans on modern homes, based on appraised valuations of 50 per cent or less. Through the monthly payments these loans are constantly decreasing and the security which protects the saver's funds is steadily increasing. The experience of American building-loan associations extending over a period of 100 years has shown that this type of loan is the safest investment known in financial procedure.

"The Guaranty through wise and conservative investment of its funds, which are always working, has paid its savers interest amounting to approximately $2,000,000. The payment of this interest will continue. The Guaranty is confident that it will have the united co-operation of its 25,000 savers in carrying out its temporary precautionary policy, which upholds the century-old traditions of the American building-loan associations and vindicates the great purposes underlying the true building-loan structure. Resources of the California building-loan associations now total more than $513,-110,594."

FIRST SUIT DUE TO BANK CRASH FILED

Directors of Hollywood Institution Named in Plea for Accounting Order

The first suit to hold directors of the Bank of Hollywood responsible for unpaid deposits in the bank was filed in Superior Court yesterday.

G. R. Dexter and Samuel Kress, directors, are made defendants in a demand for an accounting by William R. Hauptman, contractor, and his wife, Hannah S. Hauptman.

Mr. and Mrs. Hauptman state that during the year drawing to a close they deposited $41,900 in the bank, of which they have withdrawn only $14,000.

They ask that the court compel the two directors to account for the $27,900 still due.

The suit, which is expected to be followed by others, was filed for the Hauptmans by Attorney Nathan Goldberg.

DRAMATIC STORY RECITED OF SWINDLE DETECTION

missioner Whitmore and Milton O. Shaw, examiner for the department and an expert accountant.

Shaw, brought here from San Francisco recently to fill a position made vacant by the transfer of C. C. Barnes, former examiner here, was the first person to suspect that something was wrong with the financial structure of the building and loan company. Barnes, who made the last examination prior to Shaw, declared last night he was "bewildered" by the shortage confessed by Beesemyer. He refused, however, to make a detailed statement, declaring that all such statements must come from the head of the commission.

"I started an audit of the company's books last Monday," said Shaw yesterday. "A thing that impressed me almost immediately was that while the published value of investment certificates was approximately $10,000,000, the statement of interest paid indicated a much larger sum."

With this clew as a lead, Shaw then went to Beesemyer and demanded an explanation.

LEDGER SHOWN

"From his safe in his private office, Beesemyer took a private ledger on the debit side of which in red ink showed the astounding entry of $7,661,783.78 to the personal account of Beesemyer," said Shaw. "Beesemyer kept this ledger, I ascertained, so that each month, when the girls were totaling the investment certificates he would know exactly how much to tell them to throw out. He had to do this to make the books balance without showing the nearly $8,000,000 taken by himself. The ledger revealed that investment deposits in the company in reality exceeded $17,-000,000."

Shaw said that he reported his findings to Whitmore at once, with his conclusion that undoubted irregularities existed in the accounts of the company.

QUESTIONING BEGUN

"I got in touch with Beesemyer Tuesday and questioned him until 2 a.m. Wednesday," said Whitmore, taking up the story. "He made partial admissions, but I could see that he was not telling the whole story. He was, apparently, under great stress and I knew that the breaking point was not far off. His complete confession, Thursday, therefore, was not altogether a surprise."

Whitmore declared that the ledger showing the huge red-ink deficit had never before been shown to an examiner for the Building and Loan Commission. Beesemyer, when asked about the matter, countered with the statement that no examiner had ever inquired about the existence of such a document.

"It seems to me that the building and loan examiners who visited this company during the past five years must have had their eyes closed," commented Dist.-Atty. Fitts last night after he had all the facts before him.

SURPRISE VOICED

Even Examiner Shaw admitted that he did not see how any accredited accountant could overlook the glaring discrepancy revealed by the seemingly nearly double interest paid on the published amount of the deposit certificates.

Whitmore, however, thought differently.

"The forces of the Building and Loan Commission are inadequate to provide more than an annual examination of companies under our jurisdiction, and it would have taken a keen examiner to have detected this cleverly hidden defalcation," he said. "Besides, the law does not require the examination to amount to a certified public audit."

The grand jury, however, apparently wants to hear more of both sides of the story, and late yesterday caused subpoenas to be issued for Whitmore, Shaw, Barnes and others, directing the witnesses to be present at the grand jury room Tuesday morning.

MANY WILL APPEAR

Beginning with Beesemyer only three witnesses were questioned by the grand jury yesterday, but Tuesday more than a score are scheduled to give their versions.

Fleury, who is 35 years of age and living at 580 West Dryden avenue, Glendale, followed Beesemyer before the investigating body and Miss Flanagan was the last to be heard. In all only two hours and a half were needed by the grand jury to vote the indictment against Beesemyer.

Returned before Superior Judge Wood the indictment, in ten counts, charges Beesemyer with the embezzlement of five sums from the loan association for his personal account and five sums for payment to the Elmer Oil Company. The amounts named in the indictment total $43,250.

Foreman Morris of the grand jury was unable to vote on the indictment returned against Beesemyer because the accounts of the guaranty company showed he is a depositor in the institution to the extent of $8000. Louise Mueller, court reporter, who took the transcript of the evidence presented in the grand jury room, also is a depositor in the building and loan association. Her loss is small, however, she stated.

WHERE MONEY WENT

Little could be learned as the investigation got under way just what Beesemyer had done with the huge sum embezzled over a period of more than five years.

From his own statements some $2,000,000 of the stolen money went to the Elmer Oil Company, and records already in the hands of the District Attorney's office show that seven dry holes drilled in the Santa Fe field account for most of this sum.

Real estate investments and other forms of business speculation account for the rest of the huge sum. Beesemyer told the officials, and not one cent of it was spent for any other purpose.

GENERAL LOAN SYSTEM UPHELD

Whitmore Expresses Faith in State Institutions

Commissioner Tells Views on Guaranty Crash

Two Reasons Given for Preventing Thefts

In a statement expressing [illegible] in the stability and integ[illegible] of the general system of build[illegible] and loan associations of Californ[illegible] Charles A. Whitmore, State Build[illegible] and Loan Commissioner, late [illegible] today made public an official [illegible] ries of facts connected with [illegible] embezzling of the Guaranty Bu[illegible] and Loan Association by Gil[illegible] H. Beesemyer.

"Inability of any agency to [illegible] test an infallible system for det[illegible] building and loan associations [illegible] the State have grown faster t[illegible] the machinery for supervising th[illegible] resulting to Whitmore, are [illegible] personal factors underlying [illegible] Beesemyer's huge embezzlement[illegible]

Asserting that the institu[illegible] managed by the self-confes[illegible] embezzler, "is the conspicuous [illegible] exception" among such institution[illegible] in the State, Commissioner Whitm[illegible] said he has effected improveme[illegible] in his department which not [illegible] resulted in exposure of the fra[illegible] real condition of the Hollywood [illegible] association, but will materially [illegible] close opportunity for a recurren[illegible]

WHITMORE'S STATEMENT

His statement follows in full:

"The present distressing situa[illegible] in the Guaranty Building [illegible] Loan Association of Hollywood [illegible] relates two facts.

"The first of these is the ax[illegible] among banks and bankers t[illegible] there is no infallible way of [illegible] ting defalcations from wil[illegible] Beesemyer had complete control [illegible] organization and was willing [illegible] not going to jail. In such a c[illegible] in regulating or supervising dep[illegible] must ran anticipate the facts.

"The second of these is the f[illegible] fact for some years past and u[illegible] very recently building and loan [illegible] associations in California have gr[illegible] more, faster than the machinery [illegible] the State for their examination [illegible] supervision. Former State adm[illegible] sections apparently had not b[illegible] increased by this obvious fact.

"The building and loan asso[illegible] the people themselves had ta[illegible] an active interest in their own behalf a[illegible] far to that taken by the lead[illegible] bers of the State when in [illegible] they collaborated to create the m[illegible] basis bank act in the nat[illegible] which established an adequate [illegible] supervising department and provi[illegible] the funds to operate it.

SMALL STAFF

"When I assumed the office [illegible] building and Loan Commissioner [illegible] August of 1929, I found an ina[illegible] state department consisting of [illegible] people, including only three exa[illegible] iners—and this department [illegible] supposed to examine and super[illegible] 1,200 associations with resources [illegible] over $400,000,000.

"I have built up an efficient [illegible] organization with a field force [illegible] of examiners and appraise[illegible] capable of giving a yearly examin[illegible] tion to all associations, and [illegible] special research as may be requir[illegible] I have done it in the shortest ti[illegible] possible. To the credit of the bu[illegible] ing and loan associations in C[illegible] fornia, be it said that in gen[illegible] ral department has had the utm[illegible] co-operation and our examinati[illegible] have disclosed generally a sou[illegible] and wholesome situation.

"The condition of the Guara[illegible] Building and Loan Association [illegible] Hollywood is the conspicuous [illegible] exception. It is the result of sec[illegible] tion diabolically clever defalcati[illegible] on within, extending over a per[illegible] of five years, according to Bee[illegible] myer, the man who committed the [illegible] It is to the credit of the Build[illegible] and Loan Department as now co[illegible] ducted and operated that t[illegible] situation has been disclosed.

AUDIT NOT FORTHCOMING

"With such facilities as my [illegible] position afforded at that time [illegible] examination of the Guaranty [illegible] made last spring, to be supp[illegible] ed by a certified public [illegible] company's audit to be furnished [illegible] the association itself. When t[illegible] audit was not forthcoming in [illegible] time my examiners re-ente[illegible] the Guaranty, with the result t[illegible] discovered the facts as [illegible] herein.

"The Building and Loan Comm[illegible] law does not run building a[illegible] loan associations—that is the [illegible] and the responsibility of the [illegible] directors and directors. This situ[illegible] is apparently unknown to [illegible] officers and directors of the Gu[illegible] which existed for years until [illegible] department uncovered it.

"The depositors of the Guaran[illegible] of Hollywood may rest assured th[illegible] every effort will be made to s[illegible] the resources of their as[illegible] and to make as large a [illegible] to the depositors and [illegible] safety as efficient liquidation c[illegible] accomplish."

The move, it was explained, in an effort to boom Hollywood, Beesemyer was born and raised was to have been repaid within a few weeks. The plan to store to the east of the picture industry failed, however, the money was lost.

From the first $25,000, the black ledger book kept in red by the confessed embezzler told story of how the first theft never repaid and of how it into something like $8,000,000.

From a promotion across bring to Hollywood the stars, sands and millions of dollars out of the loan association's counts into Beesemyer's personal count and then into dozens of ferent promotion plans including oil wells, oil leases, real-estate tures and other deals.

FULL BLAME TAKEN

"I am to blame for this," declared Beesemyer after the grand jury room. "There is no one with me. I did it myself. All of my personal and everything that I have in the world has gone into the pot in effort to pay off the people trusted me. I believe that my sonal accounts will show $2,000,000, and this will help pay off. I ran the loan tion and the rest of the did not know what I was They took my word for everything.

"In all, we took in some $17,... at the loan company, and of amount only $10,000,000 company assets. The rest I and I always carried the of my embezzlement in the black ledger book which now the hands of the authorities. tended to make good but the vestigation came and then the If I had been given just week I think that I could have good."

STATEMENT BY FITTS

Late yesterday evening, questioning witnesses all day, made the following announcement:

"We have taken a full statement from Gilbert H. Beesemyer, story of the Guaranty Building Loan Company, relative to ... tions extending over a period years. We have checked this ment against the records of loan company and find that Beesemyer has embezzled ... mately $7,681,793 from the pany. Our check of Mr. ... er's other transactions indicates further embezzlement of ... mately $500,000 from the company. So far as we have able to learn this is the total his misappropriations.

"The procedure apparently ployed by Mr. Beesemyer in ... propriating the funds of the stitutions was to purchase ... tion, or make investments, ... own name, paying for them the company's money and ... the purchases as an overdrawn ... sonal account carried with Guaranty Building and Loan ... ciation. Mr. Beesemyer assumed responsibility for these transactions and speedily exonerated all his business associates. Regarding Mr. Beesemyer's assertion that this matter, this office is ... an exhaustive investigation to determine and fix responsibility in every respect, and additional witnesses will be heard by the grand jury on Tuesday.

"Of course, this office is not in position to say to what extent embezzled funds may be restored. Mr. Beesemyer says he has signed to the company all of property of whatever kind in character in his possession, places a valuation on said ... ments of approximately $2... It seems certain that the ... tors will not lose all of the ... taken through his embezzlements."

HOLLYWOOD BUSINESS UNHIT BY DEFALCATION

"Fundamentally, Hollywood is the best financial position ... gards its merchants, better than other area, we believe, in the entire United States. Baine, president of the Hollywood Boulevard Association yesterday.

At a meeting of the Boulevard ... sociation this week it was decided that chain stores, which are ... index to the comparative volume ... business, in every instance along ... boulevard in these particular lines were more prosperous than ... stores of the same ownership located in other areas.

"While it is deplorable that ... defalcation should occur at ... time, and particularly at this ... this failure can in no wise be attributed to financial or ... conditions existing in Hollywood or its trade area," said Baine.

COMPANIES UNSHAKEN BY DEBACLE

Head of Building Loan League Says Los Angeles Concerns Are Sound

Building and loan executives in Los Angeles were not particularly concerned yesterday over the effect of the Beesemyer defalcation on the building and loan business, although it is admitted the affair has serious aspects at the moment. It is pointed out, however, that building-loan companies never have been in better cash position because of the marked tendency of idle money in the country to drift into savings institutions.

As a precautionary measure nearly a dozen of the Los Angeles companies have taken advantage of the law that permits them to demand thirty days' notice of withdrawal. Other companies elected to honor withdrawal slips on demand. Feeling the disturbance caused by the Beesemyer affair will pass in a few days.

READY FOR RUN

Because of the heavy increase of deposits in building-loan institutions in the last year most companies have built up large reserves in cash or marketable bonds and are prepared to meet extraordinary withdrawal demands. The increase in deposits has been so large, in fact, that many companies in the last few weeks have refused further deposits because of inability to employ the money at a profit.

Speaking for the building-loan companies in Los Angeles, C. H. Wade, first vice-president of the California Building Loan League and head of his own company, emphasized the point that investors with accounts in other building-loan companies should bear in mind that the trouble in the Guaranty Building and Loan Association of Hollywood was in no way attributable to anything fundamentally wrong with the building and loan business.

ONE-MAN TROUBLE

"The trouble was caused entirely," he said, "by the dishonesty of one man and this same thing has happened many times before with other men in fiduciary capacities. Because of the gross dishonesty of this one man it is not fair to assume that the building and loan business, as a business, is not fundamentally strong or that money invested in other associations is not safely invested.

"The building and loan business in the State of California as a whole appears to be in a very satisfactory condition. Building and loan associations have been successfully operated in the State for more than forty years and there is every reason to believe they will continue to be safe and profitable organizations for conservative investors."

Mr. Wade asked the public not to place too much stress on the Beesemyer affair as an indictment of the building-loan business. Although the association was under State supervision, the embezzlement occurred, he explained, because Mr. Beesemyer devised an entirely new method of looting the association.

PECULATOR'S METHOD

"Beesemyer," Mr. Wade explained, "published a statement showing assets of approximately $12,000,000 and furnished that statement to the commissioner's office. The commissioner's office checked up the assets and liabilities of the association and found that they agreed with the figures as furnished by the secretary, Mr. Beesemyer.

The facts of the matter as they appear are that he really had an association with liabilities of about $18,000,000. The excess, amounting to about $6,000,000, represented certificates that were issued by the association, the funds being diverted to his own speculative enterprises instead of being turned over to the association.

He kept a separate set of records to cover his peculations, which were so cunningly devised that it was almost impossible to locate the defalcation. Mr. Beesemyer was in such complete control of the Guaranty that he seems to have been able to do anything he pleased without let or hindrance.

OTHERS UNAFFECTED

"The situation as revealed by Mr. Beesemyer's confession is deplorable and the loss to his investors is a serious matter, much to be regretted by all. The investing public should not in fairness to other sound financial institutions feel that because of Beesemyer's defalcation investors in all building and loan associations are unsafe. In no other association in the State of which I have knowledge does any other one man have such complete control of the affairs of the association as to permit such a thing to occur, and no one need fear that the same practice is being carried on by other associations.

"Auditors are now working on the books of the Guaranty Building and Loan Association and until their work is completed it is impossible to say how great the loss will be, but it is hoped that a complete audit will disclose that the conditions are not as bad as they now appear."

MURMUR HEARD IN DRYS RANKS

Strategy Board's Members Not Satisfied

Hoover Pledged Support by Head of W.C.T.U.

Stewart and Howard Tell Need of Unity

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12. (AP)—Dissatisfaction over conditions within the dry ranks was expressed today by two members of the temperance group's new "board of unified strategy," while a third, Mrs. Ella A. Boole, president of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, called upon President Hoover to say the W.C.T.U. had supported him in 1928 and is for him now.

The two who objected to the present set-up of the dry organizations are Oliver W. Stewart, president of the flying squadron foundation, and Clinton Howard, chairman of the National United Committee for Law Enforcement. Both were appointed Wednesday to the strategy board of sixteen chosen by the national conference of organizations supporting the Eighteenth Amendment to map out plans for the defense of prohibition in the coming campaign.

CALLED INADEQUATE

Stewart prepared today to resign. Stewart said he believes it will be impossible for the existing "heads of national dry organizations to furnish the 'united command'" needed. Contending the strategy board would be all right as far as it went, but it would be "inadequate," Stewart said his organization is setting out to establish local units favoring prohibition which would be tied together in towns, cities, counties, districts and States.

"By the end of 1931," he said, "we will have an organization no politician could afford to ignore while the board of strategy will hardly have gotten under way after the complicated procedure it must go through to complete its organization."

NEED LEADERS

In an address before his committee for law enforcement in a joint meeting with the International Reform Federation, Howard asserted "there is not today a proficient dry leader listed among the executive heads of the dry organizations strong enough to command the confidence and support" of the temperance groups.

"If every dry organization, with the exception of the W.C.T.U. and the Woman's National Committee for Law Enforcement, went out of commission, the dry cause would profit by their decrease," he asserted.

Among the predictions Howard made was that if the Republican party adopted a wet plank or a wet candidate in 1932 it is scheduled for defeat, although he said the Democratic party with Gov. Roosevelt of New York, an anti-prohibitionist, has a chance to win unless there is some real organization of the dry forces.

RAIL RUMOR STIRS JAPAN TO PROTEST

Envoy Sent to Mukden to Protect South Manchuria Line's Interest

TOKIO, Dec. 12. (AP)—A representative of the Japanese government was en route to Mukden today to negotiate for security of Japan's railway and economic interests in Southern Manchuria, where press reports said foreign capital, particularly American, is planning a railway building campaign.

The new railways, it is believed, may compete with the South Manchurian Railway, owned by the Japanese government, which holds a lease on the Kwantung Peninsula.

Eiichi Kimura, director of the railway, was instructed by Japan to confer with Chang Hsueh-liang, Governor of Manchuria, for solution of troublesome problems and to clarify Japan's attitude concerning proposed railways, which some quarters assert will menace Japanese economic interests. This was the first move Japan had made in eighteen months to assert treaty rights pertaining to Manchurian railways.

WESTERN RAIL DEAL APPROVED

Denver and Salt Lake Line Sale Allowed by I.C.C.

Denver and Rio Grande Must Build Dotsero Cutoff

Moffat Tunnel Trackage Affected by Action

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12. (AP)—The Interstate Commerce Commission today approved another step toward carrying out its idea of consolidating the railroads of the country into twenty-one major systems.

It approved the acquisition of the Denver and Salt Lake Railroad, also known as the Moffat line, operating 232 miles of important trackage, by the Denver and Rio Grande Western, which in turn is controlled jointly by the Missouri Pacific and Western Pacific railroads. All these lines are included in the commission's designated Missouri Pacific system.

The commission refused to touch a dispute between the Moffat Tunnel League, which owns the Moffat tunnel through the Continental Divide, and the railroads over a lease of the tunnel to the Moffat line. The commission held this was a matter for the courts and negotiation.

The commissioners did, however, attach to their decision the condition the Rio Grande must build the Dotsero cut-off from Orested on the Moffat line to Dotsero on the Rio Grande; purchase for cash at not to exceed $155 a share any stock in the Moffat line offered it within six months after the order in the case is issued, and must establish through routing with any western carrier the commission may permit to be built in the future.

The order was withheld until the Rio Grande files an "unqualified acceptance" of all conditions prescribed in the opinion.

The Dotsero cutoff will be forty one miles long and cost about $3,800,000. It cuts off 173 miles in distance between Denver and Dotsero. Work must be started within six months after the final order is issued, and completed in two years.

YOUTH TELLS OF SLAUGHTER

Mystery Surrounding Murder of Entire North Dakota Family May Be Cleared

WILLISTON (N. D.) Dec. 12. (AP)—A tangled tale by a 22-year-old farmer told piecemeal and with unexplained variations and gaps, tonight had revealed the slaying of an entire family near Schafer, N. D., but left the identity of the slayer and a motive for the crime obscure.

Bodies of four of the victims and parts of a fifth, all members of the Albert E. Haven family, were recovered yesterday while search for a sixth, that of Mrs. Haven, was being pressed tonight, after the young farmer, Charles Bannon, had told officers where they were buried.

Bannon told how the family was slain by Mrs. Haven with a hammer during a sudden fit of insanity and said he helped her bury the victims, but a short time later admitted her body, too, was buried on the farm. Despite this the youth steadfastly denied he was responsible for the slayings. He was under almost constant questioning while search was being made for Mrs. Haven's grave.

The Haven family had been missing from their home since February 10, last, while Bannon and his father have occupied the farm since that time, asserting they rented the place. The elder Bannon disappeared six weeks ago, but officials say they have learned he wrote to his son on the 2nd inst. from Oswego, Or.

Interior Department Supply Bill Passes House

De Priest Leads Battle for Negro Library Fund

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12. (AP)—The Interior Department supply bill carrying $15,000,000 for work on the Boulder Canyon project during the next fiscal year was passed by the House today after a provision prohibiting pay increases to classified employees had been removed.

The bill appropriates $68,554,106 for all departmental activities, an increase of $5,642,482 over current appropriations.

An effort by Representative Douglas, Democrat, Arizona, to block the appropriation for the Boulder Canyon Dam was defeated.

Controversy over the measure, the second supply bill passed by the House this session, centered on the Federal pay provision and a $400,000 appropriation for a library at Howard University, a local Negro institution. Representative De Priest, Negro Republican, Illinois, defended the library appropriation, directing his remarks at southern Democrats.

FINANCIER'S OIL WELLS ATTACHED

Fourteen in Custody of Sheriff on Writ Issued in Tool Company Suit

Fourteen oil wells owned by Gilbert H. Beesemyer, or in which he is interested financially, yesterday were in the custody of the Sheriff's office by virtue of a writ of attachment emanating from a suit filed in Superior Court.

The suit, according to papers on file in the office of Capt. Jewell of the civil department, was brought by the Alco Tool Company, which seeks to collect $35,000 from the Elmer Company, Ltd., E. N. Moore and Gilbert Beesemyer.

Following receipt of the attachment, George Barton, assistant chief civil deputy, ordered a sheriff's custodian to take possession of each of the wells, eight of which are in Venice and six at Signal Hill.

Descriptions in the documents show that some of the Venice wells are located on property of Milo Bekins, Lloyd and Rodney Pantages, Clair W. Ward and E. W. Murphy. The wells at Signal Hill are known as the Elmer wells.

In addition the civil department of the Sheriff's office was instructed to hold all money, goods and credits which might be due the defendants from several oil companies and other agencies in Los Angeles and Long Beach. Oil companies and others named are:

Petroleo Syndicate, Hancock Oil Company, Petrol Corporation, General Petroleum Corporation, Shell Oil Company, Macmillan Petroleum Corporation, Standard Gasoline Company, Pan-California Oil Corporation, T. L. McCutcheon, Federal receiver, 518 C. C. Chapman Building; Del Rey Oil and Refining Company, and Mark Woolley, Federal receiver, and the Citizens' National Bank.

BLACK SUSPICION CAST ON CLASS-WAR FOMENTERS

Supreme Court Riddles Every Major Point Advanced in Campaign to "Free Mooney and Billings"

This is the eleventh and last of a series of articles presenting an exhaustive analysis of the State Supreme Court's recent hearing of new evidence in the Mooney-Billings cases, resulting in a denial of Billings's plea for a pardon recommendation.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 12. (Exclusive)—Like all the preceding ones, the recent effort on the part of the Mooney-Billings supporters to win freedom for the convicted bombers, via the pardon route, was based on three major claims, to-wit:

(1.) That Mooney and Billings were "framed" by the police and the District Attorney of San Francisco as part of a conspiracy between the authorities and the anti-union labor "interests," the object of which was to fasten the Preparedness Day crime upon organized labor, with which both men had been actively identified.

(2.) That in pursuance of this supposed conspiracy, the prosecution bombarded the trial juries with false and perjured evidence, notably from John MacDonald, Estelle Smith, F. C. Oxman, John Crowley and others. To substantiate this claim the Mooney-Billings supporters from time to time over the years have produced what purported to be voluntary recantations of their original testimony on the part of MacDonald and Estelle Smith and evidence intended to show that Oxman, Crowley and others swore falsely at the trials.

(3.) That, aside from all this, Mooney and Billings could not have been guilty because they were elsewhere at the time the bomb was planted at Steuart and Market streets shortly before 2 p.m. on July 22, 1916.

There were, of course, a host of other details but, stripped to essentials, those three points constituted the major defense and formed the basis of all the subsequent efforts to set aside the verdicts and liberate the two men.

AMAZING CAMPAIGN

Each of the three points has been elaborated, buttressed and apparently substantiated by an absolutely amazing amount of time, effort, thought and money. The campaign has continued now for fourteen years of practically unremitting effort and has made the case internationally famous, a fit companion piece to the similar campaign in behalf of Sacco and Vanzetti.

By reason of this tremendous effort and because of the clever way in which their apparent substantiations were made to appear spontaneous, each of the three points has gained for the convicted men large numbers of sincere and honest sympathizers and supporters, thousands of whom have subscribed money to the fund continuously solicited ostensibly, at least, for defense purposes.

These three points, therefore, likewise constituted the main subject-matter of the exhaustive hearings conducted by the California Supreme Court. Once and for all time, the court proposed to get at the bottom of these claims, to prove or disprove them and, upon that finding, either to move for the liberation of Billings and, inferentially, of Mooney as well, or to make it perfectly clear to any reasonable person that they should stay in jail. The court sat as an informal, fact-finding body for twenty-two days. Ordinary rules of procedure were relaxed to give everybody every possible chance to be heard. The transcript of oral evidence alone, not counting voluminous affidavits and other documents, filled more than 2500 typewritten pages; the entire transcript some 10,000.

Upon this immense mass of evidence the court spent more than three months in deliberation, study, discussion and further investigation where it seemed to be needed. At the end of that time six of the seven justices constituting the court found themselves in agreement on the merits of each of the three points and so declared themselves. The seventh, Justice Langdon, dissented on the second point and, in effect, declared the other two became the issue. The combined findings fill 110 typewritten pages.

THE FINDINGS

The preceding ten articles of this series have dealt in detail with the various ramifications of the case, with the Supreme Court's inquiries into each one and with some of its relevant comments thereon. All that remains is to summarize the court's views on the three points set up by the proponents of liberation for Billings. (It is to be remembered that the court was sitting on the application of Billings for a recommendation for pardon and that, though the case against Mooney is substantially the same, Mooney was not directly dealt with.)

On Point No. 1, the six-sevenths majority report unqualifiedly reaffirms a previous finding by the same tribunal that the charges of conspiracy and "framing" made against the authorities of San Francisco are absolutely without foundation.

"We place emphasis upon this result," reads the decision, "for the present reason that for the past several years there has persisted a widespread propaganda of misrepresentation and falsehood affecting the integrity and official conduct of the San Francisco officials in their investigation of and effort to apprehend and punish the perpetrators of this most dastardly crime, and which propaganda of misrepresentation, and utter falsehood we earnestly trust will now and forever cease."

"KNOWN FALSITIES"

In his separate opinion Justice Preston, who did most of the questioning of witnesses, goes even further. He says:

"It must also be noted that those persons largely responsible for the widespread propaganda to the effect that petitioner (Billings) and Mooney had been convicted by illegitimate and oppressive, if not corrupt, means now freely admit that this poisonous doctrine was founded in falsehood AND WAS KNOWN TO BE SUCH WHEN IT WAS PUT IN CIRCULATION. Such illegal and illegitimate practices, however, are defended on the ground that anything short thereof would have failed to focus the attention of the public."

This scathing denunciation refers to the extraordinary statement on the stand of Fremont Older, chief defender-publicist for Mooney and Billings, that, notwithstanding the screaming charges made in his newspaper—such as the huge headline "FICKERT FRAMED THE MOONEY CASE!" which started the "poisonous doctrine"—and his similar allegations over the radio, he CHARGES NO OFFICIAL CORRUPTION IN THESE CASES and that he justifies his responsibility for the statements by his inability otherwise to express the situation: that if he had not made such charges there would have been no possibility of freeing the two men!

STRONG DENUNCIATION

Point No. 2 is riddled with no less energy by justices signing the majority opinion. The two "recantations"—those of MacDonald and Estelle Smith—which were most effective in eliciting public sympathy for the convicted men and contributions intended to aid in securing their release were not only condemned by the court as false and worthless but the means by which they were secured as subject to the gravest suspicion.

The court's review of MacDonald's attempts at self-repudiation is peppered with such expressions as "corruptly inspired," "cunning conspiracy" laid about MacDonald's feet as by the "folds of a serpent," "methods savoring of subornation of perjury," "offspring of corruption," "palpable fabrications of a man who had succumbed to a long siege upon his honor," "enticed from the truth by illegal and illegitimate means," etc.

Of Estelle Smith's supposed recanting, the majority opinion declares that "the means employed to . . . seduce her into repudiation of her former truthful testimony savored strongly of subornation of perjury." The real character of the "loan" made from defense funds to the needy Edeau women was revealed by Fremont Older himself with his admission that he would not have made it "if they had not been witnesses" whose testimony he was trying his best to get them to change. The defense accused Oxman of subornation of perjury and, after many refusals of a warrant for his arrest, finally got him to trial and he was acquitted. One of his accusers was subjected by Older to what Justice Preston denominated as "two years of disintegration" finally to "knuckle under" and make a statement in which he admitted his own corruption. The witness who sought to impeach John Crowley was denounced by the court as a perjurer and an "all-around scamp."

"Information as to the circumstances under which those affidavits (of recantation) were made . . . discloses that they were obtained under influences which entirely destroyed their credibility," says Justice Shenk in his separate opinion.

"The conclusion is that certain agents have illegally tampered with witnesses by the use of money and chicane," says Justice Preston. "Incriminatory circumstances" is a contribution by Justice Seawell.

In the aggregate, few blacker clouds of suspicion have ever been thrown about a case by the traditionally conservative Supreme Court than about this effort to liberate Warren K. Billings.

LANGDON DISSENTS

It would be unfair to conclude consideration of Point No. 2 without mention of the fact that Justice Langdon did not share the views of his colleagues as to the original credibility of at least two major witnesses and as to the majority conclusions as a whole. Waving aside as irrelevant the matters of conspiracy perjury-subornation and the sufficiency of Billings's alibi, Justice Langdon states that, while he does not know whether Billings is innocent or guilty, he holds that he has not been proven the latter and is, therefore, entitled to a recommendation for executive clemency. MacDonald, he holds, was a hopeless liar from the beginning and Estelle Smith not much better. Many of the witnesses for the prosecution contradicted each other on relevant points at issue, he declares. In his view, the chain of necessary proof has been destroyed and Billings is, therefore, entitled to his original presumption of innocence. Whether or not defense agents paid witnesses to change their testimony, he says, does not enter into the matter. He flatly disagrees with the interpretation of the law made by his six colleagues, including Chief Justice Waste, to the effect that the burden of proof is now on Billings. In his opinion Billings has not been shown to be guilty.

In this summary of the case it is not necessary to deal with Point No. 3, the alibi of Billings, which was considered in detail in yesterday's article, further than to recall that, in the view of the six justices, his effort to establish his whereabouts so as to prove his innocence was a complete failure in the light of credible evidence definitely placing him at the scene of the explosion just before and just after the tragedy.

"WAR" TO GO ON

So far as the Supreme Court of California can do so, the fate and the guilt alike of Billings—and, by inference, of Mooney also—are definitely and finally determined. Its decision can only be changed if three justices on that bench reverse their present opinions. In view of their vigorous and forthright declarations on the subject, this is at least unlikely.

The decision, however, will not end the agitation in behalf of the bombers, nor the efforts to deceive the public into pouring more and still more money into a yawning maw of unaccounted-for funds.

In this connection it is worth while to recall the significant words of Justice Preston, quoted in the first article of this series, in which he declared that "the concealed but plain object" of the present case is "to foster and perpetuate strife among the classes."

Mooney and Billings have ceased to be individuals. They have become the symbols of a class war whose danger is in nowise mitigated by its own complete lack of merit or honest foundation. So long as that war can be kept alive and bitter, so long will it continue to return personal, financial profit to its fomenters.

COTTON SOCK NO GOOD AS BANK

Money Stored in One Burns More Easily Than in Wool Treasury Finds

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12. (AP)—The Treasury has learned a woolen sock is better than a cotton sock in which to keep cash. It's this way:

Two brothers in New York State kept their money in socks. One used a cotton sock, the other a woolen one. There was a fire, both socks burned. The remains of both were sent to the Treasury to exchange for new money.

The Treasury's damaged-money experts identified $330 out of $340 which the woolen sock had contained. The other was too far gone.

CHURCH RIOT CASE TRIAL POSTPONED

Judge Lindsey Moves for Dismissal and Court Delays Decision

NEW YORK, Dec. 12. (AP)—Former Judge Ben B. Lindsey's guilt or innocence in the disorder he precipitated at the Cathedral of St. John the Divine last Sunday will not be determined until next Wednesday.

Judge Lindsey appeared ready for trial today, but his attorney, Arthur Garfield Hays, entered a motion to dismiss the complaint on the ground that it was based on two different statutes without being specific as to either. Magistrate Dreyer wanted time to consider the brief and continued the case to the 17th inst.

Lindsey is charged both with disorderly conduct and disturbance of a religious service.

Bishop William T. Manning of New York, whose sermon in the cathedral attacking Lindsey's writings on companionate marriage and his character caused Lindsey to speak out and demand a hearing, was subpoenaed by Hays, but was not in court. It was understood he was readily accessible if needed. He is suffering from a cold.

The court was filled to capacity a half an hour before the time set for the hearing and an overflow crowd waited in front of the building to get a glimpse of the principals.

Girl Witness in Major's Murder Trial Weeps as Defense Exposes Folly

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 12. (AP)—A statement said to have been made to Department of Justice agents by Maj. Charles A. Shepard prior to his arrest for the asserted poison murder of his wife was produced against him in his murder trial late today as Miss Grace Brandon, the government's star witness, left the witness stand after two days of testimony. The statement was introduced over the objections of the defense.

Efforts to show that Federal agents intimidated Miss Brandon and attempted to influence her testimony regarding her love affair with Maj. Shepard featured her final hours on the stand. The girl denied she was coerced by the agents.

Most of the day was spent with the defense reading love letters written by Miss Brandon to Maj. Shepard. She wept at times and turned her face away from the spectators, resting her blond head on her hands or inclining it on Judge Hopkins's bench.

San Diego Power Demands Scaled

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12. (AP)—Reclamation Commissioner Mead today approved in principle a contract permitting the city of San Diego to obtain 90,000,000 kilowatt hours of power from the Boulder Canyon project.

A delegation from San Diego, which appeared before Secretary Wilbur and Commissioner Mead, requested 320,000,000 kilowatt hours, but only 90,000,000 were available in the unallotted portion.

RELIEF "DOLE" PLAN SCORED

Drought-Aid Issue to Be Sent to Floor of Senate

G.O.P. Leaders Will Force Question Monday

Watson Says Party Chiefs Stand With Hoover

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12. (Exclusive)—House Republican leaders decided this afternoon to bring drought-relief legislation to the floor of the House on Monday and let it be known they will fight to hold the appropriation to $30,000,000 instead of the $60,000,000 figure approved by the Senate.

The $30,000,000 difference between the Senate action and the House plan represents the issue of whether Congress shall restrict the relief to seed, stock feed and fertilizer, or go beyond that and authorize loans to drought sufferers for food, clothing and possibly medical care, as well.

House leaders agree with Secretary of Agriculture Hyde that an advance for food and clothing will amount to a "dole" and Representative Tilson of Connecticut, administration floor leader in the House, denounced the plan today in a speech regarded as broadly reflecting the attitude of the White House. Speaker Longworth also reiterated his opposition to such loans. President Hoover's recommendation for a $25,000,000 relief fund did not contemplate its use for such purposes.

DIFFICULTY FACED

The difficulty faced by the administration forces in the House is to prevent a vote on the higher Senate figure and this probably will be solved by suspension of the rules, or a special rule under which they can put through their kind of a bill without giving opportunity for amendment. Such a course will be denounced by Democrats and a few Republicans, but the probabilities are the Republican managers in the end will have their way.

Earlier today the House refused to accept the Senate amendments to the unemployment emergency public construction bill, not because of the $8,000,000 added for highways through unreserved public lands, which is not strongly opposed, but because of the Couzens amendment stipulating that only workers who have lived ninety days in the vicinity of the projects could be employed. The House action forces a conference between the two houses. The bill as it came back from the Senate carried $118,000,000 instead of $110,000,000 as passed originally by the lower chamber.

TILSON'S SPEECH

There is also some indisposition on the part of the House to go along with the Senate in striking out the provision giving the President a free hand to divert money from one fund to another, but indications are the House conferees will not insist upon this point.

The administration looks upon the deletion of the section conferring upon the President authority to interchange allocations as a move which will freeze the appropriations to certain works and reduce actual relief, but also as one which will relieve executives of much responsibility which they had been willing to assume to produce as much employment as possible.

Representative Tilson in his speech today laid down the basic arguments that will be used in the House to overcome the proposed loans for food and clothing.

"There is," he declared, "a very sharp dividing line, not only in principle, but in fact, between the loan of government funds for the purchase of seed, fertilizer and livestock feed as we have done in the past and a loan to meet such needs as food, clothing and possibly medical care as has been proposed. In the one case the Federal government is loaning funds to help rehabilitate and carry over an industry temporarily stricken by natural causes and unable to finance its immediate needs because of restricted credit facilities. In such a case the United States is advancing money which in all human probability will be repaid out of the very crop which it is financing.

CHARITY ACTIVITIES

"In the other case—that of advances for food—while we may call it a loan because it sounds better it is in effect distributing funds for strictly charitable purposes, which in many cases cannot be repaid at all and in others cannot be repaid without intolerable hardships to the beneficiaries. If charity is what we have in mind then let us be honest with the people of the United States, with the taxpayers of the country, and admit that we propose to have the United States government, whatever the implications and consequences, take over the work of charity hitherto assumed and well provided for by community effort and private contributions. If we are not thinking of charity do we desire to have the United States government ask a family in distress, faced with starvation, to mortgage its next year's crop, its future means of subsistence, in order to meet its immediate necessities?

"The plain truth is that this is not what we have in mind. In so far as food is concerned, we are in effect dispensing charity and disguising it by calling it a loan. This is neither honest from the standpoint of the taxpayer and from the all-important standpoint of what are the proper functions of Federal government, nor will it work with equality and justice as between individuals. The high-principled and industrious among the distressed will insist on treating it as a loan and will cripple themselves and their families in an attempt to repay it; the idle and shiftless will accept it as a gift, dismiss any attempt at repayment, and live off the Federal government as long as the opportunity exists.

TURN TO RED CROSS

"If the people of the drought-stricken areas are so restricted in their credit facilities as to require the intervention of the Federal government to finance their next year's crop, credit may be extended to them with entire propriety. If a man and his family are faced with starvation what they need is relief and not to be saddled with additional debt.

"If they need relief the way to offer it to them generously, fairly and in accordance with our traditions and practice is to turn to the great relief organization maintained by the people of the United States to take care of just such situations as this. It will smack much less of charity to have the Red Cross Society, which is in a sense, a great insurance company maintained by the American people as a whole, to which they may look in time of need, to undertake the work of relief than to tap the United States Treasury and thereby establish in the United States, in fact, if not in name, the dole.

"I am not unmindful of the argument that has been made that after the war we took money from the Federal Treasury so feed the starving of Russia and other countries of Europe. The cases are in no way analogous. In the one we were succoring a people who were prostrate from war, with stable governments wiped away, industries paralyzed, money valueless and without means of a livelihood or even hope of the future. In the other, we have the problem of temporary relief to a sturdy class of Americans possessing an unbounded courage and an indomitable will to overcome the vicissitudes which may have come to them in their relentless fight with the forces of nature. Behind them are the strongest government in the world with currency and resources unimpaired and established relief agencies ready and willing to afford every measure of relief necessary to carry them through the winter and into the bright period of another spring and new crops, and to new means of livelihood."

ASWELL REPLIES

Representative Aswell of Louisiana, ranking Democrat on the Agricultural Committee, replying to Tilson, asserted that the Red Cross is without sufficient funds to handle the drought relief situation. He said that according to the President's recent message the Red Cross only has $4,500,000 available and that to expect the organization to give adequate relief on that amount of money was "too absurd to be considered."

It was reported today that John Barton Payne, head of the American Red Cross, will be asked to outline to the Senate Agricultural Committee next week the plans of his organization for raising and dispensing funds to help drought victims.

Senator Watson of Indiana, the Republican leader, issued a statement tonight saying the Republican leadership and the President are not divided.

STANDING WITH HOOVER

It was Watson who was called upon yesterday to inform the President of the insistence of the Senate Republicans that he co-operate with them in their future actions in return for the co-operation he asks from them.

"Of course," said Senator Watson today, "I delivered no ultimatum upon the President. I and others of the party do not always agree with the President on ways and means of accomplishing the ends we both desire. But the Republican leadership of the Senate and the President are not divided, however much we may differ temporarily over methods of carrying out the administration's program, which, of course, we all are endeavoring to do."

Vice-President Curtis was among those asked by the disgruntled Senate forces to convey to the President the resentment felt in some quarters over his denunciation of the super-relief advocates. He was at the White House for the regular Cabinet meeting, but had no comment later.

Senators Walcott of Connecticut and Fess of Ohio, administration members close to Mr. Hoover, also were White House callers today.

ROBOT TURNS ROCKETEER!

Scientist at Roswell Perfecting Devices to Take Peek at Atmosphere Fifty Miles Up

ROSWELL (N. M.) Dec. 12. (AP)—Perfection of automatic recording devices to ride in rockets and take a scientific peek into the atmosphere fifty miles from this old world are occupying Dr. R. H. Goddard in his rocket camp near here.

Dr. Goddard has perfected the long-distance rocket to his own satisfaction, together with automatic stabilizers of his own design and within two or three months hopes to launch these rockets carrying the recording devices which will bring back news of the upper air strata.

Until then Dr. Goddard declines to talk for publication from here and his progress is recorded in reports to the Smithsonian Institution which is supporting his experiments with funds supplied by the late Simeon Guggenheim at the suggestion of Charles A. Lindbergh.

Dr. Goddard, with a group of assistants, established quarters here last spring, believing that the atmospheric conditions over the Roswell section in New Mexico lend themselves more perfectly than any place else for the successful launching of the rockets.

The automatic recorders, now the subject of perfection, would carry timing and distance-recording devices and a small air chamber which would capture a sample of the atmosphere fifty miles in the air. The recording bullet would have a small parachute which would be released when the rocket burst, to bring the recording instruments back to earth.

The cat chased the mouse under the women's chairs for the entire length of the table.

Chamber Palm-Decorated for Services

Body Sent to North Carolina for Burial Today

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12. (AP)—President Hoover, members of the Supreme Court, and diplomatic officers of more than ten nations joined the Senate and House tonight in paying homage to one of North Carolina's two grand old men in the Senate—Lee S. Overman, who died early today after a brief illness.

With almost twenty-eight years of continuous service behind him, the body of the 76-year-old Democratic legislator lay in a gray flower-covered casket in the Senate chamber as high officials, friends and associates listened with bowed heads to a funeral oration by Dr. Z. B. Phillips, chaplain of the Senate.

TAKEN TO STATION

After the ceremony the casket was taken to Union Station to await departure of the funeral party shortly before midnight for Salisbury, N. C., the dead Senator's home, where burial will take place tomorrow at 3 p.m.

President Hoover, with seven members of his official family and Walter H. Newton, one of his secretaries, sat on the left side of the chamber. Immediately behind them were members of the Diplomatic Corps.

Mrs. Overman and her three daughters, in mourning, were seated beside the casket in front of the Supreme Court members.

CURTIS TRIBUTE

Vice-President Curtis opened the services with a brief tribute: "We all loved him and we all mourn his passing."

Dr. Philips then read the funeral service based on the new book of common prayer of the Episcopal Church and including recitations of two hymns, a poem, excerpts from the Scriptures, and extemporaneous prayer.

Senator Simmons, North Carolina's other veteran Senator, sat bowed with grief over the death of his beloved friend and colleague. Beside him were the party leaders, Senators Watson of Indiana and Robinson of Arkansas. Many members of the House also sat in the stilled, palm-decorated chamber.

The Dayle woman had confessed she executed the robbery and slugged Frank but denied she intended to kill him.

SPANISH ARMY FORCE REVOLTS

less messages were subject to delay or suppression.

Rumors that all was not right in the provinces had been reaching Madrid for weeks, and the government was ready with an organized plan to cope with the emergency. Thousands of troops were en route to Jaca within a few hours after the first signal of trouble.

Officials here gave out little news. It was known, however, that the rebels, after turning the guns of the fortress on Jaca, had established a base in the town.

The government issued a note this morning asking the public's confidence in its ability to meet the present situation. The note says the Jaca uprising was fomented by alien and radical military and civilian elements, but that sufficient troops now have been concentrated south and west of Jaca and Huesca to defeat the rebels in short order.

The note denies reports other garrisons were involved in the revolt.

The government version of the revolt asserts part of the Jaca garrison, aided by civilians, on Friday morning attacked a loyal force, headed by the Mayor of Jaca and composed of civil guards and other elements.

The rebels were victorious and forced the loyal troops to take shelter in barracks. The rebels then commandeered automobiles and trucks in Jaca and in the afternoon began their march toward Huesca.

REVOLUTIONARY BATTLE IN MADRID REPORTED

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 12. (...—Reports telephoned from Madrid to Buenos Aires late today indicated a revolutionary movement was active in Madrid itself in addition to the military revolt at Jaca.

Shell fire was reported in Madrid but the telephone conversation was broken off abruptly with the announcement censorship had been imposed.

Asked whether the Madrid speaker would be able to renew the conversation, the telephone operator replied: "Sure, if he doesn't get shot."

Later, however, Buenos Aires telephone officials announced the conversation could not be renewed because of censorship.

FORTRESS DECLARED ONE OF STRONGEST IN SPAIN

PARIS, Dec. 12. (...—French military men said tonight Spanish soldiers who rebelled at Jaca chose their spot admirably. They described Jaca as one of the strongest fortresses of Europe, known among soldiers as the "Verdun of Spain."

Should the rebels succeed in establishing a powerful base at Jaca they would command practically two-thirds of the Franco-Spanish frontier, according to the French observers, while should they be defeated they have merely to disarm and slip across the frontier into France.

Jaca has been used as a transfer point when garrisons were changed in various towns of Northern Spain. The troops were kept there a few days, refreshed and refitted and then sent to their new base.

REVOLT FOMENTED BY REPUBLICANS

BORDEAUX (France) Dec. 12. (...—The revolutionary movement at Jaca, Spain, is of republican origin fomented by politicians from Madrid, according to information received here tonight from usually reliable sources in Spain.

These report the situation aggravated by the fact that the civilian population has largely supported the insurrectionists. The City Hall and railroad station at Jaca are reported to have been seized.

MEXICO CLASPS CAPITAL'S HAND

Steps Taken to Guarantee Protection Desired

Chamber Votes Amendment of Agrarian Law

Senate to Get Bill Favored by Ortiz Rubio

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 12. (...—The Mexican government today began a three-league step toward giving foreign capital the guarantees it desires of protection and sanctity of property rights with approval by the Chamber of Deputies of important amendments to the national agrarian law.

Coincident with the Chamber's action Manuel Peres Trevino, Secretary of Agriculture and himself once a farmer, sounded the note of the new order in Mexico. He said twenty years of upheavals and experimentation with radical measures had led Mexico to the conclusion interests of the classes are bound up in the interests of the whole, and emancipation of workers depends upon co-operation with capital.

SPEAKER APPLAUDED

His assertion drew resounding applause from the Chamber, which is predominantly of the revolutionary, or government party.

Senor Peres stated the word "revolution" in Mexico no longer is to be interpreted as a call to arms, but rather as an administration of government according to principles of justice, equity and liberty.

It was all very well at the beginning of the movement, he said, to forget financial obligations in the work of giving peasants land to till; but that has brought a debt of some $400,000,000 upon the government's shoulders, and now it is time, in the further distribution of land, to avoid increasing this burden. For this reason, he said, it was proposed to amend the agrarian laws (the amendment which was passed later) so additions to communal land assignments would be granted only when there was money on hand to make a cash payment for the land taken over from private owners for this purpose.

IMMUNITIES GRANTED

Other provisions of the amendments passed by the Chamber provide large haciendas, such as sugar plantations and dairy and fruit farms, will be immune from seizure and division. Perez explained this was included to give their owners guarantees which would increase production.

Painting a sad picture of the struggle of Mexican peons and industrial workers from conditions of virtual slavery through years of desperate armed turnovers toward emancipation and good living conditions, Peres frankly stated this objective has not yet been reached, "nor will it be reached by hostility toward capital," he said.

The agrarian law amendments, which have been sponsored by President Ortiz Rubio, now go to the Senate, where prompt approval is expected.

PAIR SHOT BY OFFICER IN DRY RAID

Agent Says He Was Fired on When He Met Suspects in Searching for Still

SANTA ROSA, Dec. 12. (Exclusive)—Hugo Prassa, 39 years of age, Lovall Valley rancher, and Antone Providenty, 22, both suspected of bootleg liquor handling, were shot, Prassa perhaps fatally, by Federal Prohibition Agent Buckley of San Francisco on a lonely forest road in the hills back of Sonoma early today. Buckley and August Morgue, another prohibition agent, were seeking a still and became lost in the fog, Buckley said. Morgue went for a guide and Buckley intercepted Prassa and a truck. The shooting began, according to Buckley, when Providenty drove up, following the truck and fired as soon as he learned Buckley's identity.

After the shooting, a force of agents, headed by Thomas Goodwin, head of the field forces in this district, uncovered a huge still in the hills, arrested three more men and seized 100,000 gallons of mash and a large quantity of alcohol. The agents said this was Prassa's and Providenty's source of supply.

Administrator Walker is reported en route from San Francisco to investigate assertions that the two agents, Buckley and Morgue, used a 17-year-old boy, Charles Battisberger, as a guide in finding the still. The youth's mother reported him kidnaped shortly before he was said to have been discovered in Buckley's company.

Naval Aviators' Safety Record Near Perfection

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12. (...—Navy flyers were only a fraction of one point away from a perfect safety record in the 1930 fiscal year.

Of a total of 252,095 flights, only fourteen resulted in fatal injuries, making the flights 99.9945 per cent safe from fatalities. The figures were set forth today in the annual report of Rear-Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics.

There were 430 "crashes" scattered over 266,984 hours flown which involved injury to the aircraft. Eighteen persons killed, fifteen serious and forty-eight minor injuries were recorded.

For every fatality a new record total of 14,832 hours, and for each fatal accident 19,070 hours were flown—against 6773 and 11,289 hours, respectively, in 1929.

Nuptial Gift of $2,000,000 Hinted

SON OF RASKOB MARRIES

Young Industrial Engineer and Jewish Girl United in Roman Catholic Church

NORTH CHELMSFORD (Mass.) Dec. 12. (Exclusive)—In a simple and secret ceremony witnessed only by their parents and a few other relatives, John J. Raskob, Jr., and Miss Minerva Aaronson were united in matrimony this morning in this quiet town where the bridegroom is an embryo industrial engineer.

The 23-year-old son of the multimillionaire chairman of the Democratic National Committee and the 19-year-old Jewish girl he met while he was a Yale student left on their honeymoon a few hours later.

MARRIED BY PRIEST

Young Raskob, a staunch Catholic and son of a man who is an honorary American chamberlain in the Pope's household, and the Jewish girl who adopted his faith were married by Rev. Joseph A. Curtin in St. Joseph's Roman Catholic Church.

Whether the elder Raskob gave the young couple the $2,000,000 wedding gift their friends expected them to receive could not be learned tonight.

Immediately after the wedding young Raskob took his bride, his parents and members of the girl's family on a visit of inspection to the Bast fiber mills, where he works as a textile expert. This gave rise to an unconfirmed report that the wealthy Raskob had given his son the mill as a bridal present.

OLD CAR NOT USED

Young Raskob did not take his $25 second-hand car with him on his bridal trip. The newlyweds were driven from the fiber factory in an automobile owned by James Haire, a local motor agency operator.

Miss Aaronson, with her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Aaronson, and a married sister of the bride, Mrs. Bernard Kopkind, came here from New Haven, last night, while the parents of young Raskob were motoring here from Wilmington, Del. Raskob, Jr., had taken out a wedding license on the 5th inst.

NOT ALL PLEASED

After a three-year friendship their engagement was announced two months ago. When the newlyweds return from their honeymoon, Raskob will resume his factory work. He is experimenting upon a wool substitute.

Not all the members of the bride's family were pleased with young Raskob's becoming their kinsman.

"We do not approve entirely of the match," said Dr. Michael Aaronson, an uncle of the bride, at his New Haven (Ct.) office. "Our family is orthodox; in Poland there were rabbis in our line. So we do not approve of Minerva changing her religion."

CATTLEMEN FELICITATED ON STANDING

Western Association in Best Condition of Any Farm Line, Speaker Says

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 12. (...—Western cattlemen were told their industry is in the best condition of any branch of agriculture at two annual conventions here today. E. F. Forbes, president of both the California Cattlemen's Association and the Western Cattle-Marketing Association, told the meat producers their aggregate sales had fallen off only 3 per cent from last year.

Cattlemen representing six States from New Mexico to Washington heard Charles D. Carey of Cheyenne describe thirty lines of advertising, education and research work being carried on to stimulate uses of meats. Carey is president of the National Live Stock and Meat Board.

A practical outcome of the convention was the formation of an organization among packers, wholesalers, retailers and producers in the San Francisco region. The group planned an advertising campaign to increase consumption of meats.

John F. Curry, traffic manager, pictured modern methods of cattle rustling and pointed out the cattlemen must not consider the ancient art of stealing live stock a problem of the past. Use of the motor truck, which leaves no tracks on concrete highways, has made it possible for rustlers to sell stolen stock hundreds of miles away from the scene of the theft the next day after the robbery.

Cuba Messages Within Island Under Censors

HAVANA, Dec. 12. (...—Censorship was imposed on transmission of news in Cuba by President Machado today, but turned out to be less severe than was first supposed after it had been in operation for a few hours.

Censors stationed in the cable offices and radio stations were instructed to inspect only those messages sent from point to point within the republic and not to interfere with either outgoing or incoming international transmission.

Thus far the application of the decree signed by President Machado suspending constitutional guarantees has been mild. The military has not yet been called out.

Newspapers Go in Receivership

NASHVILLE (Tenn.) Dec. 12. (...—Two newspaper corporations publishing three daily newspapers in Tennessee, went into receivership today.

At Memphis receivers were appointed for the Memphis Commercial Appeal, Inc., publishers of the Commercial Appeal (morning) and the Memphis Evening Appeal. Almost simultaneously receivers were named at Knoxville for the Knoxville Journal Company, Inc., which publishes the Knoxville Journal, a morning paper. Defendants agreed to the action in both chancery court hearings.

Col. Luke Lea of Nashville is president of both companies.

Parachute Saves Son of Funston

OAKLAND, Dec. 12. (...—Frederick J. Funston, son of the late Gen. Frederick Funston, leaped from a spinning airplane 1000 feet above San Francisco Bay today and parachuted into the water. He was picked up by duck hunters uninjured.

Funston, a student pilot, was practicing putting a training ship into spins. He put the ship into a tail spin at an elevation of 4000 feet and was unable to pull it out. After hurtling 3000 feet toward the bay waters, he bailed out. The plane struck the water first and sank.

EINSTEIN AT OPERA AND OCHS FETE

German Attends 'Carmen' and Receives Volume of Jewish Fund Golden Book

NEW YORK, Dec. 12. (...—After having turned down an invitation to witness a German opera, Prof. Albert Einstein tonight went to the Metropolitan Opera House to see a Spanish opera, written by a Frenchman—Bizet's "Carmen."

Upon his arrival in New York Prof. Einstein expressed a desire to attend an opera performance. The Metropolitan impresario immediately extended an invitation for him to see Wagner's "Siegfried," which was performed last night. The professor said he did not care to see a German work particularly. When told that Jeritza was to sing "Carmen" tonight he said:

"That is what I want to see."

With his wife and two other members of his party the scientist earlier had attended a luncheon given in his honor by Adolph Ochs, publisher of the New York Times. The luncheon was private.

He was presented with a volume of the golden book of the Jewish National Fund, containing the names of those who gave money to the Palestine Fund in his honor. In responding to the presentation address of Menachem Usishkin, president of the World Jewish National Fund, Dr. Einstein expressed the hope he would be able "to work for my people the rest of my life, as well as for science."

On Monday he will sail for Los Angeles on the Belgenland, which brought him here from Antwerp.

ALBERT EINSTEIN.

KFI, at 9:30, and KHJ, at 9:15 this morning will bring the Army vs. Navy football fracas to the dial. The proceeds of this gridiron contest are to go to the unemployment fund of the Salvation Army. It is only proper to accord the Columbia Broadcasting System, the National Broadcasting Company, the Philco Radio, KHJ and KFI a tribute for their broadcast of this contest. Time on the air is radio's stock in trade—and it is given freely today.

Then KECA at 4:45 this afternoon points to a fifteen-minute address by United States Senator Dill. This will come over N.B.C. from New York and the subject will be "The World Court."

They tell us that—

Eighty thousand fans will watch the Army-Navy game, and 15,000,000 are expected to follow it via radio. That makes 180,000 eyes and 30,000,000 ears—how's that, Mr. Einstein? Some spectacle (s) too.

KNX, at 2 p.m. After listening to the Army-Navy game, tune in on the Long Beach Polytechnic High and Redondo High tangle for the Southern California high school football championship—tomorrow's college stars.

KHJ, at 7 p.m. Hank Simmons's old "Show Boat" sloshes up to the levee. "The Jail Bird" is the title of the melodrama—a marvelous murder, a scene in Sing Sing prison—many thrilling incidents—a beautiful heroine is sure to be saved by somebody.

KTM, at 8 p.m. "The cream of the previous week's broadcasts"—from the United Chain—a half-hour of melody, song and, perhaps—humor.

KHJ, at 9 tonight. The Merry-makers. It reads well—Hallelujah Quartet—Ted White—Three Cheers—a maze of melody and gags. An excellent "chaser" of music and humor for KHJ's Musical Cocktails at 8:30 p.m.

KFI, at 6 p.m. Walter Damrosch's Symphony Orchestra — an hour of the works of Chabrier, Tschaikowsky, Haydn, Beethoven and Wagner. Chabrier's "Espana" opens this classic hour. From New York.

KHJ, at 1:30 p.m. "One of the most beautiful voices I have heard on radio"—not one but many letters told us this last Saturday when Lucille Gibbs sang. You'll enjoy this voice—and that of James Russell Loyal, a southern tenor.

KNX, at 8 p.m. Dixie Vocal Symphony. Did you like them last week? Twenty-four Negro voices—"Song of the Bayou" — "Sing You Sinners."

KHJ, at 8:30 a.m. No list would be complete without the New York Philharmonic Symphony Children's Concert. You'll enjoy it.

KECA and KNX. How would you like a half-hour of N.B.C. organ music—then a luncheon concert? KECA sends an organ recital at 11:30—then the concert over KNX at 12.

That isn't the radio half of it—read the dial.

Espee Relief Fund Founded

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 12. (Exclusive)—Employees of the Southern Pacific Company have established a relief loan fund available for emergency use as a means of aiding fellow employees who have been laid off by pressure of economic conditions or who are not able to work full time, it became known today.

Company officials have co-operated in the plan and have announced the company's intention to double all contributions made by employees. The money lent is to be repaid, without interest, when conditions permit.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 12. (...—The State Railroad Commission today refused to issue an order demanding the Los Angeles Railway Corporation extend its lines in Eagle Rock as requested by the Eagle Rock Chamber of Commerce, the Taxpayers' Protective League and another civic organization.

The commission decided it could not order the transportation company to extend its lines where a franchise does not exist nor where the utility did not "propose to serve."

LEWIS LOOSES IRE IN SWEDEN

Nobel Prize Winner Scores Old Order at Home

Tribute Paid to Left Wing Literary Colleagues

American Academy of Arts and Letters Rapped

STOCKHOLM, Dec. 12. (Exclusive)—Sinclair Lewis of Sauk Center, Minn., stood before the learned men of the Swedish Academy tonight, not only as a Nobel prize winner, but as a champion of the entire left wing of American literature.

In an address which bristled with attacks on the old order, Lewis made himself the spokesman for Theodore Dreiser, Sherwood Anderson, Willa Cather Ernest Hemingway and, the whole group of younger American writers who, he said, are the only living vital forces in American letters today.

"I salute them with joy," he declared. "Being not yet too far removed from their inconquerable determination to give to the America that has mountains and endless prairies, enormous cities, billions of money and tons of faith a literature worthy of her vastness."

EVIDENCE OF BITTERNESS

But there was bitterness in Lewis's address tonight—bitterness because American literature, in his opinion, still is suffering from gentility and the "stuffy domesticity" of earlier generations. In a country where industries, finance and science flourish, he declared, none of the "arts except architecture is popularly respected."

Professors of literature at most American universities still like their literature "clear, cold, pure and very dead," he told the Swedish Academy. Humanism he derided as an "astonishing circus," which sprang from universities and which has the "blackest reaction in a revolutionary world."

AMERICAN ACADEMY HIT

As for the American Academy of Arts and Letters, Lewis charged it is deliberately cutting itself off from all that is living, vigorous and original in American letters.

"It does not represent literary America today," he said. "It represents only Henry Wadsworth Longfellow."

In attacking the American academy Lewis singled out Prof. Henry Van Dyke, who had called his Nobel prize a "backhand compliment" to America. Van Dyke's criticism, he insisted, is a perfect illustration of the mental attitude which has tried to make American literature a hollow echo of life.

AUTHOR AND CRITIC SLASHES BACK AT LEWIS

By Jane Dixon

NEW YORK, Dec. 12. (NANA)—Sinclair Lewis, of "Main Street," "Babbitt" and other great American gargoyles, burst loose with a broadside in Stockholm while being crowned king of American literature.

The general feeling on the part of litterateurs here was that Mr. Lewis's invective against the cultural institutions of this country is hardly worth noticing.

Members of the American Academy of Arts and Letters, notable among the home-grown institutions side-swiped by Mr. Lewis, denied any desire to comment on the rather dusty and priggish character for which the currently celebrated Nobel author cast them.

George Jean Nathan, author and critic, took a different view, however. He does not think this sort of literary babbitry should go unanswered.

"The lamentation so often ventilated by incompetent and disgruntled craftsmen," says Mr. Nathan, "that the United States treats artists badly is hardly borne out by the noticeable affluence of most of them, by the exaggerated amount of attention they get from the public press, and by the abundance of the vitations they receive to dinners, banquets, ladies' club teas, speech openings, lecture platforms, blindfold fests for cigarettes and booze parties on ocean liners.

"I have grave doubts that in any other country in the world is a meritorious artist so rewarded and petted as he is in this one, and I entertain even graver doubts that he would not be much better off if well-intentioned dolts would leave him alone, allow him to keep his mind solely on his work, and so permit him to function in peace and quiet to his greater glory.

"The United States not only does not disdain its artists, it goes to such extremes in coddling them both in the way of personal attention and in financial reward that it often well-nigh ruins them."

RED PRESS HITS AT BAR ON IMPORTS

Izvestia Declares Rules Laid by United States Aimed at Soviet Union

MOSCOW, Dec. 12. (...—Izvestia, organ of the central executive committee, in commenting today on recent American regulations barring from import goods which have been manufactured by forced labor, says:

"There is no use in President Hoover attempting to protest that this is not aimed at the soviet union, since even the American press admits this."

The editorial adds:

"These rules, if adopted, will establish a juridical basis for creating difficulties for our export. It is hardly necessary to deny accusations of slave labor in the world's only proletarian state, which has model laws fo the protection of labor.

"If the rules are adopted immediately we can only say that they will bring at least as much harm to the United States as to the soviet union."

Izvestia cites figures for 1929 showing America bought from Russian only $32,000,000 worth of goods, while selling $145,000,000.

A CHUCKLE FOR EVERYBODY

TARZAN AND THE GOLDEN LION

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Esteban knew that he must escape from this situation quickly or his false pose as Tarzan would be soon discovered by the Waziri. What would happen then, the Spaniard wondered fearfully? Evolving a plan, he ordered the blacks to bury the treasure. "We will return for it when we have caught and punished the thieves," he said. This attitude pleased the warriors. "Once more is Tarzan acting like himself," thought Usula. Cutting across the jungle and guessing at the probable route of the Europeans, next morning they luckily came in sight of Flora Hawkes's party.

Seeing the camp fires and supposed safety ahead, Esteban addressed the warriors, commanding them to return home, leaving the gold buried. Sorrowfully they obeyed, for it never occurred to them to question the orders of their big Bwana. As they disappeared down the trail, Esteban breathed a sigh of relief and turned toward the camp of his own people, bursting in on the astounded Flora and the three white men. None appeared especially glad to see him. "Some of these fellows told us Tarzan had done for you," said Peebles crustily. "How come?"

"He did capture me," responded the gilb Spaniard, "but as you see, I escaped." Outwardly oblivious to the sullen glances of his companions he took his place among them. He could afford to wait, he told himself, and grinned inwardly at the thought of all that gold he had buried and which, one day, he would take out of Africa for himself alone. But the question was, how could he manage it? Who could he trust? For days he pondered the thing and then decided he would bribe these blacks to move the treasure where the Waziri would never find it.

Owaza, a wily old scoundrel and chief guide for Flora's party, was the one that Esteban elected to share his confidence. It was the mistake of his life as matters later turned out! To the native, Esteban made known his true identity and told the story of the cached gold. Then he found an excuse to quit the party, taking Owaza and a dozen blacks. Night overtook them before they had finished moving the treasure. And as they labored a crafty smile played on Owaza's face. He also had an idea. "Why," he reasoned, "risk death in a battle with ivory raiders when all this gold is as good as mine?"

TUFFY GRIFFITHS IS OUTCLASSED

Georgian Puts Up Cautious Scrap Against Rival

Iowan Forces Atlantan to Extend Self to Limit

Winner May Be Declared N.B.A. Heavy Champ

BY CHARLES W. DUNKLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO, Dec. 12. (AP)—Fighting a cautious battle, W. L. (Young) Stribling, the pride of Georgia, defeated Tuffy Griffiths, Midwest heavyweight aspirant, in a bristling ten-round contest in the Chicago Stadium tonight.

YOUNG STRIBLING

Stribling, overwhelming favorite to conquer Griffiths, perhaps by a knockout, was forced to use all of his sharp-shooting boxing skill to outscore the gritty youngster from Sioux City, Iowa. The Georgian, with his flashier boxing skill managed to win six out of the ten rounds, but only after he was extended to the limit by the shifty, dangerous puncher from Iowa.

The decision, which was unanimously agreed upon by the two judges and the referee, Ed Purdy, may result in making Stribling the choice of the National Boxing Association as the heavyweight champion of the world. Previous to the battle, Gen. John V. Clinnin, president of the N.B.A., and chairman of the Illinois Athletic commission, declared that Max Schmeling of Germany, the titleholder, had failed to defend within the prescribed six months' limit, and that it was up to the N.B.A. to name the winner of the Griffiths-Stribling bout as the association's titleholder. Gen. Clinnin, however, must obtain the approval of other member States and communications asking for their assent will be sent out tomorrow.

When Stribling was proclaimed the winner, the verdict was greeted

Yacht Rules Holding Back Lipton Defi

SOUTHAMPTON (Eng.) Dec. 12. (AP)—Sir Thomas Lipton said upon his arrival here today he would rechallenge for the America's Cup as soon as the New York Yacht Racing Association settles upon the rules governing the race.

"I'd challenge tomorrow if I knew what the rules were to be," he said. "I hope they bar metal masts. I don't want a metal mast and I hope they make them illegal for the next race, which probably will take place in 1932, if the rules are settled upon."

BOXING TO RALLY SOON, DOYLE SAYS

State Board Is Given Promoter's Version of Conditions Here

BY FRANK ROCHE

"The gallery god is the backbone of the boxing game. The four-round game was the fans' favorite. Boxing will come back strong here after the first of the year." These terse statements are Jack Doyle's, dean of fistic promoters. They came from Doyle yesterday at the Alexandria Hotel, where the State Board of Inquiry held its final session in Southern California investigating conditions in the boxing game for the Governor.

JACK DOYLE

Doyle was the principal witness called at the closing meeting of the board. He told the committee headed by Allan Bixby that the undesirables in boxing should be weeded out. The game itself was all right, Doyle assured the board.

"Seventy-five per cent of the boxers could do their own business. The other 25 per cent we could do without," the boxing promoter stated in answering a question on the necessity of having managers. He did not say that managers should be dropped altogether but he indicated that a good many of them could be forgotten about.

Doyle believes that just as soon as the gallery patron gets his feet back on the ground financially which will be of course when conditions improve the fight game will pick up overnight.

The promoter informed the committee that he was very much in favor of having every boxer examined physically and mentally before he was granted a license. In that way the riff-raff could be eliminated. Managers, too, could be subjected to sort of an examination before they were granted a license.

He informed the committee that it was news to him that a collection had been taken up for a medal for a former boxing inspector in this district and assured them that he had contributed nothing toward it. In fact he laughingly stated that

MENLO FAVORED TO TAKE STATE GRID TITLE FROM COMPTON JAYSEES TODAY

BY BOB RAY

With the State junior college championship as the prize for the victors, the sturdy Oaks of Menlo Park and the terrible Tartars of Compton, by process of elimination proved the two best jaysee elevens in California, tangle today at Ramsaur Field in a grid battle that ought to provide plenty of excitement for an expected crowd of some 5000 wild-eyed football enthusiasts.

EDDIE SUGGETT

HERBERT FLEISHACKER JR.

The Oaks, coached by Dud De Groot, Russ Sweet and Herb Fleishhacker, have cleaned up Northern and Central California jaysee grid ranks in impressive fashion, rolling up the imposing total of 342 points to 20 for their opponents, and will take the field favorites, but they can expect a terrific battle from "Deacon" Pine's Compton machine.

Coach Pine's Tartars captured the Southern California junior college crown last week by defeating Riverside, 20 to 14, in a hectic struggle that ought to have put them in fighting trim for today's titular battle. Although they have not proved to be as high a scoring aggregation as the Menlo eleven, the Tartars have shown their mettle by playing through a tough thirteen-game schedule without suffering a defeat. The only blemishes on the Compton record are ties with Santa Ana J. C. and the unbeaten Trojan freshmen, provided the latter performance can be called a blemish.

Ramsaur Field has been equipped with collapsible bleachers to take care of the expected large turnout and a capacity crowd is looked for. The kick-off is scheduled for 2 o'clock.

In a way, the Menlo-Compton clash can be called a miniature Stanford-Trojan battle. Menlo, with two ex-Indian grid stars coaching its team, is a Stanford "farm," while Compton uses the Howard Jones system and sends many of its athletes to the University of Southern California.

Assisting Pine with the coaching duties at Compton are Ed Suggett, former Whittier backfield ace, and Frank Anthony, ex-Trojan lineman.

Pine appears a trifle worried over the shape of the Tartars, who have gone through thirteen games. "If I can get my boys pepped up," says the Compton coach, "I am confident they'll give Menlo a battle, but thirteen hard games is quite a strain on a football team. Teams have gone stale before on easier schedules than that."

Some of the Tartars came out of last week's Riverside game pretty well bruised and may not be able to last the full battle today. However, in all positions Pine has pretty strong reserves.

Coach DeGroot announced last night after sending his athletes through a final workout on the Compton turf that the Oaks are in good shape with the exception of Art Rizo, all-conference end, who was left at home suffering with the flu.

Menlo's starting backfield will find George McLachlan at quarter, Frenchy LaCombe, rated by San Francisco critics as one of the best ball carriers on the Coast, and Wilton Wilton, former Huntington Park star, at the halves and Bill Peacock, Santa Barbara ace, at full.

Coach Pine is still undecided over Compton's starting backfield line-up. Either Tom Yancey or Dell Canfield will be in at quarter. The halves will be Capt. Pap McKee, a good interference running back, and Dynamite Slagle, with Porky Smith the fullback. Yancey, McKee and Smith were members of Compton High's strong eleven in 1928 and this makes the fifth year they've played together.

The Oaks will have a weight advantage over the Tartars, who run a bit more to speed than beef. The only direct means of comparing the two teams is by their showing

CHARITY GAME BOOMING

Coliseum Contest Between ex-Notre Dame Stars and Western Team Looms as Great Attraction

BY BRAVEN DYER

What loomed at the start as merely another football game now gives promise of blossoming into one of the genuine highlights of the 1930 season. I refer to the all-star charity contest billed for two weeks from today at the Coliseum.

This struggle will feature a group of former Notre Dame players against the pick of the Far West and South, with Kaynute Rockne himself mentoring the ex-Irish laddies and James Phelan of Washington, in charge of the defenders of Pacific Coast honor.

RUSS SAUNDERS

That, fans, is a gridiron offering of considerable appeal, particularly when you include in the roster of the Notre Dame contingent such sparkling stars of the past as Christy Flanagan, Jack Elder, Jack Cannon, Tim Moynihan, Art Parisien and Ted Twomey, not to mention half a dozen thunderbolts from the Irish eleven which charged up and down the field here a week ago.

GREAT BACKFIELD

Phelan, now in Northern California, returns here to gather his squad together. His backfield is pretty well set with such stars as Pest Welch, all-American captain of Purdue last year; Cotton Wilcox, Purdue riot of two seasons back; Bobby Todd, Tennessee quarterback who rates high on the same plane With Frank Carideo; Russ Saunders, thundering ball carrier of the 1929 Trojans; Lloyd Thomas, great blocking halfback of Southern California's 1928 eleven, and possibly Marsh Duffield, skipper of the present S.C. varsity. This is only a partial list of the ball carriers Phelan will have under his wing.

SOUTHLAND PREP TITLE AT STAKE

Schell and Red Franklin to Stage Backfield Duel

'Dynamite' Walt Outstanding Bay League Star

Coliseum Contest to Start at 2 o'clock Sharp

BY IRVING ECKHOFF

One of the most interesting pigskin duels witnessed this year will be presented at the Coliseum this afternoon when Walt (Dynamite) Schell of Redondo and Norman (Red) Franklin, demon Long Beach half, lead their respective elevens into the finals of the Southern California prep football playoff.

COACH LLOYD WALLER

Schell and Franklin are both outstanding in prep ranks with the Redondo giant being the most spectacular player to participate in a Southland title game for several years.

Schell weighs close to 215 and is 6 feet 4 1-2 inches tall and is very fast. In fact, in 1928 Schell set new bay league records in both the high and low hurdles as well as in the shot-put. The time in the high sticks was 15 9-10s., while the clocks caught "Dynamite" Walt at 23 4-10s. in the lows. That is fast time in any loop, especially for a youngster packing all the poundage that Schell does.

Lloyd Waller's eleven, with Schell leading the way, annexed the Bay League championship and have defeated both Covina and Santa Barbara in play-off games. Big Walt ran wild in the Colt affair, scoring three touchdowns, on 96, 41 and 24-yard gallops, respectively. The final score was 31-6. Last Friday Santa Barbara gave the Seahawks a wild battle, Redondo rallying to win, 12-7, in the last quarter.

RANKS HIGH

Long Beach fans are comparing "Red" Franklin with other Coast League greats and many veteran grid fans who recall Morley Drury, Chet Dolley, Russ Saunders, Howard Elliott and Orv Mohler say that the "Rambling Redhead" ranks with them. Timed in 10s. for the 100-yard dash last track season, Franklin has used his speed to brilliant advantage against every team the Jackrabbits have met this year.

While Franklin is admitedly the best offensive Long Beach back, Capt. Russ Sweet is no less dangerous. He has started only one game this year, but has been rushed into the fray time and again to provide the scoring punch.

While quite a lot has been written about Schell and his great runs and gallops, the experts have more or less forgotten his team-mates. Capt. Mel Seifert, quarterback, while he does no leather packing is one of the best blockers in prep ranks and has few equals when it comes to defensive work.

WARD STARS

Another great defensive player on the Seahawk team is Howard Ward, who takes care of the left-end position. It was Ward and Seifert in the Santa Barbara game that kept the Golden Tornado in check in the third period, when Clarence Schutte's team came so close to scoring on two occasions.

All three beach communities, Redondo, Hermosa and Manhattan, which send students to Re-

GRID WAR LOOMS AS CONFERENCE CONVENES

What has all the appearances of a good fight will be staged this morning when the Southern California Conference faculty meeting will be called to order at the Los Angeles Y.M.C.A.

Verne Landreth, athletic director of Whittier College, will ask the meeting why the Poets were refused games with Whittier and Caltech in the graduate managers' meeting Thursday night.

Chief Newman's team was due to meet both these two schools in 1931, according to the round-robin program adopted for the conference last year. It is understood that Whittier's tactics in securing athletes hasn't met with favor as far as Caltech and Pomona are concerned.

La Verne is also expected to make a complaint because Occidental has refused them a game next fall.

Santa Barbara State will have representatives on hand and will

WRAY LOSES PENN JOB; WARNER MAY GET BERTH

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 12. (AP)—"Lud" Wray, head coach of the University of Pennsylvania football squad, around whose head raged a storm of criticism, as a result of the season's showing of the team, is out.

His scheduled three-year tenure was terminated late today in a brief statement issued by John Arthur Brown, member of the executive committee of the university's council on athletics. It said:

"The council on athletics of the University of Pennsylvania announced J. R. Ludlow Wray will not coach the football team next year or the year after."

There was no announcement of a successor, and it is believed that no one has been selected. Glenn Warner, head coach at Stanford

SACRIFICE FLY RUBBED OUT OF DIAMOND RULES

NEW YORK, Dec. 12. (AP)—The sacrifice fly was legislated out of existence today by baseball's joint rules committee, meeting in the Hotel Commodore.

From now on when a batter lifts a loft fly to the outfield and enables a runner to advance a base he will not be credited with a sacrifice and he will be charged with a time at bat.

Proponents of the change insisted the sacrifice fly had no place in the rules. They pointed out in most cases batsmen had no intention of lifting a high fly to the outfield so the runner could advance a base. Instead most of them were swinging for home runs or a hit of some description. Therefore, they argued, he should be charged with a time at bat just as he is when he lifts a fly which does not permit a runner to advance or which comes with the bases empty.

There being no sentiment on the other side the rule was adopted.

Another important change limits the runner to two bases when the ball bounces off the playing field. This rule was designed to prevent "trick home runs" made when the ball took a hop into the stands.

The National League rule saying a ball shall be judged fair or foul where it last leaves the playing field and not where it is last seen, was given American League approval and thus becomes a standard regulation.

The pitching rules, especially in respect to the stance the hurler should take before delivering the ball, were clarified.

The committee also decided to revise and clarify the rules in general much as the football rules committee recodified the football regulations.

The sessions of the rules committee closed the annual major league midwinter meetings. Most club owners and managers had left for their homes tonight although a few planned to remain over for the Army-Navy football game.

GREAT THRONG TO ATTEND SERVICE TILT IN GOTHAM

Old Foes Hook Up in Benefit Clash for Unemployed; Middies Have Chance to Provide Upset

BY TED VOSBURGH
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 12. (AP)—A unique athletic episode marking the greatest service ever rendered by the game of college football to the cause of charity will bring together the football teams of the United States Navy and Military academies at the Yankee Stadium tomorrow before a crowd estimated at 70,000.

The ranks of those who will flock to the Yankee Stadium to see the ancient rivalry renewed in the interests of the public good after a three-year break were swelled by a last-minute ticket boom, which lasted all day despite dismal weather. The stadium seats 78,000, however, and the game is likely to be several thousand short of a sell-out.

MAJOR RALPH SASSE

No rain is predicted for tomorrow but the final work-outs of the Army and Navy squads were held on wet fields in a steady drizzle which made the gridiron soggy.

The Navy worked out on the scene of the battle, while the Army ran through its final drill in the comparative obscurity of Briarcliff, a few miles outside the city, where the squad is quartered.

Although light work was in order for both middies and cadets, the athletes moved with a snap and vigor that forecast one of the hardest-fought games in Army-Navy annals.

Not since 1927 have the Army and Navy met on the gridiron and all the pent-up rivalry of three years will be released at the moment of the kick-off.

Neither Coach Bill Ingram of the

FIFTEEN FIELDS ALREADY PICKED

Club Gyms, Swimming Pools Made Available

Organizing Committee Plans for Conveniences

Schools, Municipalities Aid Olympiad Officials

Each country participating in the Games of the Tenth Olympiad, which are to be celebrated here from July 30 to August 14, 1932, will have separate training facilities, according to the organizing committee.

Already fifteen complete athletic training fields, including running tracks, fields, gymnasiums, lockers, showers and other facilities, have been arranged for within a short distance of Olympic Park.

Several club gymnasiums, as well as inside and open-air swimming pools, will be available for the training of special groups. A practice rowing course adjoins the Olympic rowing stadium.

The organizing committee has made a complete survey of all such facilities in and near Los Angeles. Those most conveniently located have been selected for use during the coming Olympic Games.

As soon as entry blanks are received, training facilities will be assigned by the organizing committee to the various teams. The committee has had the complete co-operation of universities, public schools, municipal governments and athletic clubs in its work of providing these facilities.

Such facilities will be accessible from the proposed Olympic Village and the Olympic Stadium, and athletes will be transported en masse to and from their training places, their living quarters and the place where their competitions are held.

CHARITY GAME DRAWING FANS

Dyas store have been a beehive of activity ever since ducats were first placed on sale last Monday. With popular prices prevailing the suspicion grows that a crowd of not less than 50,000 souls will attend the game. All seats are $2.

Henry Monohan, high mogul of the Southern Pacific, received word yesterday from Knute Rockne that the Notre Dame contingent will leave Chicago next Friday night, reaching here one week from Monday. When "Rock" and the Ramblers actually arrive you can look for ticket sales to take a terrific jump for there is no greater drawing card in the grid racket than the Robbing Scandinavian.

Fans who are particularly interested in the coming of Knute and his Nomads, will watch the returns from Gotham Sunday when the Irish all-stars go against the New York Giants, one of the greatest professional teams in the country. The pros are skippered by Benny Friedman, ex-Michigan passing ace, and number among their linemen none other than Morris (Red) Badgro, former Trojan end. Badgro has played such sensational ball this year that Grantland Rice remarked that no other end in the nation even approached "Red" when it came to playing football.

RABBIT PUNCHES

THE BOXING INVESTIGATION

THE GOVERNOR'S committee investigating boxing conditions in this State has just concluded a six weeks' session. It has heard hundreds of witnesses, taken reams of testimony in three cities, San Francisco, Sacramento and Los Angeles, and is ready to go into retirement.

And retirement only means more work.

Pity the seven members who must read over 300 pages of testimony.

And after consumption go into huddles and write their own opinions of what is wrong with boxing, and how conditions can be remedied.

You have to hand it to the members of this committee—Chairman Bixby, Hutson, French, Sinclair, McFarland, Coffman and Brand—for the thoroughness with which they have gone into the situation.

They have a thankless task in attempting to purify a decaying sport, and if they succeed in whitewashing the stables more power to 'em.

EVERYBODY'S HAPPY

A LOT of folks saw Mr. Dean B. Cromwell, maker of track champions, in the corner of Mr. Don George, when he won the world's wrestling championship the other night.

And wondered at Mr. Cromwell's presence.

Well, here's the story.

Mr. Cromwell has been a wrestling addict for many years, and he became acquainted with George when they were both journeying to the last Olympic Games—Cromwell as a track coach and George as a member of the United States wrestling team.

Mr. Cromwell told about it at a luncheon in George's honor yesterday.

How George went through to the finals in the heavyweight class, and how a foreign audience all but tore the roof off when an adverse decision was rendered against the University of Michigan boy.

Mr. Cromwell registered a thrill over the defeat of Sonnenberg by George and said he was just as tickled as Carnation Lou Daro, who has yearned for years to promote a match in which the title changed hands.

Mr. Daro has achieved his ambition. He's happy, so is Mr. George and his chief second, Mr. Cromwell. They all say George's victory was their biggest thrill.

ARMY AND NAVY

THE renewal of relations between Army and Navy restores a fine classic to the football schedule.

Of course, today's battle is being played in the name of sweet charity with no assurance that relations, severed over differences of eligibility will be continued.

However, the mere fact that they are getting together this afternoon is an augury for the future.

A query in relation to this game comes in from J.V.W., who asks if Tad Jones ever coached Army and if he is a brother of Biff Jones.

The gentlemen are not brothers. Biff coached the Army last year, and retired in favor of Maj. Sasse this fall.

Tad Jones coached at Yale, and resigned three years ago because of alumni differences. He was never at West Point.

Tad is a brother of Howard Jones at Southern California.

ure than from any damage done by the punches and he came up full of fight. From that moment on the champion never gave Chocolate a minute's rest, storming continually into him, bobbing before him with elbows wound around his head, refusing to let the Negro set for another of his straight, sharp punches. Then when his charges brought him into contact with the enemy, Battalino fired both hands steadily to the body, wrestled Chocolate around every time he got the chance and shifted his attack to the head often enough to keep the slim Negro confused.

The Associated Press scorecard gave Battalino an edge in eight rounds with Chocolate, by his sharper, cleaner punching, carrying off the margin in seven. The champion's rally toward the close of the battle, when he ground Chocolate down by his body barrages and won the eleventh, twelfth, thirteenth and fourteenth rounds in a row, seemed to swing the balance to the crown-holder.

Battalino seemed a crude, inexperienced workman in comparison to the cleverness, agility and skill of the Negro. He missed many punches, walked into two-fisted volleys without offering a semblance of defense, but he never stopped charging forward, firing as he came. Toward the close Chocolate tired rapidly, though he managed to save enough for a rally that won him the final round in addition to the first, second, fifth, eighth, ninth and tenth.

The victory of the champion, underestimated though he was in everything but courage and aggressiveness, added the final touch to the decline of the Cuban bombbomb. In his last three battles, Chocolate has bowed to Jackie (Kid) Berg, a lightweight, Fidel La Barba, a bruising, body-punching featherweight, and Battalino. And tonight again it was the newly found weakness around the ribs that brought about the slim Negro's defeat. He could not shake off Battalino's smashes to the body and as the punishment took its toll, his speed disappeared and with it his punching power.

Aside from the knockdown in the opening round, there was little serious damage done. Battalino bled early and often from a deep cut on the bridge of his nose and Chocolate's sharp rights all but closed the champion's left eye. Both wavered under hefty punches in the last of the two-fisted volleying in the late rounds but neither was close to another knockdown. Battalino weighed 124½ pounds, well under the class limit, and Chocolate, 125.

Colleges, jayvees, freshman teams and athletic clubs are also primed for their respective races.

he didn't know any that deserved any medals.

Doyle reiterated his statements made the other day in which he stated that there were too many clubs and too many fighters at the present time on the market.

Doyle was followed by Col. Earl Stewart of New Zealand, who is here in quest of talent for his native land. Col. Stewart is a noted referee and former amateur lightweight champion of New Zealand. He is also a member of the Olympic committee of that country.

He brought to light some very illuminating information in answering questions put by board members. In New Zealand the referee's actions are the last word in a bout. They have no trouble with managers there because there is no such animal, he stated.

Col. Stewart said that he ran up against a queer situation here in seeking the services of a fighter. He was informed the boy had two managers, one here and one in Chicago. Needless to say he will not make the trip to New Zealand.

He gave the board a copy of the rules of his country. The board of inquiry will decide in the north next week whether they will meet again or not before reporting to the Governor.

Harry Brand attended the meeting yesterday, leaving a sick bed to do so.

FRAME TO COMPETE IN ASCOT SPEEDWAY RACE

A last-minute entrant in tomorrow afternoon's 100-lap sweepstakes at the Legion Ascot Speedway, Fred Frame, six-footer of the speed fraternity, is expected to complete one of the most formidable groups of nationally famous stars ever congregated at the Alhambra-Boulevard saucer.

Frame notified A. C. Pillsbury of the 3-A yesterday that he is grooming his Miller and hopes to have it at the starting line among the fourteen fastest cars.

Local fans remember Frame for his driving last winter. The lanky speed king always turned the curves at Ascot with his Miller running near the top rails.

It is to be Frame's first appearance here this season. He returned several weeks ago after a successful campaign on eastern tracks. It was his most lucrative year on the ovals of the Atlantic seaboard and Canada.

Dr. Fred Loring, the big chief of the Legionnaires at Ascot, announces that more than forty entries have been received for the 100-lap grind, twenty-lap consolation, ten-lap sprint, and two-lap helmet dash.

The list includes all the top-notchers who have been racing here. Among those enrolled are Francis Quinn, Ernie Triplett, "Wild Bill" Cummings, "Stubby" Stubblefield, Arvel Brunmier, Walt May and Johnny Krieger.

TUFFY GRIFFITHS IS OUTCLASSED

with a chorus of boos, and then a round of cheers by most of the 15,000. The experts agreed, however, that Stribling was entitled to the verdict, as he won five or six of the rounds, while Griffith won a shade in three sessions, with two rounds being evenly fought. Stribling, a great favorite because of his one-round knockout of Otto Porat a few months ago, started out as if he intended to repeat that triumph against Griffith, but found the Iowa youngster an elusive target to shoot at and an opponent as full of fight as a wildcat.

BUSY WITH LEFTS

Griffith never let up throwing his left hook and he banged away in close range with both fists to the body. The Iowan, however, was unable to score decisively with his rights to the head, but was able to crack Stribling with tantalizing lefts to the face that broke up many of the southerner's well-intended attacks.

Stribling used a stiff left to the face in the early rounds, but from the third round on he began to batter Griffith with terrific right-hand blasts to the body, which he alternated between the heart and stomach.

Neither fighter was in any danger at any time despite the fierce exchanges, but the most damaging blow probably occurred in the ninth round when Stribling nailed Griffith on the chin with a savage right uppercut. The punch jarred Tuffy for an instant, but he had the presence of mind to grab Stribling's right arm and clinch.

Stribling, in the meantime, slugged Tuffy with a half-dozen left hooks before Tuffy tied him up completely. After this flurry passed the Iowa boxer never was in danger and fought back courageously all the way.

If Stribling had any idea that he would score a quick knockout over Griffiths, he soon lost it. In fact, the fast-moving Iowa lad earned a slight shade in the first round by virtue of spearing the Georgian with a volley of lefts and holding his own at the rough battling in close quarters, with the crowd cheering him on with every punch he landed.

After the first session, Stribling began to box more carefully and won the next three or four rounds, by superior boxing and ring generalship.

TRIES FOR KAYO

The sixth and seventh rounds, which found both boxers fighting doggedly, might have been called even, but Griffiths, flashing a new burst of speed, moved ahead in the eighth round. In this session, Tuffy began plugging for the body and tried repeatedly with his right to the head. Stribling found himself forced on the defensive.

The ninth round in which Stribling made his major bid for a knockout victory when he landed a vicious right uppercut, was clearly the Georgian's.

Stribling was guilty of some unnecessary roughness in the battle, especially in the clinches. Griffiths complained to the referee on several occasions when Stribling belted him on the back of the neck with "rabbit punches."

The battle failed to attract a capacity crowd, but it drew 15,-870 spectators, with the gate receipts at $80,297.16.

GLENDALE CAGERS WHIP OXY FROSH

With Barton and Dennis leading a scoring orgy, Coach Bert Stanley's Glendale cage team chalked up an easy 51-to-30 victory over the Occidental freshman quintet yesterday on the former's court. Barton led the individual scorers with fifteen points and was closely followed by Dennis with thirteen, which represented almost half of the Dynamiters' total. Stanley has a tough game scheduled with the strong Santa Monica five tonight, and he did not overwork his regulars or the score might have been bigger. At half time Glendale had piled up a lead of 24 to 12.

ANDERSON HERE FOR BOUT AGAINST GANS AT OLYMPIC

Babe Anderson is here for his ten-round bout with Baby Joe Gans at the Olympic Tuesday night. He arrived yesterday from San Jose.

He has always been a sort of enigma in the boxing game. He has class. He is a slashing hitter. Anderson might knock out the champion of the world or he might lose to a youngster.

This was proven when he knocked out Jimmy Duffy in three rounds at Oakland. Afterward he dropped a decision to Benny Miller here in ten rounds.

Gans has become an offensive as well as defensive fighter at his increased weight. At the time he whipped Mushy Callahan in Vernon he carried the fight to his opposition.

Later the Negro became mostly a counter-puncher due to an eye injury that made him be careful. His eye is all right now and as a welterweight he is much stronger.

Anderson knocked out Leo Hernandez in a round in his one Olympic appearance several months ago.

Don Petrin, New Jersey heavyweight, who boxes Bad News Johnson on the eight-round semi-windup under Gans and Anderson, is making a lot of discussion at the Main street club where he is training.

Heintz Loses to Smith at Fleet Show

BY BERNIE HARVEY

Pickles Heintz, all-Navy heavyweight champion, lost the decision to "Gunboat" Smith yesterday afternoon before a crowd of 8000 people, when the two met in the battle division championship bouts at Troma Field. Smith outsmarted the former champ by keeping his face in the sun and raining left jabs on his chin. This was quite an upset to the sport fans, as Smith took five of the six rounds by a wide margin.

Admiral McNamee, commander of Battle Division 4, presented winners and runners-up in the wrestling and boxing matches with gold and silver medals at the conclusion of the show. The winners will be sent to San Diego where they will compete with the submarine, air and destroyer squadrons for the battle-fleet titles on the 20th inst.

Chief Boatswain's Mate Joe Fisher, former holder of the all-Navy lightweight belt for several years, acted as master of ceremonies, and the band from the Idaho played several pieces between the bouts.

Padilla, all-Navy flyweight champ last year, continued on his way to the finals again this year by stopping Ramirez in the fifth round, after the latter had knocked him down three times in the second period. In the bantamweight class Reyes took a close decision to nose out Sammy Pearson of the U.S.S. Idaho.

"Slugs" Dardeen, featherweight, of the California, held true to his nickname by slugging through six rounds to win the nod over Shorty Picot of the New York.

Bacon of the New York won over Johnson by a technical kayo in the sixth period when the latter hurt his hand in the lightweight class.

The welterweight title was taken by Dreaman of the Mississippi on a decision over Soah of the Wee Vee in one of the best matched fights of the day. Both these boys had plenty of fight and the decision was very close.

Shaw of the New York stopped Grimes, who was substituting for Smiley, in the fifth stanza to take the middleweight bout.

Roberts who hails from the Rebel ship, won by a technical knockout from Smith of the Vandal ship in the light-heavyweight contest.

Lieutenant-Commander "Duke" Kenworthy, Lieut. Jack Kennedy and Ensign Ricketts shared the honors as arbiters in the boxing bouts.

Wrestling matches which took place earlier in the day were won chiefly by top-time decisions.

"Cauliflower" Moore, last year's heavyweight champ from the Bear ship rode "Bull" Campbell of the New York to a top-time decision in one minute and twenty-three seconds. Juul of the Nevada managed to keep on top of Pinkowski from the Knickerbocker ship for one minute and forty-two seconds to get the decision in the light-heavyweight bout.

The middleweight class was won by Van Alstine of the wonder ship in a top-time decision of six minutes and two seconds over Hill of the Maryland. Jenkins, all-Navy welterweight champ, won that class from Robertson by four minutes and five seconds top time.

Beezley of the Missy finally squeezed out a top-time decision in 2 minutes and 2 seconds from Torseth of the Nevada in the lightweight encounter. "Irish" Conley from the Rebel ship took the nod over Eggleston of the Nevada in the featherweight class by 4 minutes and 53 seconds top time. In the only fall of the show, Carta of the New York pinned Triplett of the Nevada to the mat in 8 minutes and 7 seconds to capture the bantamweight title.

Lieut. Jack Kennedy, Lieut. (J. G.) Moore, and Second Lieutenant Shoup, U.S.M.C., alternated in the referee capacity during the grappling show. Ensigns Allen, Foley, Gallery, Stone, Swan and Whelchel were the judges in the flatic matches and Ensigns Laning and Burgett acted in that berth for the wrestling. Lieut. (J. G.) Ani attended the entrants as medical officer.

Johnny Lamar Beats Paluso at Hollywood

Johnny Lamar, who claims the Mexican lightweight championship, proved entirely too tough for Lou Paluso, Salt Lake 135-pounder, and pounded his way to a clean-cut victory in last night's main event at the Hollywood Legion Stadium.

Lamar carried off an advantage in a majority of the rounds and scored heavily with rights and lefts to Paluso's head and body. Lou, who used to fight around here about four years ago, has lost much of his speed since those days and his efforts to outbox Lamar proved unavailing against the relentless boring-in tactics of the Mexican.

Leonard Rahming took a six-round decision from Ernie Hood in the semi-wind-up. It was a hard-bruising battle all the way.

Guy McKinney was awarded the nod over Vincent Martinez in the six-round special event. The decision was booed. McKinney had Martinez on the canvas for a nine count in the first but made a good showing in the later rounds.

Santiago Lujan outpointed Eddie Neal in one of the preliminaries, while Manuel De Villa stopped Bob Decker in the second round of the curtain-raiser. Decker was subbing for Bert Smith.

REDLANDS QUINTET WINS OVER COVINA

A strong second-half rally was responsible for the Redlands High School basketball team defeating the Covina quintet, 37 to 27, last night on the former's court. The first half ended with Redlands leading by only 1 point. Smith and Stater, with excellent help from their mates, checked the Covina offense and rolled up enough points to give them an easy victory. Stater was the individual high scorer of the game, with 18 points to his credit. The line-ups:

North Dakota Sending Best Eleven Here

North Dakota University is coming here with the strongest squad that has ever represented that institution on a football field for their game with the Los Angeles Firemen on Christmas Day at the Coliseum. The North Dakota officials are anxious to get on some of the schedules of Coast institutions next season and for that reason they are out to make a great showing before local fans when they meet the Firemen.

The Nodaks will have to step high, wide and handsome, however, to get by Bill Blewett's Smokeeaters, E. O. Barnett, athletic director for the local department, points out. "We have a team that classes with the best on the Coast. We will play any of the big colleges any time they call the turn," Barnett stated yesterday.

In billing the North Dakota game for a finale for the Fire Department season, Barnett believes his outfit has made a ten strike.

The "Flying Flickertails," as the North Dakota team is known, have won every game but one this season. They lost to Army in a game at West Point where they copped a good deal of the spotlight from the Cadets with their brilliant passing game. Red Jarrett, the North Dakota backfield ace, won much praise from the eastern scribes for his speedy work with the ball that day. Jarrett has scored on every team the North Dakota eleven has faced this season, including Army.

North Dakota has a fullback named John Burma who is said to be one of the finest in the Midwest. He is a 190-pounder and steps the century in 10 1-5s. He is human dynamite with the ball, the North Dakota attaches state.

ARMY FAVORED IN TILT TODAY

Navy nor Ralph Sasse of the Army was able to announce a definite starting line-up, both backfields remaining in doubt until shortly before game time.

Coach Sasse said his two first-string halfbacks, Stecker and Frentsel, were still suffering from injuries and that their places in the starting line-up might be taken by Fields and Herb. Stecker is regarded as the Army's best passer and Prentzel is the leading punter.

Coach Ingram's problem was a strategic one. He was still undecided as to whether to start Kirn and Hurley, who have been his most effective backs, or to hold one or both in reserve.

Closer followers of the Navy predicted if the Middies' starting line-up contains both of these speed boys it will indicate Ingram has determined to shoot the works at the outset in the hope of getting the jump and piling up a winning margin in the first few minutes.

Ingram refrained from running through formations in today's drill, which consisted of plenty of passing for the backs and charging for the line.

Capt. Bowstrom, husky tackle, does the long-distance kicking, while the fullback, Hayberg, is slated to punt when the strategy of the movement calls for a well-placed boot out of bounds.

Up at Briarcliffe, the Army athletes reveled in the luxury of staying in bed until 9 a.m., which is the middle of the afternoon for Uncle Sam's hard-working cadets, accustomed to hearing revellie at 5:30 a.m. daily. Furthermore, the men were allowed to eat anything within reason and their practice consisted of nothing more than the lightest of signal drills.

The spectacle tomorrow will get under way early with the corps of cadets scheduled to march at 12:15 and the regiment of midshipmen to appear shortly afterward in their part of the parade.

In the colorful crowd will be numerous notables from Washington, including the Secretaries of War and Navy. In the box with Secretary of War and Mrs. Patrick J. Hurley as their guests will be Mr. and Mrs. Frank Phillips, oil magnate from Tulsa, Okla.; Edward P. Mulrooney, New York's Police Commissioner; Col. Peter J. Brady, New York banker, and Col. and Mrs. E. St. J. Greble of Orange, N. J., at whose home Secretary and Mrs. Hurley are guests.

With tickets ranging up to $50, the game is the highest-priced affair in the history of football. In connection with the game, a souvenir ball autographed by President Hoover and Army and Navy figures will be auctioned off to boost the fund for the jobless. Even the coin that will be flipped by the referee will be sold.

All arrangements have been handled by a joint Salvation Army-citizens' committee headed by Grover Whalen, former New York City Police Commissioner.

This special postseason benefit game marks the thirty-first battle between the Army and Navy. The Army leads with fifteen victories to twelve, while three games have been tied. In the last service struggle in 1927 at the Polo Grounds the Army won, 14 to 9, through the efforts of Harry Wilson, Chris Cagle and their mates.

There was little to choose between the two teams on the eve of the battle. While the Army has a better record, the Navy is considered far stronger than early in the season. It will be the eleventh game of the season for both squads. The prospective line-ups:

Bruins Ruin Poet Quintet in 57-23 Tilt

Establishing themselves as one of the foremost threats in Pacific Coast basketball circles, Caddy Works's U.C.L.A. Bruin five took things easy last night in defeating Whittier College, 57-23. The game which was played on the Poets' floor was marked by the exceptional shooting of Dick Linthicum, star Bruin forward, who shot ten field goals to take high-point honors with 20 points.

The Westwood quintet got off to a fast start, leading early in the game, 16-2. When the Bruin team made the lead 20-5, Works jerked the first team and sent the second-stringers into the fray. Later in the second half the regulars again made an appearance. The score at half was 30-11 in favor of the Bruins.

Duncan was leading point maker for the Poets, chalking up 9 points, while his team-mate, Grunsky, accounted for 7. Capt. Carl Knowles followed Linthicum in the Bruin score card, registering 11 digits.

The line-ups:

WARNER WOULD BE INTERESTED

PASADENA, Dec. 12. (AP)—Glenn S. (Pop) Warner, football coach at Stanford University, said tonight when advised he had been mentioned as a possible successor to Lud Wray as coach at the University of Pennsylvania, "I have heard nothing from the Pennsylvania officials, but I would be interested if they made me an offer."

Coach Warner said he had been out of touch with the situation for ten days, and had not been advised Coach Wray was out, but admitted he would like to return East.

Asked if a contract with Stanford might stand in his way, Warner said, "There is no contract. My agreement with Stanford can be terminated very easily."

NEW TERMINAL OPENING TODAY

New Case Oil Loading Berth Starts Operations

Harbor Group to Celebrate Event at Luncheon

First Cargo Due Out Monday for Orient Trade

BY WAYNE B. CAVE

Los Angeles Harbor Department will usher into operation today its new case oil-loading terminal at Berth 181, Wilmington, one of the most completely equipped modern case-oil stations costing $300,000 and constituting the first unit of three which will cost $1,000,000.

The inauguration of the terminal will be observed by a luncheon at the California Yacht Club at noon today with the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce as host. Speeches are to be made by Walter Allen, president of the Harbor Commission; R. J. Scott, Fire Chief, and by Don Fohl, president of the Wilmington chamber. The adjacent Wilmington docks and ships will be decorated for the event, and city fire boats will put on a spectacular display after the luncheon.

First ship to use the new terminal is the Matson Line's O. and O. steamer Golden Harvest, which began loading yesterday and will go out Monday for the Orient with 4500 tons of petroleum in cans and drums, all loaded from the new terminal.

This first completed unit comprises a dock 440 feet long on which is a fireproof storage shed 340 feet long, and having a capacity for 227,000 cases of canned petroleum. Plans call ultimately for its extension to 1000 feet.

MEXICAN TOMATOES DUE ON MARKET EARLY

Early Mexican tomatoes on Los Angeles markets before New Year's is the promise of the E. H. Hansen Corporation, pioneers in that trade, which will dispatch its first craft of the season, the motorship Jeannette R., Monday, to its own plantations at San Jose del Cabo, the tip of Lower California.

The company expects to import 135,000 boxes of tomatoes into Los Angeles from its own plantations, and to bring 71,000 boxes for other producers, equaling last year's importations.

It will dispatch its second tomato carrier, the Sequoia, south the 29th inst., and in February will introduce a third ship, fully refrigerated and much larger than the present pair. Details of the new craft were not disclosed.

Mr. Hansen said reports are 35,000 carloads of Mexican tomatoes will be imported into the United States this season from Mexico's mainland, but that his information is that there is only about 60 per cent of last year's crop available.

The port's $1,500,000 West Basin freight terminal at Berths 144, 145 and 146, began to take definite shape yesterday. Graham Brothers, Inc. completed grading for the 2500-foot reinforced concrete roadway, forty feet wide, which will serve the big unit, while Merritt, Chapman & Scott Corporation, contractor, started driving sheet piling for the bulkhead and completed casting of the huge concrete wharf anchors.

The terminal, to be the most modern unit of its type in the world, was designed by Harbor Engineer George F. Nicholson, and includes two 630-foot berths with a single fireproof steel transit shed, 1000 feet long and 120 feet wide. New features of the transit shed will include refrigeration units of single shipload capacity and a special case oil assembly section of similar capacity. It is scheduled to be commissioned in the fall of 1931.

The new roadway to serve the West Basin terminal joins Neptune avenue at the rear of Berth 141, just south of the Pan-Pacific Construction Company lease and west of the Pacific Electric classification yards.

Terminals of the Outer Harbor Dock and Wharf Company will experience a busy season during the next week, with eight offshore vessels in to handle 9600 tons of freight.

These include the Donaldson liner Gregalia, out for England today with 400 tons of local freight; the Barber Line's Norwegian motor ship Tai Ping Yang, in tomorrow from the Philippines with 400,000 feet of hardwood and 350 tons of general; the same line's motorship Tai Ping, loading out 450 tons of Los Angeles cargo on the 16th inst. for Manila and Shanghai; the Redwood-Gulf-Pacific freighter Delight, in the same day with 2500 tons of sulphur from the Gulf; the McCormick intercoastal steamer West Cape, in on the 20th inst., with 500 tons of pipe; the Grace liner Cacique, bringing 1000 tons of nitrates from Chile on the 20th inst.; the Johnson Line motor ship Buenos Aires, in from North Europe on the 17th inst., with 1000 tons of newsprint and general, and the Damiah East Asiatic motor ship Asia, here from North Europe on the 22nd inst., to discharge 750 tons and to load out 1000 tons of cottonseed cake.

Charles Paddock, sprinter and journalist, and his bride, the former journalist, and his bride, will depart for a Hawaiian honeymoon at noon today aboard the Lasco flagship City of Los Angeles. Others among the 230 travelers sailing for Honolulu include Theodore Von der Ahe, local broker, also on a honeymoon with his bride; Norvin Taylor, local newspaper man; David T. Fullaway, chief plant inspector, United States Board of Agriculture and Forestry, Honolulu; Dr. W. D. McKim, Washington (D. C.) surgeon, with Mrs. McKim, and George W. Lambourne, mining magnate of Salt Lake City, with his wife and two daughters.

In her cargo holds the liner will take out several thousand tons of building materials, automobiles, tractors, and citrus fruits.

A complimentary dinner to Harry Wills, new Pacific Coast manager for Thomas Cook & Son, with headquarters here, will be tendered him by the shipping industry at the Jonathan Club on the 17th inst. On the committee of arrangements are Clay Hutchinson, George G. Neil, James B. Duffy and William McIlroy.

Junior traffic men of Los Angeles railroads, steamship companies, truck lines and industrial properties making up the Rail and Traffic Club, a branch of the Transportation Club of Los Angeles, will be headed in 1931 by Ed Overton, freight traffic agent of the Union Pacific. This announcement was made yesterday by the retiring president, Gerald Selby, purchasing agent of the Los Angeles Chemical Company, who was made chairman of the board of directors.

Other officers elected are J. J. Berryman of the Dollar Line, first vice-president; R. J. Briggs of the McCormick Steamship Company, second vice-president; Harold W. Attlesey of the W. J. Voit Rubber Company, treasurer, and C. Ronald Mason of the Pacific Consolidators, secretary.

EGGS SLUMP TO LONG-TIME LOW

Price Hits Lowest Level in Nearly Twenty Years

Decline Blamed on Dumping of Storage Product

Pack of 1930 Held 1,000,000 Cases Above 1929

Extra-fancy fresh eggs dropped ½ cent a dozen on the Produce Exchange of Los Angeles yesterday to record the lowest price for approximately twenty years, F. M. Hudson, secretary and general manager of the exchange, announced. Prices in the course of little more than a month have been practically cut in half, the exchange figures show.

Consumers today may buy at retail strictly fresh first-grade eggs at 39 cents a dozen. Prices to the producer at the ranch are 23 cents. Transportation and boxing costs, with breakage, account for the principal proportion of the spread.

GROCER COMMENTS

"This is the lowest retail price for eggs at this season of the year that I have seen in my twenty-five years in the grocery business," Edward Dale, vice-president and general manager of the Southern California operations of the Safeway system, declared.

Other executives closely associated with the egg industry in response to a query yesterday asserted that at the present time packers in California are attempting to dump 1,000,000 cases of storage eggs. There are thirty dozen to the case.

It was pointed out that the pack this year ran to about 6,000,000 cases, when 5,000,00 would have been sufficient to meet the current market demand. During March, April and May, the peak of the packing season, eggs were packed at a cost of from 30 to 33 cents a dozen. These storage eggs are now selling for 18 cents.

It is unofficially estimated that about half the eggs consumed are storage eggs.

HIGHER IN EAST

While prices in other centers are lower than usual, there is a substantial spread between these and the Los Angeles quotations. New York prices yesterday ran 7 cents or more higher the dozen, and Chicago prices about 5 cents higher. The Los Angeles market ordinarily affords a price several cents higher than the Chicago or other middle-western markets.

While other sections of the State ship large quantities of eggs to the eastern markets, the Southern California production is almost totally consumed at home. The Los Angeles metropolitan area is the principal outlet for this production, the consumption being estimated in excess of 100,000 dozen per day.

A year ago prices to the producer were 43 cents at this time. In November last year eggs sold as high as 53 cents a dozen from the producer; in 1921, 67 cents, and in 1920, 81 cents.

Acquisition of United States Bank in Offing

NEW YORK, Dec. 12. (AP)—The prospect of eventual acquisition of the assets of the closed Bank of United States by one of the city's large banking organizations was regarded hopefully in important financial quarters today.

Completion of the examination by the State Banking Department is expected to remove most of the obstacles which could not be surmounted in the protracted merger negotiations which preceded the closing.

A prominent banking official pointed out the bank's assets could undoubtedly be more effectively preserved by maintaining their use for banking purposes, and that it was conceivable an agreement might be reached whereby they could be taken over by another institution, guaranteeing depositors a percentage of their funds. He was hopeful this percentage could be made high.

Broker Quintets to Vie for Palm

Teams representing the Los Angeles Stock Exchange Institute and the San Francisco Stock Exchange Institute, will meet to decide the State basketball championship in the brokerage field in a game scheduled to begin at 8 o'clock tonight at the Hollywood High School gymnasium.

San Francisco will be represented by a team from the Bay City office of E. A. Pierce & Co. Most of the players are former high school and university stars.

Santa Fe Head Cheerful Over Trade Outlook

Optimism regarding business for next year was expressed in a statement yesterday issued by W. B. Storey, president of the Santa Fe, in which he said that while the recovery will be slow, the coming year will bring improved business conditions. The Santa Fe's addition and betterment program for 1931 will be about normal, requiring the expenditure of from $20,000,000 to $25,000,000, he said.

Drought the past summer curtailed farm production and traffic has suffered as a result of the present business and industrial depression, but, he declared, commodity prices now seem fairly well stabilized. He expressed the hope that a year from now "we can all record substantial improvement and a bright outlook."

"The territory served by the Santa Fe," said Mr. Storey, "has experienced the same vicissitudes that have befallen our country generally this year. In looking forward we find that winter wheat has had favorable conditions up to the present time, and the citrus fruit gives promise of a much heavier crop than this past year."

The new organization, offices of which will be at 59 Wall street, through one of its constituents, will have an unbroken record of more than 100 years of business activity. Harriman & Co., members of New York Stock and Curb exchanges, are in no way connected with the houses involved in the consolidation.

OLD RAIL PROJECT REVIVED

Moffat Tunnel Line Order Brings Van Sweringens One Step Nearer Transcontinental Service

BY EARLE E. CROWE

Plans of the Van Sweringen interests for a transcontinental railroad from St. Louis to the Pacific Coast were one step nearer realization yesterday through the conditional order of the Interstate Commerce Commission authorizing sale of the Denver and Salt Lake Railway to the Denver and Rio Grande Western.

Owner of one-half interest in the Denver and Rio Grande, the Van Sweringens now have Arthur Curtiss James of the Western Pacific to face before the transcontinental project is a reality. Mr. James and the Western Pacific own the other half of Denver and Rio Grande, the road receiving the authority to buy the Denver and Salt Lake.

JAMES HOLDS OUT

James has denied any intention of selling the Western Pacific which he bought in 1925. His plans, he has said, call for the rehabilitation of the Western Pacific and the joining of this line with the Burlington, Northern Pacific and Great Northern, in which railroads he is heavily interested.

But the Van Sweringens have done about as they wished in the railroad business. The Nickel Plate, Erie, Chesapeake and Ohio, Pere Marquette and Missouri Pacific have come under their domination one by one, and it is not likely that these energetic railroad operators will halt short of San Francisco Bay.

Once in San Francisco, there is always the possibility the Van Sweringen project would swing south through the San Joaquin Valley to Los Angeles. Such an extension has been frequently attributed by rumor to the Western Pacific.

Transcontinental plans of the Van Sweringens over this route are not the first in American railroad history. Jay Gould originally conceived a coast-to-coast line and acquired control of a number of lines radiating from St. Louis through the Southwest. His death in 1892 ended this attempt, but ten years later the plan was revived with the Missouri Pacific as the nucleus.

COST TOO GREAT

Acquiring a half interest in the Denver and Rio Grande, the Missouri Pacific found its western expansion halted by the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific, and in order to reach the Pacific Coast it was necessary to build the Western Pacific over the mountains. The heavy expenditure involved in this construction was too much for the Gould system and the whole project collapsed.

Construction in recent years of the Moffat tunnel under the Rockies made the transcontinental plan feasible from an operating standpoint, and the Denver and Salt Lake Railway acquired the trackage rights through the tunnel. Before the full benefit of the tunnel line can be obtained, however, it is necessary to build a forty-one-mile cut-off between Dotsero and Orested, which will shorten the route of the Denver and Rio Grande by 173 miles from Denver to Salt Lake City and Ogden.

The Interstate Commerce Commission, in authorizing the sale of the Denver and Salt Lake to the Denver and Rio Grande Western, named as a condition the building within six months of the Dotsero cut-off.

Custom Plants in Copper Cut

NEW YORK, Dec. 12. (AP)—Copper was offered by custom smelters in the domestic market today at 10½ cents a pound delivered, a reduction of one-half cent from the price established earlier in the week by the smelters and producers.

Trade circles reported that although some smelters were still asking 10 3-4 and 11 cents, others were willing to sell at 10½, and there were some offerings by speculators at 10 1-4 cents. The larger producers were reported withholding their metal from the market. Export copper remained at 11.30 cents a pound, c.i.f. European base ports.

Addressograph Merger Voted

NEW YORK, Dec. 12. (AP)—Stockholders of Addressograph International Corporation approved today the proposed consolidation with American Multigraph Corporation, and approved an increase in capital stock to 1,000,000 shares from 750,000.

A cash dividend of 35 cents was declared by the directors for the final quarter, placing the new stock on a $1.40 annual basis. The new rate is equal to $1.61 on the old Addressograph stock, which was receiving $1.50 annually. The dividend will apply to all stock issued in connection with the merger.

INDEPENDENT PHONE COMPANIES GAIN

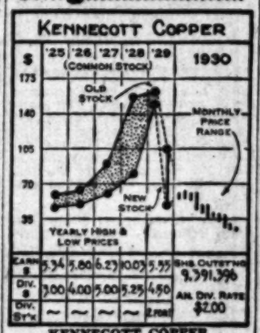
Development of major importance in the independent telephone industry now under way by large holding companies are expected to considerably outdistance the tremendous strides which the industry has made in the United States in the past few years, according to John M. Denbo, resident manager of R. L. Dunn, Jr. & Co.

Confidence has been strengthened by the stamina displayed by the industry under adverse conditions, it is said. The consistency of the advance by the industry is indicated through figures comparing January 1, 1930 with January 1, 1921, for these sixty-six major independent systems.

During that period, invested capital increased 112.4 per cent, total assets increased 114.3 per cent, operating revenue, 130.9 per cent, and net operating revenue, 217.6 per cent. The balance available for dividends increased 266.2 per cent in that time.

WHAT'S BEHIND YOUR STOCK

KENNECOTT COPPER



KENNECOTT COPPER CORPORATION

This company, with its subsidiaries, is ranked as the largest producer of copper in the world. The most important of its mining properties are located in Utah, Chile and Alaska. In connection with its operations at the Bonanza and Jumbo mines in Kennecott, Alaska, the corporation maintains two steamship lines and a private railroad for the transportation of its products from mine to market. Production is on a low cost basis, the average cost per pound in the last few years being about 8 cents per pound. In May, 1929, the Chase Companies, Inc., engaged in the fabrication of copper and brass goods, was acquired through an exchange of stock. Under normal business conditions this unit is expected to absorb about one-seventh of the parent organization's annual output of raw metal.

Reflecting higher prices of copper and a greater demand for the metal in the five years prior to 1930, earnings in that period showed a steady upward trend, $5.55 per share in 1929 comparing with $5.01 in 1928, as adjusted for the 2-for-1 split in February, 1929. Although interim statements of earnings are not available, the recent further cut in the dividend rate to $2 gives plausibility to current estimates of 1930 share earnings at $2.50.

CAPITALIZATION

Capital stock (no par) ..... 9,391,398 shares

Current data: Officials of the company have denied rumors that a consolidation with American Smelting and Refining is being considered.

Seasonal Drift Noted in Trade Survey of Week

NEW YORK, Dec. 12. (AP)—Dun's Review tomorrow will say:

With the end of the year little more than a fortnight distant, business reflects the characteristics which are common to the season. In some important respects, the present situation differs from the conditions of settled times, but surface movements are much like those which invariably prevail at this period. Stimulus to retail distribution through holiday shopping and relaxing industrial activities are familiar phases in mid-December, and the main attention now lies in the probable future course of general trade.

The early prospects are not clearly defined, various uncertainties still rendering the outlook obscure, and the persistence of commodity price unsettlement remains an unsatisfactory aspect. Even after many months of declining markets, the status has not yet been reached where other than isolated instances of steadiness have developed, and the lack of wider stability obviously is an obstacle to progress. There is, however, a conservative hopefulness in reports from certain of the principal commercial lines, supported in some degree by tangible evidences of an increasing interest in forward requirements.

Weekly bank clearings, $7,663,046,000, a decrease of 35.2 per cent below last year's.

Trio of Banks Vote Christmas Salary Bonuses

Christmas bonuses to employees were voted yesterday by the First National Bank of Beverly Hills, the Hollywood State Bank and the West Side State Bank, the First National bonus amounting to 5 per cent of annual salaries, the Hollywood State on a graduated scale according to length of service, and the West Side State two weeks' salary.

Net profits of the First National for the year to date have exceeded any previous year in the bank's history, Richard L. Hargreaves, president, stated. Higher earnings this year were also reported by the West Side State.

Officials of the Hollywood State said the bonus will run somewhat higher than that paid last year. All three institutions announced the declaration of regular quarterly dividends at their respective board meetings yesterday afternoon.

RATE UNCHANGED

CHICAGO, Dec. 12.—Directors of the Chicago Federal Reserve Bank today made no change in the rediscount rate which is 3½ per cent.

BAR SILVER AT RECORD LOW LEVEL

Steady Decline in Price Regarded as Factor in Present Depression

NEW YORK, Dec. 12. (AP)—Bar silver established a new historical low for the second time this week today, dropping 1¾ cents to 32¼ cents an ounce.

On Tuesday, the metal broke to 33 cents, which was the lowest until today. The market for silver bullion that day was so unsettled brokers failed to provide a definite quotation until late in the afternoon, but the market was more orderly today.

After breaking sharply in June, silver had maintained a better tone until early November. Since then it has been sagging almost steadily.

The price of silver is regarded as an important factor in the present economic situation, as it affects the purchasing power of much of the Far East, where that metal is still needed as a monetary base.

Since the first of the year, silver has declined from 46¾ cents to the present price of 32¼ cents, theoretically reducing Chinese purchasing power 28 per cent.

The latest weakness of the metal is attributed by bullion brokers to a slack demand from industrial consumers, and sales by the Far East to purchase the exchanges of countries on a gold standard. Until China becomes once more a buyer, brokers see little prospect of a sustained rise in the price.

Call Money Rates Again Turn Upward

NEW YORK, Dec. 12. (AP)—After holding stationary at 2 per cent for seventy-three consecutive days, call money at the stock exchange loan desk was advanced to 2 1-2 per cent today. After loans were renewed at 2 per cent. This is the first change since September 29, last, when the rate dropped to 1 1-2 per cent for renewals for the first time in fifteen years. Call money had not exceeded 2 per cent since September 14, when it was 2 1-2.

Although money had held officially at 2 per cent for more than two months, establishing a record unequalled in Wall street annals, the rate has been regarded as somewhat artificial, since loans have been made in the outside market as low as 1 per cent.

Firmer money at this time of year is a seasonal development, and in addition, banks have withdrawn funds to strengthen cash positions.

Loss Reported by Cuban Cane

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—Cuban Cane Products Company, Inc., and its wholly owned subsidiary, Eastern Cuban Sugar Corporation, in the annual report issued today give the consolidated income account for the period from February 16, last, when properties of the predecessor company, Cuba Cane Sugar Corporation, were acquired, to September 30, last, showing a net loss of $3,111,774 after interest, taxes, depreciation and reserves.

The loss shown in the statement, it was stated, may be regarded for practical purposes as that of a full operating year except for the fact that depreciation has been set up against properties owned by the new corporation for the period of its ownership of said properties, namely seven and one-half months, instead of twelve months.

Step Taken to Stage Merger

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 12. (AP)—Hearings on the application of the Pacific Greyhound lines in California for authorization to consolidate rights and certificates in the step started today before Erza Decoto, State Railroad Commissioner.

Earl A. Bagby, vice-president and general counsel for the stage company, said granting of the application would complete consolidation of various leading motor-coach lines into a unified system throughout California. The Railroad Commission has granted consolidation rights in three district certificates.

ADVERTISING HOUSE IN EXPANSION STEP

McCarty Company, advertising counsellors, specializing in technical advertising, have moved into larger quarters in the Bendix Building for the announced purpose of laying the foundation for a greater volume of business in 1931. A long-term lease on more than 4000 square feet of space has been taken on the eighth floor consisting of twelve private offices, general administrative rooms, production offices and artists' studios.

GASOLINE PRICE UP IN NORTHWEST AREA

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 12.—Standard Oil Company of California today announced increases in the retail price of gasoline at Seattle, Portland and Tacoma, ranging from 1½ to 3 cents a gallon. The Seattle and Tacoma new price is 21½ cents a gallon and the Portland price 22½ cents. Associated Oil Company is expected to make an announcement on prices today and it is expected that Shell Oil Company will later adopt the same scale as put into effect by Standard.

LIFE INSURANCE HOLDS OWN

Total Volume of New Business Written in 1930 Only 4 Per Cent Under 1929

BY JOHN F. SINCLAIR

[Copyright, 1930, by the North American Newspaper Alliance]

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—New York is entertaining the insurance executives of the nation this week, at the twenty-first annual meeting of the Association of Life Insurance Presidents.

Only 4 per cent less life insurance will be written in 1930 than was written in the record year, 1929, J. L. Loomis, president of the Connecticut Life Insurance Company, said yesterday that $18,500,000,000 of new life insurance was written in the United States in 1930—that is more than in all the rest of the world combined. There are now 68,000,000 policy holders in the country, representing 54 per cent of the population of the United States.

Every day during 1930, more than $6,000,000 in cash was paid back to policy holders and beneficiaries—or about $238,000,000 more than in 1929.

Life insurance now in force in the United States—$168,500,000,000—greatly exceeds that of all other nations combined. In fact, over 80 per cent of all the life insurance in the world is carried in the United States.

Frank L. Jones, vice-president of the Equitable, showed that Great Britain in 1929, the second country in point of volume of insurance carried, had only $11,705,000,000 in force. Canada was third in volume, with $6,808,000,000; Japan, fourth, with $3,972,000,000, and Germany, fifth, with $3,722,000,000.

France is not among the leaders. The French nation has never taken to life insurance. In fact, the people of Italy carry more insurance than the people of France. Canada carries six times as much as either Italy or France. The latest figures—those of 1928—show total insurance in force in Italy as $951,000,000, while France had but $884,000,000.

European countries that exceed both France and Italy in the amount of insurance carried by their people are Sweden and The Netherlands.

During the last year there has been a great increase in the life insurance business of Austria, Switzerland, Finland and Czecho-Slovakia.

Still their total figures are comparatively small.

Le Roy A. Lincoln, vice-president of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, brought out the fact that 327 so-called "old age pension" bills have been introduced in the various State legislatures during 1930, as compared with twenty-eight in 1928. There are over 450 industrial retirement plans in operation covering 4,000,000 active employees.

Mr. Lincoln advocates a retirement system for employees, based on life insurance actuarial figures. "Every American citizen," Mr. Lincoln said, "should invest a part of his income during his productive years so as to yield at least a minimum annuity for his old age."

He further suggests that the individual employee should join in the cost of the insurance by making current contributions from his salary or wages, and tie this up with the contribution from industry itself.

Mr. Lincoln took a firm stand against unemployment "doles" or disability benefits by way of State aid. He referred to the experiences of England, Germany, Argentina, and Uruguay as countries that had tried this plan and had found it did not work.

"Let us stand four-square for the principle of self-respecting self-support, every citizen taking his own part, industry taking its part, and the State, in its true function, guiding the whole."

The address struck a responsive cord throughout the entire audience.

PRICES FOR WOOL SOFT; TRADE DULL

Demand Held Confined Chiefly to Half-Blood and Fine Grades

BOSTON, Dec. 12. (AP)—The Commercial Bulletin of Boston tomorrow will say:

"The wool market has been in a rather bewildered frame of mind this week and prices have favored the buyers again. It appears that in all divisions of the market sales have been made below the parity of foreign markets, demand has favored almost entirely the fine and half-blood wools with little interest shown in medium qualities.

"Some manufacturers report a little more interest in their products but it is not sufficiently wide or intensive to boost the market any. Better things are hoped for with the turn of the year.

The foreign markets are hardly changed for the week with respect to fine wools, although the Cape has suspended sales on account of the untoward market conditions. Crossbreds in South America are possibly a bit easier. London closes Saturday with prices about on opening levels.

Mohair is dull and hardly changed quotably.

The rail and water shipments of wool from Boston from January 1, 1930 to December 11, 1930, inclusive, were 124,377,000 pounds, against 165,036,000 pounds for the same period last year. The receipts from January 1, 1930, to December 11, 1930, inclusive, were 315,179,712 pounds, against 296,157,500 pounds for the same period last year.

The Bulletin will publish the following quotations:

Copper Stocks Show Decline for November

NEW YORK, Dec. 12. (Exclusive) Total stocks of refined and blister copper in North and South America on the 1st inst. were 594,363 short tons, against 605,073 tons on November 1, last, a decline of 10,712 tons, according to the American Bureau of Metal Statistics. Stocks of blister copper on the 1st inst., including copper in process were 224,531 tons, a decline of 16,714 tons from November 1, and representing the lowest point for several years.

Production of refined copper in November was 112,646 tons, or a daily average of 3755 tons, against 118,229 tons, or a daily average of 3814 tons in October and 145,376 tons, or a daily average of 4846 tons in November, 1929.

Shipments of copper during November were 107,744 tons, of which 45,051 tons were for export and 62,693 tons were for domestic use. In October shipments were 113,949 tons, of which 75,703 were for domestic use and 38,246 tons were for export.

Fight Started on Oil Merger

In an effort to prevent the acceptance of the pending offer of the Texas Corporation to stockholders of the Indian Refining Company to exchange one share of Texas Corporation stock for eight shares of Indian stock, a stockholders' committee formed at Chicago, Ill., has just mailed letters to stockholders urging them to refuse the offer on the ground that the price offered is under the real value of the stock.

AUGUSTA (Me.) Dec. 12. — The annual meeting of the Indian Refining Company today was postponed to January 22, next, because of lack of a quorum.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 12. (AP)—An early rally in cotton on covering trade buying and some buying for a rally following recent declines was promoted today by relatively steady Liverpool cables. The demand tapered off on advances of 5 to 10 points, however, and the market later weakened under a renewal of liquidation and some southern selling. Prices broke into new low ground for the movement with new December selling off 9.71 and May to 10.24, or about 12 to 14 points net lower and the market was willing to accept for two of these figures around 9 o'clock.

COTTONSEED OIL

NEW YORK, Dec. 12. (Exclusive)—Cottonseed oil was more active and easier today under selling by refiners and commission houses, prompted by the easiness in crude markets, lard and cotton. Local offers covered on a scale down. The Census Bureau figures on November consumption were rather bearish, making the total 289,358 tons, whereas between 310,000 and 320,000 had been expected. The amount crushed in October was 379,541 barrels and in November, last year, 297,439. The close was easy at 5 points advance to 10 points decline. Sales were 3100 barrels, all in new contracts. NEW YORK CURB STOCKS

NEW YORK, Dec. 12. (AP)—The curb market steadied today, and trading shrank to only 539,100 shares, or about 70 per cent of yesterday's turnover.

Along with the big board, the list worked higher at times, but was inclined to sag later. Most net changes were narrow.

Electric Bond and Share was firm for a time, advancing more than a point, but it closed up only ¼. American Gas and Electric gained a fraction. Associated Gas A pared ½ to a new low, and American and Foreign Power warrants dropped a point to a new minimum. Nevada-California lost ⅛.

Oils were soggy. Gulf dipped off a point, and Humble and Indiana declined fractionally to new lows. Cities Service closed at 17, off only ⅛. Columbia Oil lost yesterday's gain of a point.

In the industrials, Deere rallied 3 points and Western Air Express lumbled nearly 4 to a new bottom at 14. An odd lot of American Rock, which rarely trades, appeared at 100, a gain of 27½ points.

Goldman-Sachs sagged nearly a point.

The closing price is omitted when same as the low, and both low and close when same as the high

HOLIDAY BUYING RUSH BEGINS

Just a Few Scenes in Downtown District
As Sketched by Times Staff Artist Garbutt.

"THE Drama of Christmas Buying, or What We Learned From Football," is the Yuletide comedy that went on downtown yesterday with a bang. It was the first day of the great holiday buying rush, and rush it was.

There was the jam that looked like the exaggerated football huddle of the film comedy. The man whose hat-top barely showed above his load of packages—and who had just discovered he had forgot something—was in the thickest of it. Half a dozen Santas tramping the sidewalks, stooping now and then to say something or other to the youngsters.

Then again there was the man in tow of his wife—on his day off. Great day for him! And was the woman there who is plenty fat, plenty loaded with bundles and hunting for small change in the inside purse of a huge packetbook? She was.

Out in the street it was the same. The "round-the-block drivers and all their relations were doing it.

The holiday buying rush certainly is on—and how!

Out-of-Doors Christmas Idea Gains Ground

This year's Christmas-out-of-doors movement is resulting in more widespread planting of living trees by residents of Southern California than during either of the two previous years that the idea has been fostered, according to leaders in the nursery business.

"I believe the success of this movement so far this season is a fair indication of what may be expected from the Christmas trade in other lines," said Roy Wilcox, wholesale nurseryman, yesterday. "In our contacts with retail nursery firms we learn that the general public is taking to this idea of planting living trees and it is reasonably certain that those who are spending money for this purpose are not stinting themselves very much on other Christmas buying."

Council Favors Filipino Ban

The City Council yesterday adopted a resolution submitted by Councilman Williams supporting the bill now in Congress calling for a two-year suspension of immigration, as a means of relieving unemployment for native born Americans.

The resolution also asks that Federal and State forces establish rigid patrolling of the borders to prevent the illegal influx of aliens, while means be established to register and fingerprint all aliens in order effectively to control identification.

VICTIM OF AIR CRASH SUCCUMBS

Harrison Dies in Hospital Twenty Hours After His Ill-Fated Test Flight

Twenty-eight hours after he crashed in an airplane while executing a tail-spin as part of an examination for a pilot's license, Joe L. Harrison, 36-year-old flyer, died yesterday at 4 p.m. in Centinela Hospital, Inglewood.

Harrison received a fractured skull, fractured leg and other injuries when he failed to right his training plane after spinning from 2500 feet over Los Angeles Municipal Airport, attempting to qualify as a limited commercial pilot.

Although wearing a parachute at the time of the accident Harrison did not attempt to leap from the gyrating ship.

His body was removed to the Alvarez & Moore mortuary. An inquest is expected to be conducted today.

Harrison was a former United States Navy chief machinist's mate and resided here at 3661 South Grand avenue. He leaves his widow, Mrs. Jenny Harrison.

RADIO FUND FOR POLICE AUTHORIZED

Council Approves Plan for Broadcast System and Plant Will Be Built

An appropriation of $14,500 for a police radio system was authorized yesterday by the City Council in approving a report of its Finance Committee. The money will purchase and install a central transmitter, receiving equipment in police stations and in police cars.

The low bid for the system was filed by the Electric Lighting and Supply Company.

At the same time the Council instructed the Police Commission to study and recommend the matter of a building to house the broadcasting plant. This building will probably be located in Elysian Park and will cost $2500, provided the park department agrees to the program. Tests have shown that none of the present city buildings is fitted for the plant.

RAIL MEN SIGHT BUSINESS GAINS

Carloading Requirements in 1931 Expected to Rise

Advisory Board Points Out Encouraging Factors

Upward Trend Forecast to Start First of Year

Improved business is expected in the first quarter of 1931, according to reports submitted yesterday at the sixth annual meeting of the Pacific Coast Transportation Advisory Board at the Biltmore, at which carloading requirements in California, Arizona, Nevada and New Mexico for the next three months were estimated.

Five hundred representatives of all industries within the four Southwestern States attended. They were told that wholesalers' and jobbers' reports indicate that inventories are below normal and that a slow, steady upward business trend is anticipated in the first quarter of the new year.

TOTALS REPORTED

G. A. Leithner, district manager car service division, American Railway Association, of San Francisco, reported that for the first ten months of 1930 freight originating in the four States totaled 1,561,392 carloads, a decrease of 190,104, or 10.8 per cent, as compared with the loadings during the corresponding period last year.

Perishable loadings decreased 1.1 per cent in the first ten months, as compared with the corresponding ten months a year ago, the decrease being due mainly to smaller shipments of citrus fruits, cantaloupes and miscellaneous products, which more than offset the increased loadings of tree fruits, vegetables and grapes, Leithner said. Smaller movement of citrus fruits because of the short crop accounted for a decrease of 3054 cars of perishables up to November 1.

EQUIPMENT KEPT UP

Leithner said that only 9 per cent of the total freight cars on all lines in this territory are in bad order, indicating that the railroads have maintained their equipment in first-class condition. This also is true of the condition of freight locomotives, he continued, saying that of the 1533 locomotives in the territory only 7.1 per cent are held for classified repairs.

It was stated that the banking group reports that the total volume of credit extended by member banks of the Federal Reserve system is slightly smaller than at this time last year. The credit supply, it also was said, is sufficient for all legitimate credit needs.

Money rates have declined to low levels during the past year and the financial situation is favorable to business recovery, according to data presented. The strong position of commercial banks and of reserve banks, the low level of money rates and the ease in credit conditions were among the factors mentioned as expected to lead the way to a definite business revival.

INCREASE EXPECTED

One of the brightest industry reports pertained to the canned-foods industry. It was estimated that 9500 cars will be required to meet the requirements of this industry during the first quarter of 1931, or approximately the same as were actually loaded during a corresponding period of 1929. This was declared to be an increase of 15 per cent over the actual loading during the first quarter of 1930.

An increased number of cars, it was estimated, also will be necessary to care for the dried-fruits shipment. Depleted stocks throughout the world were said to be in part responsible for the anticipated movement.

Car requirements for grain, flour and mill products are due for a 10 per cent increase over 1930 because of larger crops and increased demand, it was estimated. Estimates were made that gravel, rock and sand movements will make necessary a 7.2 per cent increase in car requirements over 1930.

OTHER PRODUCTS

Among other industries expected to move in heavier volume next quarter than in the 1930 quarter are hay, increase of 17.8 per cent; petroleum, 2.2 per cent; poultry and dairy products, 2.1 per cent, and rice, 13.5 per cent.

L. M. Betts of the American Railway Association of Washington, D. C., delivered a brief talk, in which he described railroads as the mainstay of the country's transportation system and urged steps be taken to obtain relief from certain inequities. Thus, he pointed out, truck lines and canal boats have the advantage of publicly supported highways and waterways.

C. C. Hine, vice-president of the Globe Grain and Milling Company, presided. Norman Sloane of the California State Chamber of Commerce acted as general secretary.

"NIGHT LIFE" PALLS QUICKLY

He Won't Wander in Wee Hours Again

Dick Maples and His Dog

HIS big adventure over, Dick Maples, 4-year-old diminutive son of Bill Maples, assistant chief clerk of the County Jail, yesterday was telling friends how it feels to be alone in the world.

Clad only in a suit of sleepers, Dick was found by passers-by between 1 a.m. and 2 a.m. yesterday morning wandering the streets in the vicinity of his home at 4286 Denker avenue.

"My name's Dick Maples and I live on Denker avenue," said Dick to the first persons to pass by, an unidentified man and woman, who wrapped him in a coat and commenced a canvass of the street. It was thus that the distracted father found him.

Reluctantly, Dick yesterday told how, on awakening he had seen the unoccupied bed of his father, who was attending an American Legion meeting, and came to the conclusion he had been deserted. This feeling was augmented when after turning on the lights he failed to induce his 7-weeks-old Boston bull to accompany him in search for his supposed errant parent. Mrs. Maples and a daughter Virginia, 9, were asleep in another bedroom, not learning that the boy had disappeared until Maples came home.

TWO BOATS BREAK DOWN OFF HARBOR

Seven Persons Rescued by Coast Guardsmen as Crafts' Engines Fail

Two small craft with broken-down engines and with seven persons aboard were picked up wallowing helplessly off Los Angeles Harbor yesterday afternoon by patrol boats of the United States Coast Guard.

The fifty-foot motor launch Peewee, with Capt. A. E. Williams of 6276 Drexel avenue, Los Angeles, and four others aboard, blew out a cylinder head at 2 p.m. eight miles from San Pedro, en route to Catalina Island. They had no more than run up distress signals than the patrol boat No. 261, Chief Boatswain's Mate Megee commanding, appeared through the fog, pursuing a rum runner. The pursuit was abandoned and the Peewee's party rescued and taken with the disabled craft to Watchorn Basin, San Pedro.

Engines also had failed N. Calandino and his son on their twenty-nine-foot rock cod fishing boat Salvador, a mile off the harbor. They were picked up almost at the same time as the Peewee by patrol boat No. 257, in command of Chief Boatswain's Mate Brandanger, and returned to port.

PIONEER OF CITRUS BELT SUCCUMBS

W. R. Powell Prominent San Gabriel Valley Bank and Ranch Developer

William R. Powell, 78-year-old pioneer of the San Gabriel Valley and founder of the First National Bank of Azusa and the Valley Savings Bank, died last night at his home in Azusa. He had been ill since he suffered a stroke three years ago.

Although his early education and training had been for business, Mr. Powell's first venture after his graduation from the Kansas City Commercial College, was in Texas, where he became interested in stock raising. After several years in the Lone Star State he purchased a farm near Holden, Mo., where he remained until he came to California in 1887.

In company with William A. Spalding, he purchased a small tract near Azusa, which was and is still known as the Spalding-Powell place. The farm was planted to oranges and became one of the first producing groves in the section. Mr. Powell continued from the time of the planting until his death as active manager of this original grove and although he later acquired more extensive acreage and became known as one of the leading growers in the San Gabriel Valley, he was known widely for his successful management of the original ranch.

Coincident with his arrival in Azusa, Mr. Powell organized the two banks and continued his association with them until his illness three years ago. He was in addition active in the affairs of the California Fruit Growers' Association and for a time served as manager of the Azusa-Covina-Glendora section of that organization.

Mr. Powell was a native of Defiance county, Ohio. His first wife died nearly twenty years ago, but their four children, Arthur and Oliver of Azusa, Mrs. Edith Johnson of Long Beach and W. Lester of Corvallis, Or., survive, in addition to his widow, Mrs. Allie Cole Powell.

HUGE BONUS FUND READY FOR CAR MEN

Street Railway Company Employees Will Receive $113,072 Monday

Rewarding its trainmen and motor-coach operators for safe and courteous operation of street cars and coaches, the Los Angeles Railway will distribute a total of $113,072 in Christmas bonuses Monday.

The men participating in this bonus award number 2062 and comprise 954 conductors, 912 motormen, fifty-two safety-car operators and 144 motor-coach operators. Approximately 800 of these men have been in the Los Angeles Railway service ten years or more.

For exceptional records the company gives special awards in addition to the regular bonus, and out of 2062 men, 220 motormen, 220 conductors, and twenty-six motor-coach operators participate in this award, which amounts to approximately $12,700.

This is the first year the motor-coach operators have been included in the bonus awards, inasmuch as the discipline and merit system was inaugurated in the coach division only last March 1.

The discipline and merit system has been in effect on the Los Angeles Railway system since April 10, 1920, and from then to now, the company has paid out in bonus awards a total of $1,112,143 to a yearly average of approximately 2000 men.

Control Boards Predicted for Concert Halls

Sounds Need Individualized Sway, Says Savant

U.C.L.A. Expert Addresses Acoustics Society

The motion-picture theater or the concert hall of the future will have a control board, not unlike the keyboard of an organ, equipped with stops and capable of changing the acoustic properties of the auditorium. This prediction was made yesterday afternoon by Dr. Vern O. Knudson, associate professor of physics at the University of California at Los Angeles, when he spoke before the meeting of the Acoustical Society of America at the university.

"It is very possible," Dr. Knudsen said, "that the musical hall of the future will be so equipped with control stops that the acoustical properties of the auditorium can be changed at will to accommodate the sound needs for the proper reception of a talking motion picture, a speech, choir music, orchestra or organ.

ALL DIFFERENT

"Each one of these different types of program requires a different treatment for the best reception by the audience, and this can probably be accomplished with movable mechanical changes."

Dr. Knudsen told the members of the society, who met jointly with the American Physical Society and the technical bureau of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, of his recent travel through Europe and of his inspection of foreign auditoriums. He described the architectural details of famous musical halls of Paris, London, Berlin, Vienna and Leipzig.

MORE MEETINGS TODAY

The series of meetings will continue today until 6 o'clock. The morning session will be principally devoted to a discussion of the problems of the acoustics of sound motion pictures.

Safety of ships at sea as influenced by the ability of fog signals to penetrate the atmosphere will be one of the subjects discussed this morning by B. R. Hubbard, and another address by F. R. Watson, representing the University of Illinois, will deal with the acoustics of the Chicago Board of Trade.

Delegates to the meeting were dinner guests last night at the Beverly Hills Hotel. There was no technical program nor speeches.

SHRINERS' PARTY SET FOR TODAY

More Than 4500 Children Will Gather in Temple's Ballroom to Meet Santa

Santa Claus will meet with more than 4500 Shriners' children tonight in Al Malaikah Temple's ballroom, when they will gather from Southland cities for their second annual Christmas party. The huge ballroom has been changed into a scene from a story book.

Potentate Fred J. Wadley, Jr., will start the proceedings by pressing a button which will illuminate the twenty-five-foot tree and also signal the entry of the Al Malaikah Temple eighty-piece band, the Chanters, uniformed patrol, the troubadours and the temple guard.

Chairman G. E. Nagel has provided ice cream and other dainties for the children. An elaborate entertainment program has also been arranged.

Another Christmas party will be given for about 4500 poor children on the 23rd inst.

Shrine officials and organizations will honor Noble Jesse F. Brown Wednesday night, when he will be installed as Worshipful Master of Henry Knox Lodge, No. 662, F. and A. M., in the Commandery Room of the Masonic Temple, Pico and Figueroa streets.

CONTRACTOR SUES ON INCOME TAXES

Asserting that the government assessed him too much income tax, Claude Fisher, general contractor of Los Angeles, yesterday filed suit against the United States seeking recovery of amounts he states were paid under protest. He contends that he is entitled to recovery from the government of $552 for 1923; $14,945 for 1925 and $3809 for 1926.

The Lancer

by Harry Carr

YOU are invited to look on this picture and on that . . .

Doug Fairbanks sitting on his front porch at Beverly Hills and with a graceful gesture of the right hand—held so—showing the young Duke of Sutherland the tuna leaping off Catalina.

The other picture is a film showing the commercial fisherman yanking in giant tuna at the rate of one every three seconds for each fisherman off the coast of Baja California.

There is a moral.

KEEP 'EM BUSY

If we expect to have tourists come out here every year we have to provide a show for them.

We ought to do everything possible to preserve the missions; to make the most of these pageants—like the Palm Springs Desert Play, the Mission Play, the Japanese cherry blossom festival at Beaumont, etc.

Most of all, we should preserve our fishing grounds.

FISH MASSACRE

The installation of electrical refrigeration in fishing boats has numbered the days of the tuna. Fish boats no longer wait for the tuna to come in. They fasten onto a school of tuna and follow them to the ends of the earth. It seems absurd to say that the fish of the sea can be exterminated, but no living creatures can continue to exist in the face of such massacres.

ONLY $3,000,000

Book-keeping must be a grand art if a building and loan manager can steal $3,000,000 over a course of years and the State Building and Loan Commissioner doesn't know it.

I wish they would hire an official like that over at the tax assessment bureau. The one they have there seems to have a fatal instinct for figures.

SUNNYVALE

After all, I can't see that Sunnyvale isn't a pretty good place for a dirigible base. In the event of war the strategic problem is to determine the intentions of an approaching enemy fleet—whether it is headed north or south. This implies a strategic central base. As to the climate, if we have flying machines that can't fly except in ideal weather, what good will they be?

FREE

The wife of Tom Mix can't say that the western hero was ungenerous in the way he made his final exit from the hearth and home—twirling his revolver around his forefinger. He got $30,000 a week for doing that on the screen. He contributed, consequently, for her free edification about $500 worth of free entertainment. And isn't that something?

SALVATION ARMY WILL HONOR DEAD LEADER

Memorial services for Staff Captain Fannie Field West will be conducted at the Salvation Army Citadel, 125 East Fourth street, tomorrow night. The speaker will be Brig. James C. Bell. Music will be given by the songsters and band. Mrs. West, who will be buried today at Inglewood Park Cemetery, was one of the oldest and best-known workers of the Salvationist ranks in the territory. Her last work was done in Hawaii. Services will be conducted, also, at the temple, 322 West Ninth street, Adjt. Frank Howell being the speaker morning and evening.

OUSTER BY MAYOR UPHELD

Appeals Court Affirms Removal of Delorey From Board of Public Works by Porter

Power of Mayor Porter to remove E. J. Delorey as a member of the Board of Public Works was upheld yesterday by Division Two, District Court of Appeal, in the appeal of the former city official's action against the Board of Public Works, its members, Horace B. Ferris, secretary and chief accounting employee of the board, and John S. Myers, City Controller.

Delorey was appointed to a five-year term on July 1, 1928, and he was notified in writing on September 16, 1929, by Mayor Porter that the executive had on that day removed him from office subject to the assent of the City Council, which was forthcoming September 27.

It was to compel the making and certifying of a salary claim for the last one-half of September that Delorey brought his action in the lower court. The lower court decided against Delorey and the ex-member of the Board of Public Works appealed from that judgment.

Delorey contended that his term was fixed by law at five years and that the power of removal given by the city charter, containing no provision that this power may be exercised without cause, notice or hearing, it is necessarily implied that removal shall be only for cause, after notice and hearing. In the absence of a notice and hearing, he asserted that the action of

JEFFRIES AGAIN SHOWS HIS METTLE IN BATTLE

James J. Jeffries, former champion pugilist, still packs a wallop. He demonstrated this yesterday in front of the Municipal Court building at 330 North Broadway.

For a full minute Jeffries and an opponent, identified by Jeffries as Capt. Bob Roper, former A.E.F. champion, slugged each other before Nod. I. Mulville, referee of the Municipal Court, parted them. Jeffries, according to bystanders, was staggered by his opponent's first blow, which opened a cut over his eye, but came back strong. His opponent, who left the scene immediately, was bleeding badly at the mouth when the fight was halted.

Mulville, announcing himself as an officer of the law, stepped between the two men and ordered them to desist. He then turned to the older fighter. "I'll take you to jail if you don't stop this," he said. "What's your name?"

"James Jeffries," was the answer. "what's yours?"

INSTITUTE'S END HOPEFUL

Riverside Conference on International Relations Closes in Optimistic View of Future

BY CHESTER G. HANSON
"Times" Staff Representative

RIVERSIDE, Dec. 12.—With a note of optimism as to the progress of international relations, the seventh annual session of the Institute of International Relations was brought to a close at the Mission Inn tonight.

Dr. R. B. Von KleinSmid, president of the University of Southern California and chancellor of the institute, said that the session had been one of the most successful and beneficial the institute has held. The next session will be held here in 1931, with Dr. Eliot G. Mears, professor of Stanford University, as director.

The institute closed with two lectures, the first on the Indian political crisis, by Claude F. Strickland, Indian Civil Service, retired. He spent many years in India and his talk was based upon personal contact with the Indian problem. He said that the majority of the British administration in India is looking forward to Indian self-government under conditions which will insure safety.

Strickland said that all men, both British and Indian, moderate in their views, sitting at the round table discussion on India's troubles at London are seeking a solution for the troubles of the Indian empire. He felt that whatever agreement they reach will be approved by the British electorate. He scored utterances on the Indian problem

BANDITS SEIZE CASH IN BANK

Sunset Boulevard Branch Held Up for $777

Cashier and Customer Put in Closet by Gunmen

Robbers Depart Unseen by Any Other Persons

Locking the cashier and a customer in a closet, two bandits yesterday afternoon robbed a branch of the Republic Bank at 8901 Sunset Boulevard of $777 and escaped.

Accosting F. M. Douglas, Jr., cashier, while he was waiting on W. C. Carter, a customer, the two bandits ordered the pair in a small adjoining room and locked the door after giving Carter a match with which to light a cigarette.

Returning to the banking room, the robbers scooped the money from the cash drawers into a paper shopping bag and hastily departed without being seen, according to a report of Deputy Sheriffs Wigginton and West, working under Capt. Stensland of the Sheriff's burglary and robbery detail.

Douglas was released from his place of confinement by Carter, who first called the Sheriff's office after crawling through a small window.

Whether the bandit pair escaped in an automobile was not known to officers last night. They were described as being between 30 and 32 years of age, one being about 5ft. 6in. in height and having black hair with sideburns, and the other 5ft. 10in. in height with reddish hair. Each carried a .32-caliber gun.

SUSPECT HELD UNDER $7000 BAIL

Named in a complaint charging robbery and kidnaping as the outgrowth of the hold-up last Tuesday of the Bank of America branch at Walnut Park, Harry A. Doughty, 39 years of age, yesterday was arraigned before Judge Miller of Huntington Park Justice Court.

Doughty was held under bail of $7000 pending a preliminary hearing Monday.

The accused man is asserted to have obtained $325 from the bank and then forced Edward C. Schulz, manager, to accompany him to a near-by apartment, where he bound the bank official and fled. Doughty was arrested last Thursday by Deputy Sheriffs Wigginton and West, working under Capt. Stensland of the Sheriff's burglary and robbery detail, who traced him to Compton by means of a paper sticker in the band of a hat he is asserted to have discarded after the robbery.

The suit against Morro, also named as a defendant, was dismissed by Judge Chambers when he produced a Federal court document showing that he was adjudged a bankrupt last September.

Mrs. Herb Brown Suit Scheduled Next Wednesday

Mrs. Nacio Herb Brown, wife of the song writer, will appear in Superior Judge Valentine's court next Wednesday to press her claims for separate maintenance and return of more than $100,000 which she asserts she advanced to Brown from her own separate estate.

The song writer has a cross-complaint on file, meanwhile, in which he denies the financial advances, and, in addition, denies assertions in the litigation that he has made $200,000 in the past four years in the melody markets.

It was erroneously reported on the 11th inst. in The Times that Brown had sued Mrs. Brown for divorce and demanded repayment of a $200,000 settlement he gave her. The court records indicate the reverse is correct.

DR. FISKE CASE JURY LOCKED UP

Physician Accused of Girl's Murder Through Illegal Operation

After deliberating since noon yesterday the jury which heard the trial of Dr. William C. Fiske, Hermosa Beach physician charged with the murder of Vera Nelson, was ordered locked up for the night last night. It will resume its study of the case today.

Dr. Fiske was accused of performing an illegal operation upon Miss Nelson, which officers assert caused her death. During the trial Dr. Fiske took the stand in his own defense and stated that Miss Nelson came to him for aid after she already had attempted to perform the operation herself.

James P. Costello, deputy District Attorney, charged that Dr. Fiske attempted to end his own life when he discovered that the girl would not survive the operation and argued to the jury that this was an admission of guilt.

The trial also was featured by the introduction into evidence of a letter from a mysterious girl who signed herself Birdie, stating that she witnessed Miss Nelson attempt the operation. It was impossible to corroborate this evidence, however.

DR. COWLEY MUST FACE MURDER TRIAL

Dr. Ralph Cowley, chiropractor of 2634 South Vermont avenue, must face trial for murder as a result of the death of Genevieve Brown, 19 years of age, West Los Angeles schoolgirl, Municipal Judge Russill ordered yesterday. Judge Russill also ordered a special commitment charging Cowley with having performed an illegal operation.

George Estes, 2110 South Colby avenue, testified that he took the girl to Cowley's office and that the fee was to be $40. Doctors called as witnesses by Dep. Dist.-Atty. Hunt said the girl died in a hospital after an emergency operation failed to save her life.

The court ordered Cowley released on $2500 bail pending trial.

Mae Murray and Husband Sued

Mae Murray, motion-picture actress, and her titled husband, Prince David Mdivani, were made defendants in a $1500 lien suit filed by C. H. Basore, a Pasadena contractor, yesterday.

Basore claims that Prince Mdvani on May 3 contracted with him to move an apartment-house at 211 Walnut street twelve feet south and on July 24 ordered the work stopped and failed to pay the balance sued for on a $5151 bill.

WIFE'S "BOY FRIEND" CITED IN COMPLAINT

Edward R. Harris asserts in his divorce complaint, on file yesterday, that his wife allowed her boy friend to stay at their home at no expense and met Harris's protests with the false accusation that he was too friendly with his girl secretary. In addition to calling him names, his wife kept him in debt by extravagance, the plaintiff asserts.

SIX TO SEEK AIR RECORD

Huge Trimotored Plane Will Take Off Tomorrow at Grand Central in Endurance Test

In the largest trimotored monoplane in the world six men, all pilots, will take off at 2:30 p.m. from Grand Central Air Terminal tomorrow on a flight attempt to beat the world's air refueling endurance record of 647h. 28m. 30s.

Jimmie Angel, who has been flying for nearly sixteen years, a member of the Royal Air Force during the World War, will go aloft as captain of the flight.

The ship which the sextet will use is a high-winged Albatross, powered by three Western Enterprise 170-horsepower seven-cylinder radial motors.

CATWALK PROVIDED

One of the novel arrangements on the new endurance grind will allow mechanics to go outside the huge cabin on catwalks and overhaul any of the three engines while in flight. The ship can fly on any two motors and can hold its own on one engine long enough to allow mechanics to make minor adjustments on the other two.

Tanks to hold a capacity load of 600 gallons of gasoline and 100 gallons of oil—enough for twenty hours flying, obviating night refueling—have been installed.

A high-powered radio set will allow the flight crew to keep in touch with the ground base at Grand Central. Their description of the flight will be rebroadcast over radio KFWB, Angel announced.

Adequate space in the fuselage will allow the crew to walk back and forth in the ship for exercise and make room for comfortable air mattress bunks.

MEMBERS OF CREW

Members of the endurance crew, besides Angel, are George Shleppey, pilot; Paul Wiser, pilot and radio operator; Ed Frame, pilot and in charge of the refueling hose; Sam Hopkins, pilot, and, Bob Perlick, pilot and mechanic.

Two refueling ships will be used, one to be manned by Bud Hussey and Ralph De Rose, and the other by Jack Atkinson and Jack Byrd. Frank M. Donnely and Robert C. Metzler are flight managers. Charlie Burrows will be in charge of the ground crew, composed of Parker Angel, Pierre Allino and Pat C. Murphy.

One of the objects of the endurance test is to prove the practicability of making major repairs on aircraft motors while in flight, Angel said. The present world's record was set over St. Louis on August 17, last, in a single-engined Curtiss Robin by Dale Jackson and Forest O'Brine.

CHAIN STORE IDEA UPHELD BY MANAGER

Safeway Head Sets Forth Economic Advantages to Rotary Club Meeting

"The chain store in its present proportion is but the outgrowth of what was once one little store modestly, yet ambitiously raising its head above the average line," Riley W. Doe, vice-president of the Oakland Safeway Stores, said yesterday in an address before the Rotary Club at a Biltmore luncheon.

Doe said the chain store is the culmination of the common dream of all men in the business of merchandising. It is a strictly economic development, not a personal whim, he said. The ambition of the chain store is to serve the greatest good to the greatest number, and to effect distribution without waste.

"The recognized value of centralized control is shown in the advertising of the associated manufacturers of ice as a refrigerant; lumber as a building material, and also concrete, brick and steel," Doe said.

The chain store official advised his listeners that the purchases of his company on the Pacific Coast are many millions of dollars in excess of sales in these States, but that the western buyers act as purchasing agents for other districts where the merchandise can be used.

"Our own purchases of California-grown products probably will exceed $100,000,000 this year," he said, "and our sales for the first ten months of 1930 are 2.7 per cent better than last year on lowered commodity values."

Film Director Wins Plea for Cut in Alimony

Alimony citations have so interfered with the studio labors of Luther Reed, film director, that his pay check has shrunken, the director testified in Superior Judge Valentine's court, yesterday, where his weekly alimony payment to Jocelyn Lee was reduced from $100 to $75.

Miss Lee, represented by Attorney C. O. Bacon, testified that she needed the money to support her two children, Celesta and Dana. It was disclosed that Reed owed his first wife, Naomi Childers, $1000 in back alimony, but Miss Childers's attorney, Roger Marchetti, declared his client will not press the director for that money until he became more prosperous.

APPRAISAL BOARD NAMED

Supervisors to Ascertain Value of Proposed Spreading Ground for Flood Control

Frank B. Sproul, R. H. Schwarzkopf and R. V. Bashmore have been appointed by the Board of Supervisors to appraise approximately 1023 acres of land at the mouth of San Gabriel Canyon which the county contemplates purchasing for a spreading ground to be used as part of the flood-control system in that area.

Under the new plan presented to the board by E. C. Eaton, chief engineer of the county flood-control district, to take the place of the abandoned high-dam project in San Gabriel Canyon, three low dams, check dams and a spreading ground will be built to control and conserve the flood waters of the San Gabriel River. Exploration work is now going on at one of the three dam sites to determine where the foundations should be made. The survey of the two other sites will be made soon.

Preliminary work in connection with the system is now being done pending the outcome of a friendly suit which will be carried up to the Supreme Court to ascertain if the $21,000,000 balance of the $25,000,000 bond issue voted for the high-dam project may be used by the county for building the three dams and the spreading grounds.

It is the plan of the flood-control engineer to capture the flood water of the San Gabriel River, hold it with dams in the east and west forks of the canyon, then feed it down to the spreading grounds where it will sink into the ground to the underground reservoirs to be pumped up later in San Gabriel Valley for irrigation purposes.

TROLLEY LINE'S GAINS RECITED

Eighty-six More Cars Put in Service Recently

Daily Mileage Rise Reported to Have Been 9000

Further Improvements Said to Be in Prospect

Service of the Los Angeles Railway is being built up according to the demands of the Board of Public Utilities and Transportation, the board was informed yesterday in a report made by General Manager Marsh and Assistant Chief Engineer Walters of the utilities department.

According to the department heads the company has placed in service eighty-six more cars and covered 9000 more car miles a day since the end of August and by next month it will have complied with all demands of the board.

RESULT OF COMPLAINT

The report was made in answer to the recent complaint by City Health Officer Parrish against overcrowded conditions on street cars as a menace to the public health.

It states that as the result of the agreement obtained from the railway the daily mileage and car operation, which on August 31 was 61,845 miles and 717 cars, was increased to 62,003 miles by September 30. By October 31 the number of cars operating daily was increased to 739, with mileage of 62,923. By November 30 the cars were increased to 748 and mileage to 64,085 and by the 10th inst. cars were increased to 803 and mileage to 91,191 daily.

EXTRA SERVICE

"During the Christmas rush extra trippers will be added where needed," the report states. "Fifteen already are being operated at nights beyond the schedule requirements. During the Christmas holidays, especially, traffic conditions are such that it is impossible to operate on anything like even headways. Consequently, even though the average load over an hour period may be a reasonable standing capacity, many cars will be carrying more than proper loads and other cars less."

The board approved the application of the company for a franchise to extend its double track South Main-street service from Slauson avenue to Florence avenue, which must be passed on by the California Railroad Commission for permission to cross the Santa Fe tracks on Slauson avenue. The application is made in compliance with the request of the utilities board for extension of the service.

FIVE-FINGER CASE WRIT VACATED

Court of Appeal Disposes of Stay in Fight Against Hollywood Project

Division Two, District Court of Appeal, yesterday vacated a writ of supersedeas staying proceedings in the Superior Court in the case of the city of Los Angeles against J. G. Oliver, Leonard J. Woodruff and others, relative to the Hollywood five-finger street-improvement project.

The writ was issued on the petition of Woodruff while Woodruff's appeal was pending in the Appellate Court from one of the many actions launched in an attack on the street plan. On the 5th inst. the Appellate Court decided the appeal in favor of the city, holding that the Superior Court acted properly in making an order granting immediate possession and use of the involved property to the municipality.

The temporary writ should not stand for the few remaining days during which the cause in which the appeal was taken will be sub judice in this court for the purpose of passing upon a possible petition for a rehearing, the court observed.

"All points presented in the appeal having been determined adversely to the petitioner," the court recited, "the cause is in a very different situation from that it occupied when the temporary supersedeas was issued."

Presiding Justice Works made the Appellate Court ruling with Associate Justice Thompson concurring.

SCHLEICHER TO REMAIN AT TIRE COMPANY POST

The recent purchase by the United States Rubber interests of the Samson Tire and Rubber Company, here, did not result in any changes in the executive chair at the local plant, A. Schleicher, president of the latter concern announced yesterday. The statement of Mr. Schleicher was issued to correct erroneous reference to him as a former president of the Samson Tire Company, which he founded. His title as president of the concern is unaffected by the purchase.

OUSTER RULED MAYOR'S RIGHT

the Mayor and City Council was invalid.

The court stated that no case has been found where the particular charter provision brought forward by Delorey has been construed. It, therefore, went into a lengthy examination of the charter.

CHARTER CONSTRUED

It was declared that the term to which members of the board are appointed is not five years, but five years unless sooner removed by the Mayor with the approval of the Council. Such, the court asserts, is the clear language of Sections 72 and 73 when read together, as, the court continues, they must be.

The court found, however, that Delorey's removal was not complete until it was assented to by the Council twelve days after the Mayor's letter to Delorey and that, therefore, Delorey was entitled to salary for the period between the Mayor's action and the Council's confirmation. The amount due Delorey was placed at $200.

The decision was written by Justice Archbald, pro tem. Presiding Justice Works and Associate Justice Thompson concurred.

Legion Starts Drive Against Panhandlers

A drive against unscrupulous solicitation of funds in its name has been started by the Los Angeles County Council of the American Legion, a series of resolutions made public yesterday discloses.

Beggars and racketeers, and sometimes even misguided veterans, have been asking for funds under the guise of representing the Legion, the resolutions declare, and the public has been swindled of large sums.

The resolutions urge that the Board of Supervisors and City Council enact ordinances giving the police and Sheriff power to proceed against the panhandlers.

Suicide Makes Threats Good

William Henry Lee, 70 years of age, night watchman, shot himself to death yesterday at his home, 1236 West Eighty-fourth street, after having repeatedly said over a period of four years, according to his wife, that he'd end his life some day.

Mrs. Catherine Lee, the widow, told police her husband had not been well and found no relish in life.

The petition for the improvement of Motor avenue between Forrester Drive and Manning avenue, with instructions to the City Engineer to prepare plans for a fifty-foot roadway, was given the approval of the City Council yesterday.

Facts Worth Knowing

By P. M. Young

Every woman in Southern California should see Young's Brandy Fruit Cake Pudding in the making. The fruit is a picture worth seeing—beautiful red cherries from Oregon, Voztizza currants from Greece, California package raisins, glace pineapple and fruit peels cured in pure cane sugar by Enrico Torelli, Italy, recognized as the purveyor of the world's choicest peels.

The fruit is carefully picked over by hand and thoroughly cleaned so there will be no grit. It is then blended with Young's Best Table Butter and other fine ingredients and baked in a slow oven to assure perfect browning, top and bottom . . . no hard scorched currants on the outside to give a bitter flavor. The Plum Puddings are steamed several hours in a patented steamer.

We have collected samples from all over the country and compared them with ours. Few we found that compared favorably. We can truthfully say it is not possible to buy better Fruit Cake or Plum Pudding than Young's. After a year's time they remain moist and lovely, with a fine, mellow flavor. This is due to the generous amount of table brandy, the genuine bonded brandy used in the making. U. S. Government permit number [illegible].

CONFESSION ASSERTED

Four months later the officers received a report that a man with two bullet scars on his stomach had been arrested in Long Beach charged with suspicion of grand theft. They investigated at once and found that he had been released. His name was Lloyd Dye, at that time a resident of Costa Mesa, Orange county.

Within a few days Gordon Gauss, also, was taken into custody and officers assert they obtained a confession to the murder from Gauss.

Meanwhile, George Horton, grieving over the death of his brother, became ill and died, removing the prosecution's principal witness.

Subsequently, it was found that the Horton brothers left an estate valued at approximately $250,000, but the cache of money rumored to be hidden beneath their home proved to be a myth.

TOM MIX PLEDGES FIGHT FOR CUSTODY OF CHILD

A court battle over the custody of Thomasina, 8 years of age, in connection with the divorce suit filed by his wife, Victoria Forde Mix, was promised yesterday in New York by Tom Mix, cowboy actor, when he was told of Mrs. Mix's first step to obtain marital freedom, according to dispatches received yesterday.

Mix asserted his wife's action did not come as a surprise and that in all probability he will fight the case as well as seek the custody of Thomasina.

"Two weeks ago I saw Mrs. Mix in Hollywood so this is no surprise to me," he is quoted as saying. "Under no circumstances will I allow anyone to have the custody of my child. I guess it means a fight all right."

As in the past Mix again yesterday attributed his difficulties with his wife to the "papier-mache of Hollywood."

"When we didn't have anything we got along," he continued. "When we started building estates, swimming pools, yachts, Catalina homes and tennis courts the troubles started. All I wanted was a suit of clothes, an auto, a bed and a horse. It was always my wish to have some one to look after me and to be kind and say nice things."

Prior to their marriage Mrs. Mix was her husband's leading woman and was known as Victoria Forde although her legal name is Victoria Hanniford. She is a native of New York. She charges in her complaint for divorce, filed Thursday, that Mix carried his western habits of the screen into their home.

At present Mix is doing nothing for the screen, although he has a western talkie—it would be his first sound film—in mind. He is in the East in connection with litigation arising from his contract controversies with rival circuses in which he has appeared.

OIL WORKER HELD ON BIGAMY CHARGE

Lund Robbins, Venice oil-field worker, married Rikka Miller of 1018 Echo Park avenue, last August without the formality of divorcing his first wife, Deputy Sheriffs Fletcher and Zahn charged yesterday in Municipal Judge Ballard's court. Robbins's bail was set at $2000 pending preliminary hearing on the 17th inst., on bigamy charges. The officers reported that Robbins was living with wife No. 1, Mrs. Virginia Robbins, whom he married more than a year ago, at 1410 South Flower street, when arrested.

PARISIAN ACTRESS TAKES MATE HERE

ROMANCE OF FRENCH PAIR SEAWORTHY

Liner Official Follows Parisian Actress Across Ocean to Wed Here

A romance that started two years ago in Paris is to have its culmination here with the marriage Tuesday of Jeanne Helbling, 27 years of age, French motion-picture actress, to Maurice J. Ernou, 37, wealthy Parisian. Yesterday the couple filed their notice of intention to marry.

Miss Helbling, who is well known on the French screen, is in Hollywood making foreign versions of talking pictures for First National. Ernou, a former French naval officer and executive of a French trans-Atlantic steamship line, arrived here two days ago for the nuptials.

Miss Helbling said yesterday she and Ernou will be married Tuesday by a justice of the peace, when they will start on a motor tour to see California before they return together to France, where she will resume her picture career there before coming back here again next year.

TRACTOR MEN HEAD FOR HOME

Ford Officials Returning to Dearborn After Survey of Southwest Business

Bearing with them an optimistic picture of agricultural prospects for 1931, Frank Rice and E. J. Hutchins, chief executives of the tractor division of the Ford Motor Company at Dearborn, Mich., left for home yesterday, following a week's survey of business conditions in the southwest territory.

While in Los Angeles, the officials discussed the possibility of handling the assembly of Fordson tractors at the new Long Beach plant of the Ford company, but no definite decision was made. At present the Fordson tractors are shipped here from the East and are distributed to Arizona, Nevada and Southern California through the Frank T. Hickey Company, Fordson distributors.

Conferences also were held by the Fordson officials with the Hickey company relative to the appointment of new retail dealers throughout this territory. There now are twelve dealers, and plans call for the addition of at least thirteen more within the next few months. In addition to the retail dealers, all of the 245 Ford dealers in this section handle Fordson parts and take orders for the tractors.

COLLISION OF AUTOS CAUSES ONE DEATH

Pinned under an automobile in which he was riding when it was in a collision at East Ninth street and Bonnie Road last night, Demetrio Ubino, 35 years of age, of 2209 Hunter street, was instantly killed. The car in which he was riding was driven by Antonio Martinez of 1117 South Soto street and the other machine was driven by Roy Van Arsdale of 1329 West Fifth street. The Martinez car turned over, but the driver was uninjured and the driver of the other car also escaped unscathed.

BANDITS FOILED BY QUICK WITS

Girl Pretends to Faint and Retains Jewelry

Robbery Total for Month Has Reached 122

Holdup Men Operate in Eagle Rock District

Quick-wittedness on the part of Miss Catherine Heck saved her jewelry when she was held up by two auto bandits while sitting in an automobile in front of her home at 833 North Edgemont street with Emond Christelbauer of 5435 Monroe street late Thursday night.

As the bandits stepped up to the machine and leveled pistols at her and her escort Miss Heck promptly pretended to faint. The bandits took nothing from her but robbed Christelbauer of $8. When they left they took the ignition key of the automobile so their victims could not follow.

OLD RECORDS BROKEN

This robbery was one of nine holdups reported to police between 6 p.m. Thursday and noon yesterday. At midnight the total number of such crimes for the first eleven days of this month had reached 122, as compared with eighty-seven for the same period last month and sixty-six for the first eleven days of December last year.

Mrs. A. Toolen and Marian Kohlman, waitress, were stringing beans in Mrs. Toolen's cafe at 4029½ South Western avenue when a bandit walked in, asked for a package of cigarettes and then, observing the women alone, produced revolver and robbed Mrs. Toolen of $35.

ROB TWO IN EAGLE ROCK

Eagle Rock, a district which for the last several years, according to police records, has averaged less than half a dozen burglaries a month, and but a few robberies, was visited Thursday night by bandits. E. Doyle, clerk in Jones's drug store at 2290 Fletcher Drive, was held up by a lone bandit and robbed of $16, and S. Johnson was robbed of $35 by two bandits in his grocery at 1367 Yosemite Drive.

Awakened at an early morning hour by the ringing of his door bell, Masaznini Adachi of 1409 West Thirty-sixth street, opened the door to a bandit who said he had a message to deliver. Once inside the bandit produced a pistol and robbed Adachi of $22.

Held up in his cafe at 1540 East Eighth street, Nick Salaris was robbed by three bandits of $7.

TAKEN FOR RIDE

Picked up at Water and Fries avenues in Wilmington, James F. Williams of 730 South Fries avenue was taken for a ride of several blocks by two auto bandits. En route they took $40 from his pockets.

Stephen Indig reported a bandit held him up in a printing office at 452½ East Third street and robbed him of $10.

Two purse snatchers robbed three women within fifteen minutes in the southeastern section of the city. Roberta Noland lost $9 in front of her home at 4075 South Broadway. Catherine Ballentine was robbed of $50 near her home at 250 West Fortieth Place, and Mrs. William Thomas lost $2 in front of her home at 716 West Forty-ninth street.

A woman who persisted in sitting in his automobile at Eleventh and Georgia streets picked the pocket of James T. Reilly of 2422 Saturn street, Huntington Park, of $103, he reported to police.

Girl Killed in Traffic Crash at Intersection

Francesca Sanchez, 16 years of age, of 1172 Ingraham street, was killed last night in a head-on collision of automobiles at Compton avenue and One Hundred-Sixteenth street.

The girl was in an automobile driven by Ramirez Mort of 4545 Brooklyn avenue. Others in the car were Martiniana Soto, 15, and Leonita Rivera, 17, and her sister, Seferina, of 11419 South Alvaro street.

The second car was driven by Lloyd Cooper of 428 Burton avenue, Compton. The Rivera sisters were able to go home after receiving emergency treatment but the Soto girl was taken to Georgia-street Hospital in a serious condition.

The two drivers were held for questioning.

ASSESSMENTS CONFIRMED

The City Council yesterday confirmed the assessments for the sewering of Avenue 63 between a point near Cheviotdale Place and Church street and for the improvement of Marmion Way between Museum Drive and Dayton avenue.

TEACHERS' PAY GUARDED

Appellate Court Rules Salaries of School Instructors Immune From Attachment

School-teachers' salaries were safeguarded from attachment under a section of the Code of Civil Procedure yesterday by a decision of Division Two, District Court of Appeal. The decision was written by Justice Craig. Presiding Justice Works and Justice Thompson concurred.

The decision was on an appeal by William J. Weiser, creditor of an instructor in Los Angeles public schools, against County Auditor Payne. Weiser obtained a judgment in the Municipal Court, which was authenticated and filed with Payne, but Payne declined to honor it.

The sole question presented, the court pointed out, involved the instruction and application of Section 710 of the Code of Civil Procedure, providing that "the duly authenticated transcript of a judgment, for money, against the defendant, rendered by any court of this State, may be filed with the State department, board or commission or officer thereof from which money is owing to the judgment debtor in such action or if the defendant be an elective officer or officer receiving a statutory salary, with the Controller of the State of California or the auditor of any county, city and county, city or other municipal or public corporation, from which money is owing to the judgment debtor in such action . . . whereupon it shall be the duty of any such officer . . . to draw his warrant in favor of or to pay into court from the docket of which the transcript was taken so much of the money . . . which belongs to or is owing to the judgment debtor . . ."

The court concluded that the claim did not come under the section. It stated that the judgment debtor is not an officer of the State nor of a municipality and that the fund in controversy, as the salary of an instructor in the public schools in custody and control of the county auditor, is not subject to the provisions of the section.

With Christmas literally stepping on our heels and entertaining in abundance being indulged in to the entire satisfaction and pleasure of all concerned, it seemed but right and fitting that we give recipes for good things to be eaten at these big family parties. Now every one who has ever tasted it adores Plum Duff! But how much more is their delight intensified by having Guasti Cooking Sherry in the pudding and sauce? You will be pleasantly surprised by the great improvement in taste this splendid Cooking Sherry makes, of that I am certain! So copy carefully the following recipes:

PLUM DUFF

One can plums (blue.) 2 cupfuls flour, one-third cup Guasti Cooking Sherry, 6 teaspoonfuls baking powder, 1 tablespoonful sugar, 3 tablespoonfuls shortening, 2 egg yolks, 1 cupful milk. Water. Sift dry ingredients and cut in the shortening and the mixed egg yolks and milk and Sherry. Add milk slowly. Roll out to about one-half inch thickness and cover with pitted plums and roll up like jelly roll. Place on a clean cloth, well oiled and floured, and roll up and tie ends tightly and immerse in boiling water. Boil 45 minutes. Remove cloth and run into hot oven for a few minutes to brown lightly. Serve with Guasti Pudding Sauce or Guasti Hard Sauce.

GUASTI PUDDING SAUCE

Mix together 3 tablespoonfuls sugar, 1 tablespoonful cornstarch. 1 tablespoonful butter and ½ cupful boiling water. Boil 3 minutes and remove from fire. Add Guasti Cooking Sherry or Guasti Sauce a la Bordelaise (about one-half cupful.)

GUASTI HARD SAUCE

Beat to a cream one-eighth pound (2 oz.) of butter, add 1½ cupfuls powdered sugar and beat until light. Add slowly 3 tablespoonfuls of Guasti Cooking Sherry or Guasti Sweet Sherry Flavoring. Chill before serving.

A more effective dish cloth—In knitting dishcloths, put in several rows of hard twisted cord. This hard part will clean many surfaces where it is unwise to use scouring soap or metal.

I wonder how many of my readers if thrown upon their own resources would know how to earn their own living? Let me advise you to give this your earnest and immediate thought. I could not do better than suggest that you learn candy making, chocolate dipping or cake decorating from the Liberty Candy Co. Supplies may be bought from them, also. Their address is 4th floor Grant Bldg., 355 S. Broadway. (TUcker 4156.)

Has your husband been complaining about his collar bands being too large or too small, his sleeves too short or too long, his cuffs frayed? All such alterations and repairs are done by Arthur M. Werner, the Custom Shirt Maker of 122 S. Spring street. MUtual 1589.

To keep lemons fresh indefinitely, place them in cold water in a covered crock, changing the water each day.

I want to again call my readers' attention to the wonderful display of healthful coffee-making appliances, including a beautiful line of china coffee pots, which the Ben-Hur Coffee Company are showing at their offices at 800 Traction ave.

They have brought on from the factory a considerable line of "seconds" or china pots showing slight imperfections in the glaze, some slightly warped, but all perfectly serviceable for practical use.

This company is trying to get every home equipped with the proper utensils for making healthful coffee, as they have the only coffee on the market which is specially adapted in every way for the healthful drip method of making, and the greater number of homes they can get equipped with the proper appliances, naturally the greater demand there will be for this most modern coffee.

I am referring to Ben-Hur Drip Coffee which has become so popular throughout Southern California during the last few years. All of these appliances are being offered the public at practically cost prices, and the "seconds" mentioned above are selling ridiculously cheap. Any of my readers who do not have satisfactory coffee-making equipment will make a great mistake if they do not avail themselves of this opportunity.

Savory dressing—Mix thoroughly one-half teaspoonful of salt, one and one-half teaspoonfuls grated onion, one-fourth teaspoonful white pepper and one tablespoonful tomato catsup; add slowly one and one-half tablespoonful vinegar, then beat in gradually four tablespoonfuls olive oil. Serve at once.

Beautiful hand-quilted coverlets—a few antiques in red, green and white—a number in blue and white and pink and white—may be bought of Mrs. Gardners, 1036 South Norton ave. OX. 3347.

Good suds maker for washing dishes, etc. Take a medium-sized can, remove the top, make a handle of cord and punch eight or ten holes in bottom of can. Put in a cake of soap, or small leftover pieces, and hang it over the hot water faucet, letting the water run through the can. This makes plenty of sudsy water.

For goodness sake don't let your down quilt remain unused because it is losing its feathers, and the outside covering looks badly! Send it at once to the Western Feather and Down Works, 1205 W. Washington St. (WEstmore 9654.) and have it made better than when new. Their prices for renovating and recovering are more than reasonable while their workmanship and reliability cannot be improved upon.

Orange and peanut salad—Peel and scrape a banana and cut it into quarters lengthwise and thirds crosswise; roll the sections in one-half cupful of peanuts, which have been finely chopped. Peel two oranges, cut into slices crosswise, stamp out the centers and insert a piece of the banana in each slice; arrange on a bed of lettuce leaves and serve with French dressing.

When looking over your clothing and other articles you no longer have use for remember that "nothing is too large or too small, too old or too new" to send to the Children's Hospital Salvage Department at 712 Maple avenue. It is the most worthy charity you thus contribute to, so try to send a package to them soon. TUcker 1203 is their phone number.

To clean a decanter, put in two tablespoonfuls of vinegar and one tablespoonful of salt; shake it up well and rinse in cold water.

You will be glad to know that you may buy the very best olive oil as well as imported Italian and French groceries at R. Faggi & Co., 219 S. Spring street. MUtual 7612.

Once again let me suggest that you be very sensible and practical this year in your gift giving and make it an electrical Christmas in the true sense of the word.

At the Newbery Electric Corporation, 726 S. Olive, the store is fairly teeming with gifts appropriate for your family and friends!

You can't overlook the Telechron Electric Clocks you know. Why, they are indispensible in the well-regulated home—and as I told you last week, they are priced as low as $9.95, think of it!

Then you know a toaster and waffle iron, (both electrical) are easily a necessity in this day and age, so here are two more helpful ideas for you. While a warming pad in the new pastel covered covering makes a mighty acceptable present. . . . And what about your Christmas tree ornaments? They are ever so important you know—you may get them, too, at the Newbery Electric Corporation, which, in a word, is the home of ideal holiday suggestions and the most important place for you to visit this yuletide season if you are desirous of giving presents which will give pleasure not only on Christmas, but every day throughout the entire year.

To clean a slender vase, fasten a piece of an old sponge on a stick and push it into the vase; also useful for cleaning decanters and water bottles. Glass bottles and vases may also be cleaned by rinsing them with powered charcoal.

Unusually rare and beautiful are the Chinese Art objects which Mr. Fong See On has been collecting in Imperial China and sending back to his interesting shop at 510 N. Los Angeles st., Chinatown, in time for you to buy for Christmas. You will find in these almost daily arrivals, lovely gifts for all your friends.

To identify silver or dishes which have been loaned at a picnic or other public gathering, place a small piece of surgeon's plaster on bottom of each dish and on under side of handles of spoons and forks; on this plaster mark your initials (in indelible ink if possible.) The plaster will not come off in ordinary washing, but can be removed by putting in a warm place till the gum melts.

Of uncomparable deliciousness are the mangoes and Guava Jelly both of which come from Manila, and are sold by the Orlanes Philippine Products Company, 110 E. First street. Go into this most interesting store this coming week and buy the above-mentioned articles, as well as many others you will find there.

RULING ON "GIN VOWS" POSTPONED

Girl Seeking Annulment of Marriage Ordered to Produce New Evidence

Despite her startlingly frank "gin marriage" plea for annulment, Creola A. McCarter Milner yesterday was ordered by Superior Judge Hahn to produce additional evidence to support her petition that he void her union with Frank T. Milner, wealthy Oakland commercial salesman. The judge continued the hearing a week.

He indicated that new questions had arisen since Mrs. Milner, on her second appearance before him, presented copies of her marriage certificate and marriage license application. The certificate record revealed that the marriage ceremony was performed by Superior Judge Moriarty of Seattle, Wash., on May 7, 1927, the day following the issuance of the license. Judge Hahn considered this evidence at variance with Mrs. Milner's original story.

The petitioner, a blue-eyed blond stenographer, testified at her first hearing that she became intoxicated on the eve of her marriage to a young man she loved, and that when she regained her senses four days later, she found herself married to Milner. The young woman contended that she had been mentally incompetent to contract marriage because of her intoxication.

At the first court hearing, on November 28, last, Judge Hahn ordered a continuance until Mrs. Milner's attorney could produce copies of the certificate and license application. These, when offered yesterday, failed to satisfy the judge, who continued the hearing another week.

NEW DRY-CLEANING RULE INTERPRETED

Elimination of questionable practices and consideration of the rights of the public are the purposes of the rules adopted by leading dry-cleaners of the country in a Federal trade practice conference held before the Federal Trade Commission at Washington, D. C., November 26, according to H. J. Cook, member of the national body, who returned yesterday.

"Perhaps the greatest benefit to the local housewife to result from the conference will be her ability to tell whether or not her cleaner actually does the work, and if not, she will be able to determine who is doing the work for the firm which accepts garments for cleaning," he said. "This will fix responsibility for poor work and, we think, will greatly assist in the advancement of our industry."

BIG PINES PARK HAS EXCELLENT SKATING

Skating is excellent in Big Pines Park, county recreational grounds in the Sierra Madre-San Gabriel Mountains, according to a report from Fred Wadsworth, county superintendent of parks and playgrounds, made yesterday to the Board of Supervisors. At present there are three acres of ice on Jackson Lake with no snow. Flood lights have been installed for night skating.

SIX FREED IN BUNKO CASE QUIZ

Two Others Still Held for Investigation of Auto Fraud Charges

Six of the eight men arrested by bunko squad officers Thursday in connection with an asserted $350,000 swindle involving the Union National Automobile Association of 2733 South Figueroa street were released from custody yesterday. They are Roy Ingerson, 23 years of age, a transient; Wayne Straffen, 23, 5122 De Longpre avenue; Edward McKay, 32, 5332 Allan street; Patrick E. Mahoney, 30; Michael Mahoney, 27, and Thomas Mahoney, 25, of 2125 South Oak street. All had been booked on suspicion of grand theft for having assertedly sold memberships in the organization, but detectives yesterday became convinced of their innocence.

The other two men taken in custody are held on charges of petty theft. They are John Blank, general manager of the organization, whose headquarters are said to be in San Francisco, and E. R. Carlisle, 29, 1047 Irolo street.

Dispatches from San Francisco yesterday stated Assistant State Insurance Commissioner Beckett, has launched an investigation of the association's activities here.

Today's Bible Text

And every creature which is in heaven, and on earth, and such as are in the sea, and all that are in them, heard I saying, Blessing, and honour, and glory, and power be unto him that sitteth upon the throne, and unto the Lamb for ever and ever.—Rev. v:13.

THE POPULARITY GAG

King Carol made a pretty gesture when he requested that the annual appropriation for the upkeep of the royal family be reduced 22 per cent. This royal economy must be a terrible hardship on a man of Carol's habits.

BARNUM WAS RIGHT

"Peaches" Browning was paid $61,000 in eleven months by vaudeville houses to let a curious public see "an old man's darling." It was P. T. Barnum of circus and sideshow fame who remarked, "The people want to be humbugged."

SEND THIS ONE

Now that filling stations are sending messages for the big telegraph companies, they might fill out a blank and send to the proper authorities, telling them how much Los Angeles is paying for gas. And asking why.

DID HIS DUTY

William Scott, 62 years old, died recently at Westwood. In his memory the flag at the University of California at Los Angeles was flown at half-staff. This honor was accorded to a man who did everything that was asked of him and more. Although his position was that of janitor he took as much pride in it as though he had been at the head of the institution. He was happy and beloved and while his life may not be an example to the ambitious it serves to prove that the man who does his duty well can make a place for himself in the respect of his fellow-men.

NEW PILGRIMAGE PLAYHOUSE

An event of general interest to this whole community will take place tomorrow afternoon, when in the high hills of Hollywood ground is broken with appropriate ceremonies for the erection of the new Pilgrimage Play outdoor theater. Because of the fire which swept over the Hollywood Hills a year ago and destroyed the old wooden playhouse, the annual performance of this dramatic and religious spectacle had to be suspended after a run of ten consecutive years.

Such a break in the continuity of the Pilgrimage Play was a cause of great regret not only to the sponsors of the play, but to the many who had already felt the inspiration of this portrayal of the life and mission of the Savior and to the numbers of others who had been looking forward to the annual repetition of it. The Sunday ceremonies, therefore, guaranteeing that the Pilgrimage Play will again in a new house occupy its old place in the beautiful Hollywood Hills, will be welcomed by every man and woman concerned with the religious and cultural life of Los Angeles.

No effort has been spared to make the new home of the Pilgrimage Play artistically and decoratively worthy of the noble theme to which it is dedicated. The buildings and grounds will represent a miniature Jerusalem. The new theater with concrete walls and upholstered seats will be commodious, seating 1470 people, open to the skies with vistas of the adjacent hillsides. A museum of exhibits dealing with biblical subjects will form an annex to the main structure.

The new playhouse will be finished in time to open for the eleventh season of the Pilgrimage Play by the end of June. Oberammergau has become a household word through the fame of its Passion Play. The Pilgrimage Play confers the same distinction on Los Angeles. There will be general rejoicing tomorrow at the exercises to be held in the Hollywood Hills, where a new temple of art will spring up as another token and symbol of the religious aspirations of this community.

THE BEESEMYER DEFALCATION

Shocking as they are to the community and large as may be the losses to depositors of the looted Guaranty Building and Loan Association, the revelations of the huge defalcations of Gilbert H. Beesemyer, secretary-manager of that institution, will be of ultimate benefit if, as they should, they force into effect an adequate system of State examinations of such organizations for the protection of the public.

Under a law providing for periodic inspection of the affairs of institutions such as that operated almost single-handed by Beesemyer, it appears incredible that he should have been able, undetected, to carry on his systematic looting of the Guaranty association over a period of more than five years and until his peculations had reached the staggering total of nearly $3,000,000.

The statement of Charles G. Whitmore, State Building and Loan Commissioner, that his force of examiners was too small to make possible a thorough inspection and consequent detection of the mounting shortages does not appear adequate. If he was unable to give the depositors the protection to which his office obligates him he should have made the fact known in such emphatic terms as to force a sufficient addition to his examining corps. The declaration of Governor-elect Rolph that he will demand the ouster of Whitmore, on the ground of incompetency, as soon as he takes office may appear a trifle hasty but there can be no question of the necessity for drastic steps to awaken certain public officials to a graver sense of their responsibilities.

In the meantime, there is absolutely nothing in the Guaranty situation itself to justify nervousness on the part of the public as to the safety of other similar financial institutions of the community. Beesemyer was a lone wolf, an isolated defaulter in a business of which the greatest asset is the absolute personal honesty and integrity of the men engaged in it. There are crooks in every business and because one is caught and exposed is no reason for suspecting the honest men in the same vocation; rather the contrary.

Following his investigation of yesterday, Dist.-Atty. Fitts announced that there is not the slightest evidence to suspect any of the other directors of the Guaranty association of any share in or knowledge of Beesemyer's peculations. By reason of their stock-liabilities, these men stand to lose more than any others as a result of their trusted manager's dishonesty. Facing personal ruin themselves, they are entitled to a measure of public sympathy.

So far as the banks are concerned, there is no occasion for the smallest uneasiness on the part of depositors. The business depression which has withdrawn funds from ordinary channels of investment and development has raised bank deposits to a point where these institutions are now in the most liquid condition in recent history, with cash on hand far above ordinary conditions.

It is further to be remembered that the vast majority of the city's banking institutions are tied together through the clearinghouse and the Federal Reserve system, with the whole banking system of the United States, and that the strength of that banking system is behind all its members. The Beesemyer bank and the loan association were not members of this system, but isolated and independent.

It does not follow, of course, that banks or associations not connected with the clearinghouse and the Federal Reserve are not safe, or that, when sound and conservatively managed, they would not be supported by other financial institutions were such support necessary.

The Beesemyer revelations will tend to strengthen rather than weaken the general situation of other institutions, since it will make managements more cautious and vigilant to detect and eliminate any irregularity or weakness, and put inspectors on their toes.

Concerning Beesemyer himself, it can only be said that such a betrayal of trust is one of the most serious crimes against the public that can be committed; that his former standing in the community enhances the crime; and that he is less a proper object for public sympathy than a robber caught red-handed. The probity and uprightness required of a man in a fiduciary position goes far beyond the requirements of common honesty.

There is every reason to believe that the worst concerning the Beesemyer peculations has been discovered and that the laying bare of the situation will have a generally beneficial effect, much like lancing a boil. The sunlight and fresh air of publicity is a wonderfully curative agent in such cases.

INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS

A perusal of the proceedings of the Institute of International Relations, which has just completed its seventh annual conference at the Mission Inn, Riverside, will disclose to all striving for the ideal of universal peace that earnest and practical steps are being taken for its realization here, on the Pacific Coast. The Times gave succinct reports of the proceedings each day while the meetings were being held. In this great cause the efforts of the institute are worthy the attention of every progressive thinker.

These annual sessions are attended by teachers, experts, travelers and business men from many countries—but no propagandists or politicians. Well-informed representatives of internationally known organizations delivered addresses on topics connected with international interests at the sessions just ended—and they expressed themselves frankly and freely, even on subjects of a highly controversial nature. These were as frankly afterward debated—not to air opposite views—but to discover, where possible, suitable means for adjusting differences.

A wealth of information was thus secured from first-hand observers on France, the Near East, India, China, Japan, Mexico, South America, their conditions, problems, perplexities, how these were affected by American policies, with various suggestions of satisfaction and dissatisfaction with the present condition of international relations.

India as a human, rather than a political, question; lack of attention given to the cultural side of Mexican life; a better land policy for the Near West; less exploitation of land by foreign capital and more farming by the natives; the tariff as an economic barrier; the German crisis; a brighter outlook for China; French foreign policy; progress of democracy in Japan; American influence in Europe; these were the types of international interests, ably set forth and amicably debated.

Simon J. Lubin, president of the first Pan-American trade conference, gave the institute a watchword which might with advantage be adopted by all diplomats and legislators intrusted with the delicate operation of handling international questions: "We cannot solve world problems wholly within our own back yards." In addition to this the institute showed larger and more important conferences the right kind of spirit in which to handle difficult and dangerous world policies—even those supposedly loaded with political dynamite. This may be because their debates and criticisms were always along constructive lines.

Year by year the Institute of International Relations gains in strength and in influence and in popular recognition. Its headquarters, the famous Mission Inn, is fast becoming the seat of a smaller unofficial League of Nations, a sort of little Entente Cordiale on the Pacific Ocean. If it perseveres in the good work it has been carrying on for the last seven years the institute may well confer on the fair city of Riverside the inspiring title of the Geneva of the West.

ON HIS METTLE

LEE SIDE O' L.A.

By Lee Shippey

VERNON is unique among cities. It is the only town which industry has taken wholly for its own. It has more corporations than registered voters, more millions of invested wealth than school children, more assessed valuation, probably, than has any other community of comparable population anywhere in the world.

In nearly every building you pass, great engines are generating power, great wheels are turning. And the streets are as full of mechanically powered machines as the buildings. Horses are almost unknown there.

Yet one of the busiest plants there is a horseshoe factory.

It wasn't there in the days when horses supplied so much of the power on which business depended. It is a horseshoe factory never planned to supply shoes for horses. It was put up to supply shoes for horseshoe pitchers and is doing national business.

Horseshoe Vs. Motion Pitchers

That horseshoe factory has published the rules of horseshoe pitching in a little folder, prefaced by an essay on horseshoe pitching by the novelist, Louis Dodge, which is in demand in all parts of this country and also in Hawaii, the Philippines and Panama. Tourists who come to Southern California from other States and other lands may be lured by motion "pitchers," but go home enthusiastic horseshoe pitchers. It's pretty hard to get into motion pitchers, but you may go to any park or playground and get into the thick of horseshoe pitchers.

There is something restful and bucolic about horseshoe pitching—something which takes you back to the dear old farm without making you worry about the dear old mortgage. We know men in the seventies who, as soon as they pick up a horseshoe, begin to feel coltish. And as for fan interest—well, did you ever see that picture of Charles Dana Gibson's, "Two out, two strikes and the bases full"? It shows three men in the bleachers with such expressions of hope and fear on their faces as one can never forget. But, we have seen a whole bench full of horseshoe fans wearing just such expressions as they watched thrilling matches in the public parks of Los Angeles or Long Beach or Glendale. With staring, fascinated eyes, with bated breath, with hearts that thump and bodies which tremble so with excitement that they can hardly trust themselves to speak, they sit and watch and often leap up and dance about in appreciation of some ringer at a crucial moment, utterly forgetful of the fact that they have inflammatory rheumatism or lumbago or low blood pressure or anything else.

Romance Asks Consideration

Out near South Park lives a man who is not old, but had to retire from business years ago, and the doctor told him he must spend a good deal of time in the open air. He took up horseshoe pitching and became, as they all become, a passionate devotee. There are bridge fiends who can stop when refreshments are served, even though they do it grudgingly. There are football and baseball fans who outgrow their extravagant enthusiasms and in the midst of even an intersectional combat can realize that there are a few other things in the world which are more important than the outcome of that game. But once a man really becomes a horseshoe pitching addict wild horses could not drag him from a crucial contest before it is over. An announcement that the country had declared war or that his house was burning or that he suddenly had inherited a fortune would fall on deaf ears. When horseshoe pitching takes a man it takes all of him.

It was so with that semi-invalid. At least, he was a semi-invalid when he began pitching horseshoes. The excitement of the games and the outdoor life he led soon restored him to health, but he clung to his alibi. He had enough to live on and simply retired from the mad rush of business. The doctor told him to put all cares and worries out of mind, and he did. He never gave a thought to them till one day a young man managed to catch him between games and told him he wished to marry his daughter.

A Test for Wooers

"Let's talk it over while we pitch a game," said the addict. The young man laughed, but consented. He was an excellent golfer, but had looked on horseshoes as the game of hayseeds. Yet his prospective father-in-law beat him with such masterly ease that it piqued his pride while arousing his admiration. He did his best to make a showing, but was hopelessly outclassed.

"Young man," said the seasoned veteran, "I feel that you and Millie had better wait a year or two. She's pretty young yet to know her own mind and you're hardly in position to marry yourself. For the present, I'll have to forbid the marriage."

The young man went away crestfallen, but determined. He lived close to a park in another section. He gave up golf and went to that park every day to perfect himself in the fine art of horseshoe pitching. He became such an enthusiast that soon he was the champion pitcher of his neighborhood. Then he returned to South Park and challenged the man who had humbled him before to a game.

Wins a Layde Fair

It was a nip-and-tuck combat throughout. If the man who threw first made a ringer his opponent would either knock it off or lay another on top of it. The clang of steel on steel was more exciting than in a fencing match. The older man won the first game by one point, the young man won the second game by the same narrow margin. The third game was a see-saw from the start, ending in a tie, which demanded an extra inning or frame or whatever they call it. In that, the older man threw first and threw two ringers. The younger man, undismayed, knocked off one of his ringers with his first shoe and then laid another ringer on top of the one which still clung around the pin.

The older man clasped him joyfully to his breast. "My boy," he said, "for years I've prayed for a son-in-law like you. I was mistaken when I sent you away. A man who can make the progress you did in a few short weeks can accomplish anything. Take my girl and my blessing."

Love's Labor Lost

Alas! We hate to spoil this story of true love and requited romance. But veracity is our guiding angel. We must tell the truth, the w. t. and nothing but. The young man did not rejoice as he should. He only stared blankly. He had gotten so interested in the sport that he had forgotten all about the girl he was learning it for!

Of course, it all came back to him in a moment. But then he only shook his head.

"Nope," he said. "If I could start in as an old married man, like you, I wouldn't mind. But as a newly-wed it wouldn't do. Why, the first year or so Millie'd never let me get away to practice half often enough to keep up my game!"

BANG GOES ANOTHER

In the process of dissecting various picturesque American legends for years accepted as history, the cold-blooded college professors, digging into what they term "impartial facts," have unearthed new material which tends to show that Barbara Frietchie was no great heroine after all, though Whittier did his best to immortalize her.

According to the new version, Dame Barbara, who was outspoken in the Northern cause, kept several Union flags in her house, but none was waved by her or anybody else when Jackson's army passed through Frederick. A small silk flag was, however, held in her hand, but no one ordered it down or threatened to shoot her if she di ' not take it in. Nor was Jackson with his men at the time, as he did not pass through Frederick at all.

It is just too bad, but there was no old lady leaning from a window to catch a falling flag after a volley had been fired, no threat to shoot the old gray head of a woman who cried out that her country's flag be spared, no stern command from Stonewall Jackson marching ahead. It is said that if Jackson knew anything about Barbara or her flag it was because he was told of it.

But all the same, Whittier's "Barbara Frietchie" is a good, stirring piece of verse and doubtless will continue to be a spellbinder as a school recitation.

NO LAUGHING MATTER

Baby grins are said to be a subterfuge on the part of the infant to attract attention. If they are girl babies, we can call it a natural instinct, but the boy babies wouldn't grin if they realized what the others would do to them later on.

WHAT IS FASCISM?

BY FRED HOGUE

Contemporary history is the most difficult of all forms of historical narrative to write; because the value to today can only be measured by its influence on tomorrow, and the contemporary historian must record his observations and reflections before tomorrow dawns.

Who could foretell while the World War was in progress that seed, fertilized by blood, was being planted that would ripen into a harvest of military dictators?

Who could foretell that peoples who were giving their blood and treasure to protect their fatherlands from foreign military despotism would so easily and nonchalantly pass under the regime of local military dictators?

Who could foretell that the spirit of democracy in some countries would be so enfeebled through corrupt and mismanaged democratic institutions that the peoples would regard as a reform movement a military dictatorship?

Who can now foretell whether these dictators will prove as unstable as the representative governments they replaced, or whether the shackles of Fascism and Bolshevism will be so firmly riveted that generations must pass before the peoples will again conquer the right and the privilege to govern themselves through elective institutions of their own making?

Democratic institutions are only as strong, as efficient and as incorruptible as the peoples who establish and conduct them. The government of a majority that lacks the mental capacity to rule only offers another revolting example of misgovernment.

Numbers alone will not suffice; for there is not always merit in numbers. A government without merit, however composed, is one of the worst forms of despotism.

The proponents of Fascism assert that it is a government of merit, as opposed to a government of numbers. Fascism, to me, is only a new name for an old political nostrum. It is the development of the monarchical idea, another phase of the age-old struggle between arbitrary power and democratic institutions.

The Fascists deny that the voice of the people is the voice of God. Public opinion is, to them, a phrase without substance. They stress Ruskin's despairing remark that "The public is a big baby." They assert that democracy gives the baby what it wants, while Fascism gives it only what it needs. They condemn democracy for the crimes and errors committed under democratic institutions.

To the Fascists, government "of the people, for the people, by the people," is the surest way to national and race suicide. Democracy is the calf that, given enough rope, chokes itself.

They talk little about the virtue of Fascism, and much about the vices of democracy.

They paint Fascism as a government of intelligence and virtue, in contrast to a government of numbers.

The Fascists arrogate to themselves all the virtues of humanity and reproach the public, the majority, with all the vices.

The ideal of the Fascist is a benevolent despot. But Fascism is despotism. But one who reads the history of nations finds that benevolent despots have been few, while of despots there have been many.

Whatever mask the Fascists may don, however glibly they may prate about their superior virtue, the ugly fact remains that Fascism is a government of force, an imposed government, the very antithesis of self-government.

In the economic field, democracy is based on the fundamental that those who pay the taxes have a right to select those who impose the taxes. Fascism denies to the people this right. The Fascists regard the people as a whole as minors, who never reach an age at which they can be intrusted with the conduct of their own affairs. The public must have a guardian; and the Fascists impose themselves as the guardians and the custodians of the public welfare.

But who are the Fascists? By what divine right are they made the custodians of the public welfare?

By what method and by what standard are they selected? Is there a standard of merit of which they alone possess the secret?

In our own government there has always been a majority and a minority party. And the progress we have made proves that the minority has been wrong much oftener than it has been right.

What are the principles of Fascism? There is but one, the principle of a government established and maintained through violence.

There is not a Fascist government on earth that does not impose a rigid press censorship. The majority will live under a military despotism only on condition that it is kept in ignorance of the manner of government imposed upon it.

It is true that crimes and outrages have been committed in the name of liberty. It is true that democratic institutions have been corrupted. It is true that, at times, certain peoples have made a sorry mess of self-government. It is true that the voice of demogogues has been mistaken for public opinion. It is true that the tyranny of the majority has been at times intolerable.

But I have yet to find a crime committed in the name of democracy that has not been repeated a hundred times and in more outrageous forms under autocratic governments.

Democracy may be likened to a tool placed in the hands of a more or less skilled workman. An inefficient workman may injure himself with the instrument and cast it out the window. But the instrument is to be condemned only when it fails to accomplish its purpose in the hands of an efficient workman.

Fascism is a form of government imposed and maintained by bayonets and machine guns; it is this and nothing more.

It is a form of government as old as organized society. It has the vices of the ancient monarchies, but lacks some of the virtues that made the monarchical form of government tolerable for centuries.

The weakness of these military dictatorships is that they are destroyed by the very weapons that create them. Through revolts of violence these dictatorships are established and through violent disputes over the possession of power are they destroyed.

Take the example of Mussolini! He exhorted his black shirts to arm and march on Rome, marshaling them in a violent revolt against the Italian Parliament, under the temporary control of demagogue Socialists.

Through their ignorance and their venality they had enacted laws that were fatal to industry. The country was headed for Communism and anarchy.

The advent of the black shirts and the dispersal of the parliamentary representatives marked the beginning of Fascism. Mussolini proved to be a good political economist. He knew how to encourage alike labor and industry.

Mussolini announced to the world that Italy would fulfill all its foreign obligations; that there would be no repudiation of legal indebtedness and no confiscation of capital.

Mussolini stands before the world today as a shining example of a benevolent despot. He has been able to maintain friendly relations with neighboring governments and he has increased Italian production through stimulating industry and thrift.

But Mussolini is a man. When he passes, by what process shall his successor be selected? His successor will be the man who can bring to his support the army and the Fascist militia. It will not be a selection of merit, but of military power.

Italy is back in the days when the Roman republic passed under the domination of emperors chosen by the legions and holding authority only at the will of the legions.

Fascism is not a government of merit; it is a government of bayonets and machine guns. Where demagogues have obtained control of democratic institutions; where democracy is being talked to death, Fascism may offer temporary relief.

But the weakness of the so-called Fascist governments is to be found in the fact that they have no accepted formula for continuing themselves.

The most difficult problem of all autocratic government is the transmission of power. Under the monarchies of what we now term ancient times, the death of a ruler was generally the occasion for civil war to select his successor. This continued until the rule was established that the succession should go to the eldest son of the reigning monarch.

It was then recognized that the choice of the eldest son might not be one based on merit. But the fact remained that a choice must be made; and there was no way in which the merit of the contenders for the succession could be definitely established. The selection of the eldest son for the succession proved, in the long run, to be the lesser of existing evils. There would be times when the successor would be a burden to the state; but the people suffered less than from the civil wars under the old forms.

Centuries of monarchical experience had proved that the succession of the eldest son was the only workable plan. While it registered many failures, there was no acceptable alternative. No merit plan could succeed, because there was no system to standardize merit.

With the rise of self-government under elective democratic institutions no infallible merit system could be devised. The only rule that the governed would tolerate was majority rule. While the majority often chooses unwisely, no superior merit has been displayed by any organized minority.

Ideal legislation is that which co-ordinates law and justice. But by what criterion, what standard is justice to be measured? Here we are confronted by that question of Pilate when the Christ was dragged before him for judgment: "What is truth?"

Truth is not fact, but something higher, nobler than fact. If we could agree on the standards by which truth and justice are to be measured, much of the confusion, the waste of power and energy, of good intentions, would be eliminated.

PILSUDSKI CALLED SAVIOR

Lord D'Abernon's tribute to Pilsudski as the real savior of Europe in 1920 has aroused much comment. The praise of the Polish leader appeared in the Gazeta Polska on the tenth anniversary of the Polish victory against the Bolsheviks. Lord D'Abernon declared that contemporary history includes few events as important as the battle of the Vistula in 1920 and not one which has been less appreciated. If the Bolsheviks had won the day the battle would have marked a turning point in European history for Central Europe would have been thrown open to admit a flood of Bolshevik propaganda. The Bolsheviks had much vaster plans than the occupation of Poland. Many German towns were ready to proclaim a Bolshevik regime as soon as Warsaw fell. Pilsudski's strategic genius, adds the author, saved Poland, and in saving Poland saved Europe.

WHIPPING CASE PAIR ARRAIGNED

Donahoos' Hearing Fixed for Next Thursday

Attorney Fails in Effort to Have Bail Reduced

Injured Physician Reported as Slightly Better

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, Dec. 12.—E. W. Donahoo was charged with assault with a deadly weapon on Dr. J. Bernard Nelson, and Mrs. Cassie Donahoo, his wife, was charged with assault with intent to do great bodily harm to the physician, in a complaint issued today. They were arraigned in Municipal Court and their preliminary hearing set for next Thursday at 2 o'clock in Department 1. Efforts of Attorney James Curtin, who represented them, to have the $5000 bail reduced for each defendant, was resisted successfully by the District Attorney's office.

Dep. Dist.-Atty. Glover informed Judge Long during the arraignment that the condition of Dr. Nelson from injuries asserted to have been received when he was struck over the head with a revolver in the hands of Donahoo and with a shotgun quirt in the hands of Mrs. Donahoo are such that the physician may die.

Attorney Curtin sought to have Mrs. Donahoo released on her own recognizance, setting forth that if she went to jail it would be necessary to confine her 4-months-old baby with her. He also told the court that the condition of Donahoo, who suffers from heart attacks and general physical breakdown, requires medical attention he cannot obtain in jail. Donahoo collapsed again while being taken to court today.

During the arraignment proceedings the two defendants were silent, except for some whispered words of sympathy by the wife to Donahoo while he sat in a state of semi-collapse.

The condition of Dr. Nelson, after having been reported as critical last night, was said to be slightly better today. Relatives who arrived from Arizona were denied admittance to his room at the hospital last night.

Probability that Donahoo will plead insanity in his trial on the assault charge was seen today. Support for mental defense was given in a statement to police by Dr. Frank Mikels, attending physician for Dr. Nelson, who examined Donahoo at the City Jail and declared that in his opinion the prisoner is a psychopathic case whose actions are dominated by his wife.

Continued improvement of Dr. Nelson to a point where he is admittedly out of danger of immediate death probably will result in reduced bail for the Donahoos and possibly in the release of Mrs. Donahoo on her own recognizance so she can care for her children, it was indicated in court today by Glover.

MINIATURE GOLF PROVES TRAP

Boy's Foot Catches in Hole and He's Held There Several Hours

An unusual mishap overtook David Nasatir, 4 years of age, yesterday when he was held prisoner for several hours with his foot wedged in one of the holes of a miniature golf course near his home, 1129 North Benton Way. In some way he'd stepped into the hole and couldn't free himself.

Dr. and Mrs. A. V. Nasatir, the youngster's parents, appealed to the police and Detective Lieutenants Glannell and Williams of the police flying squad, finally liberated the boy by chiseling away the cement about the hole. Aside from being frightened, David suffered no ill effects from his experience.

SANTA ASSISTED IN HIS WORK

Students at Lincoln High Lend Aid

Gifts Made for Less Fortunate Children

Jean Cunningham and Dorothy Sullivan show articles to be distributed to pupils of Riggin-avenue School.

SANTA CLAUS'S work for this year got under way officially yesterday morning when more than 800 wooden toys, dolls, scrapbooks and stockings containing nuts and candy were distributed to children of the Riggin-avenue school by the Boys' and Girls' leagues of Lincoln High School.

In taking Christmas cheer to many children who otherwise might have had little in the way of holiday joy, the Lincoln pupils eclipsed their prior efforts in this field. The toys, dolls and other gifts are the work of Lincoln students who, under the guidance of Frank Kito and Jean Cunningham, leaders of the philanthropic organizations of the school, have devoted weeks to preparations for the Yuletide observance.

Dancers, clowns and other features yesterday were combined to provide children of the Santa Fe-avenue and the Lemona-avenue schools another of the annual Christmas celebrations given for the past five years by pupils of the Los Angeles High School.

In the morning the high-school pupils had as their guests 200 from the Santa Fe-avenue school. A portion of the gifts distributed represented weeks of work from the sewing classes of the high school under the direction of Mrs. Page Gaymen.

The celebration at the Lemona-avenue school in Van Nuys was held yesterday afternoon under the direction of Sarah Wolverton, vice-principal of the Los Angeles High School. Gifts were distributed to 300 pupils.

RADIO PLANS NEW FILM TEAM

Blanca Costejon Has Feature Role in "Resurrection;" Edna Murphy to be Ingenue in "Private Secretary;" Loretta Young Plays Lead in Fox Picture

BY GRACE KINGSLEY

All the picture teams that Radio Pictures officials have put together seem in fair way of never being put asunder.

HUGH HERBERT

This apparently gives officials much faith in their ability to choose screen partners and they are about to launch another pair in one or more pictures.

Hugh Herbert and Edna May Oliver are the players in question. Both are noted for their stage characterizations during the past several years.

As there seems to be a crying need, according to Radio's ideas, for domestic comedies, it is in this type of story that Miss Oliver and Herbert will be cofeatured.

No less able a comedy concocter than Douglas Maclean, former film and stage star, but lately devoting himself to writing for Radio, is writing the story. Gregory La Cava is to direct the picture.

UNIVERSAL CASTS SPANISH ACTRESS

Beautiful Blanca Costejon isn't to have any time to visit the old Spanish missions in Southern California or do a thing except work for some time to come.

BLANCA COSTEJON

The Spanish actress, lately signed by Universal while she was appearing in Mexico City, has been assigned an important feminine role in the Spanish version of "Resurrection," in which Lupe Velez is starred.

This will be by way of getting her hand in, as it were, since Miss Costejon's experience in pictures is limited.

Following this role it is likely that she will be cast as the lead in an English-speaking picture, since under the terms of her contract she is to appear in both.

Miss Costejon is a Spaniard, born in Madrid, and a blond.

She is of the Spanish nobility, and her entire family, excepting her mother, turned against her when she adopted the stage as a profession.

The young actress speaks English, with only a slight accent. This she attributes to the fact that when she was a very little girl, her parents went to England for a short time, and there she learned English, afterward practicing it whenever she got a chance and studying it at school in Spain.

EDNA MURPHY PLAYS LEAD FOR RADIO

Once more the producers are showing that they realize the public is hankering to see its film favorites on the screen.

EDNA MURPHY

Now it is that charming young actress, Edna Murphy, who has been seen all too seldom on the screen of late, who is emerging again in the films. Radio Pictures has signed her for the leading ingenue role in "Private Secretary."

Miss Murphy was formerly with Warner Brothers, in whose pictures she made a distinct hit.

Loretta Young With Fox

It appears that when Fox's "Three Lost Girls" goes into production at Fox studios, two, at least, of the three young actresses who will play the lost trio are just the sort of girls everyone would like to find.

LORETTA YOUNG

Loretta Young was signed yesterday for one of the three leading feminine roles, while Virginia Cherrill has another such role. The third lost girl is yet to be selected.

John Wayne has the leading male role, and the picture will be directed by Sidney Lanfield. Robert Andrews wrote the story.

Betty Davis Welcomed

Universal City was all agog yesterday over the arrival of yet another stage star.

She is Betty Davis, who has been playing a leading role with Richard Bennett on the stage in "The Solid South," one of this season's Broadway plays.

Miss Davis arrived in town yesterday, accompanied by her mother, and at once went dutifully to Universal City to undergo voice and screen tests.

So far no assignment has been given the actress.

Victor Fleming With Doug

When Douglas Fairbanks and Mary Pickford leave on their travels after Christmas, they are to be accompanied, we learn, by Victor Fleming.

Reports are to the effect that Fleming's trip may not be altogether merely a social one, and that it is quite possible that Fairbanks has a foreign story in mind, and will take scenes en route. Fleming is a great personal friend of Fairbanks. He was also formerly his cameraman, and now he is known as one of the best directors in pictures.

Paramount Signs Twins

There are many ways of getting into pictures, and having been born twins is one of them, it seems.

Beatrice and Bertha Barton, ages 19, were thrust suddenly into Jack Oakie's Paramount picture, "The Gang Buster," for that reason principally, and also, as minor reasons, because they happened to be personable young ladies and because they chanced to be standing by watching the making of a scene when Director Edward Sutherland caught sight of them and got an inspiration to film a "seeing-double" comedy situation.

Catherine Dale Owen in It

Another pleasing young actress has been signed by Radio for an important part in "Private Secretary." She is Catherine Dale Owen, who has been seen frequently in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and other pictures.

'LINCOLN' LIFE REVISUALIZED

Story of Great Emancipator Told Anew

Griffith Vividly Portrays Hero's Assassination

Interpretation by Huston Amazingly Real

"That this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom, and that government of the people, by the people, for the people, shall not perish from the earth."

BY EDWIN SCHALLERT

A theater thronged with people and half-shrouded in darkness . . . a man of kindly face leaning half-forward in a box, his shoulders covered with a heavy woolen shawl . . . a figure slinking down an alleyway of a balcony, and stealthily opening a door . . . a shot — then silence . . . the man of kindly face cumpled in a chair. . . .

Then—the maniacal cry of "Sic Semper Tyrannis," and an audience in a frenzy and a pandemonium. . . .

This is a scene in Ford's Theater, Washington, of April 15, 1865, re-enacted on the screen. And it is a teeming moment in the tragedy of "Lincoln" as brought to the stage of photography and sound by D. W. Griffith.

Here indeed in the martyrdom of a President, is the masterly art of a great director revealed. And that one climaxing event, if naught else, serves to make the Griffith interpretation of the "Lincoln" story an achievement of the talking screen.

This biographical impression of the life of the great President is to be viewed at the United Artists' Theater. Whether it will be popular or not, I cannot say. It merits that favor for it is a sincere and reverential tribute to a great memory, simply, and humanly, told.

More than fifteen years ago Griffith gave the world an epoch-creating picture that related the regeneration of the South after the war. It told also some of the war's events and was a marvel of its time.

The new picture, with the same general background of historic happenings, cannot re-create the entire film horizon as the earlier one did, but it is a singularly poignant and meaningful accomplishment.

There was another impression of Lincoln not so many years ago that is, of course, well remembered. This, too, was of a biographical nature sincerely and beautifully done.

The new Lincoln picturization seeks to disclose the heart of the man, the loneliness of his determination—"I desire so to conduct the affairs of this administration that if at the end, when I come to lay down the reins of power, I have lost every other friend on earth, I shall at least have one friend left, and that friend shall be down inside of me."

Strung through the story—gems of photography—are the scenes of the President's life from his birth to his death. The pathetic death of Ann Rutledge—Lincoln's ever-present financial troubles in his youth—the clumsy courtship of Mary Todd—the campaigns against Douglas for a Senatorship—the endless bitter struggle of Lincoln against odds of politics and adversity in the White House, when he is elected President—his generosity in victory—and then his death.

Griffith would seem to have exaggerated at times the eccentricities of the Lincoln (I do not know, to be sure, if they could be exaggerated.) but from all I have heard the research for the film was very profound, and Stephen Vincent Benet, author of "John Brown's Body" made the adaptation for the screen. Lincoln shows his prowess in one of the early episodes by fighting the bully of the town. The death of Ann Rutledge seems later on to break him completely, and there is one moment in a pouring rain when he throws himself headlong on her grave in h.. agony of feeling. At the still later event of a party, where he meets Mary Todd, he is clad in an ill-fitting suit, with a vest that continually climbs, it is so short. When he arrives weary at the White House he reclines on the floor and props himself up against the back of a chair.

These are touches that are unique in this particular picture. They are obvious in a way, sometimes disconcerting, but human withal. The strong and forceful moments are reserved for the later scenes when the tragedy of war overwhelms, and here is a great incident of Gen. Robert E. Lee's depth and humility, as well as Lincoln's, and also one of the picture's finest scenes.

Griffith's "Lincoln" is bound to be considered sketchy by those accustomed to the film drama of compactness and dramatic climax. I suppose, though, that nearly any biographical film is certain to be that, within the limitations of time proposed for an undertaking of this kind.

The beauty of the individual moment is triumphant, and there is rare art evinced both in the opening and the closing of the story, especially the ending where the log cabin is transformed into the Lincoln monument. Fine symbolism this!

Walter Huston enacts the title character, and he seems to have felt the sincerity and fineness of the ideal he was representing. His best scenes are the later ones, for here he seems very perfectly to realize the Lincoln that is historically familiar to the world. In many of these later moments the picture well-nigh seems like life itself.

Mention might be made of many people who take part, but it will suffice to note the names of Kay Hammond as Mary Todd, Una Merkel as Ann Rutledge, Hobart Bosworth as Gen. Lee, Ian Keith as John Wilkes Booth, Fred Warren as Gen. Grant, James Bradbury, Sr., as Gen. Scott, and for old times sake Henry B. Walthall, the "little colonel" of "Birth of a Nation," as Col. Marshall of the South. In addition to Benet, Gerrit Lloyd assisted in the preparation of the picture for the screen. "Lincoln" is to be commended to all.

ORPHEUM SCREENS NEW FILM

"The Boudoir Diplomat," adapted from "The Command to Love," stage farce, starts on the screen today at the Orpheum Theater. Ian Keith, Betty Compson, Mary Duncan and Jeannette Loff head the cast.

Original "Peter Pan" Proffered

Marion Clayton

Enacts the name role in the Barrie play which the Civic Repertory presents at the Music Box Theater in Hollywood Monday night. Don Stuart, director, has "built back" to its original form the manuscript of the piece, it is reported.

EMOTIONAL FILM ACTED BY LATINS

Mona Maris, Juan Torena Play Principal Roles in "Del Mismo Barro"

BY SALVADOR BAGUEZ

A story filled with emotional scenes and one which is more or less acceptable, except in direction, is "Del Mismo Barro," Fox's latest Spanish talkie which opened yesterday at the California International Theater. It is the Spanish adaptation of the film "Common Clay," by Cleves Kinhead, and features Mona Maris and Juan Torena, assisted by a large group of well-known Latin artists.

To compare the work of Miss Maris with that of Constance Bennett, who portrayed the role of Ellen in the English version, would be rather unfair to the latter. Where Miss Bennett was unmistakably well cast and playing in a part in which all the versatility and histrionic ability of an actress must be brought to bear, Mona Maris's characterization leaves much to be desired in the way of enunciation of speech and experience. Both of these faults are most noticeable in her more emotional scenes. However, this is offset by her subtle beauty and charming pantomime, gained undoubtedly through her former appearances in silent pictures.

Juan Torena wins honors not only for a fair interpretation of the role played by Lewis Ayres in the original version—because he falls short of accomplishing it—but because of his sincere effort in trying. Of the remaining members of the cast there are only two who merit praise. These are Maria Calvo for an exquisite characterization of Mrs. Neal, mother of Ellen, and Roberto Guzman for some fine bits of comedy in a character part.

The direction is credited to David Howard. With all due credit to him it is evident that he should have had some one familiar with stage direction in Spanish.

A highlight on this week's program is a travelogue by Tom Terris in which Lucio Villegas reads the explanations in Spanish. A Mickey Mouse cartoon without dialogue and a news reel complete the bill.

BARTLETT-FRANKEL QUARTET PLEASES

Distinguished Audience Hears Music of Haydn, Suk and Bourguignon

BY ISABEL MORSE JONES

With contemporary music predominating, the Bartlett-Frankel quartet entertained a group of distinguished music lovers at the Biltmore last evening. The quartets were those of Haydn, the Belgian; Bourguignon and the Bohemian Suk.

The last was first in interest. Although Suk's development of musical ideas in this quartet in B flat major was in the modern idiom, he was not ashamed to make it sound beautiful, and he has polished the work so that it is fit for a good quartet's presentation. The Bartlett-Frankel quartet, composed of Sylvain Noack, Emile Ferir, Anthony Briglio and Nicolas Ochi-Albi, provided an excellent performance full of life and vigor, but not lacking in sentiment and charm. This is a fine piece of writing and displays a richness of knowledge as well as inspiration. Suk has conducted in Vienna.

The prelude, "Chorale et Fugue" by the Belgian pianist, Francis De Bourguignon, is too intricate and dissonant for any attitude but armed neutrality to follow its first hearing. The players were not at ease with it and neither was the audience. Even in a first performance, and I believe this was the first time in this country, the work had fine moments of strength and an originality that promised much. There are bitterness and a galling acid quality in De Bourguignon's music.

The quartet plays again Sunday evening at the Beaux Arts Theater.

FOOTBALL PLAYED AT WARNER'S

Lighter Side of College Life Again Depicted on Silver Sheet

BY JOHN SCOTT

Football, as the movies play it, sings its seasonal swan song on the screen at Warners' Hollywood Theater, where "College Lovers" started a week's run yesterday. For football provides the main interest of the production, notwithstanding a mixed-up romantic thread which runs throughout the story.

Warner Brothers lost a grand ballyhoo opportunity when the Southern California Trojans lost to Notre Dame, since several of the boys from U.S.C. play minor roles in the picture. However, Actors Jack Whiting, Guinn Williams and Russell Hopton carry on in an orthodox version of college life, with fair results.

The lighter side of higher learning is stressed in "College Lovers." The sorority-house garden is an ideal spot for whatever the present-day collegiates call "necking," and is certainly put to use. One other scene which the boys and girls of the local universities probably won't be crazy about shows the lads and lasses at the annual prom jigging about, kicking and squirming in a dance that would do a beach resort proud. Outside of this the film gives a correct idea of the fol-de-role of college life outside the classroom.

The theme of the story concerns two football heroes, an influential senior and the trick he plays on the pigskin warriors in order to keep them on the team. The trick involves a girl who is induced to write identical notes to the gridiron laddies just before the big game, expressing her affection. Previous to this the boys, Williams and Hopton, were at swords points over the fair lady and dear old Sanford was in danger of losing the championship to Bolton.

The football game takes up most of the last half of "College Lovers" and includes some fine shots of an actual battle, bands parading and rooting stunts. And here's something new. The two boys do not win the game, although they are injected into the fracas with three minutes to play. It's a novel ending and lends a distinct note of realism to the production.

The principals of the picture are Marian Nixon as the girl, Jack Whiting as the senior, Guinn Williams and Russell Hopton as the heroes who find that romance and football do not mix; Frank McHugh and Charles Judels in comedy roles, Wade Boteler as the coach, and Phyllis Crane and Richard Tucker. All are competent enough in the enactment of their roles. John Adolphi directed from a story by Earl Baldwin.

The incidental screen fare at Warners Hollywood brings Hal Skelly in "The Gob," which is fairly amusing; "The Unfair Sex," with Dan Healy and Dolly Gilbert; "The Opening," a travesty on a theatrical premiere, and an interesting Times-Universal newsreel.

"SOLDIER'S PLAYTHING" COMIC HIT

Laughter Covers Blushes at Warner's Downtown; Langdon Amuses

BY PHILIP K. SCHEUER

No crazy quilt was ever patterned with less reason than "A Soldier's Plaything," which unfolded itself giddily yesterday on the screen at Warner Brothers' Downtown Theater. Haphazard and jigsaw, it presents a curious anomaly before which dogmatic standards go to pot. For "A Soldier's Plaything" will be one of the popular talkies of the vanishing year.

A comedy drama of the war—though not a gun is fired, and the entire conflict is covered in a single subtitle—this latest Vitaphone film convulsed a crowded house last night. Those who made the house crowded conceivably had gazed upon other movies in which a hero was forced into the army to escape arrest, in which barmaids named Fifi and Gretchen fell for doughboys named Georgie and Tim and in which those same doughboys were punished for certain dubious escapades by being handed pitchforks and told to go to work. But there was nothing in their wholehearted response to these scenes and others like them to show it.

Like its predecessors, "A Soldier's Plaything" covers its blushes with laughter. Not merely risque—for it would not know the word—the film abounds in episodes of a brash vulgarity which would be well-nigh unimaginable without the swift boon of "black-outs." One of them at least is definitely unpleasant. And many of them are informed with a bawdy humor which is funny in its very gracelessness.

Harry Langdon and Ben Lyon are the two contrasted leads. It might almost be said that they are two stories. For this picture places a white-faced clown plunk! in the midst of a serious melodrama about gangsters, one of whom is Lyon. I think the war is supposed to have a sort of regenerating effect on the latter, but you can never be too sure about these things. Anyway, whenever the plot gets in the way of a gag, a subtitle explains it away and we are back at the fertilizer and pitchforks.

In a sense Langdon makes the picture his; because it depends most upon its comedy, and Langdon is a comedian. Lyon is good-looking and capable as the romantic lead, and opposite him appears Lotti Loder, an actress of unquestioned charm and captivating accent. Fred Kohler, Noah Beery, Marie Astaire and others dot the almost unrelated episodes, the choppy continuity suggesting that the film has been generously pruned to program length.

Direction is by Michael Curtiz, who keeps events marching with all the skill of an old-time slapstick director, which he is not. Arthur Caesar's dialogue keeps in key with the whole. The "story," according to the credit list, was thought up by —of all people—Vina Delmar, author of "Bad Girl."

Short subjects included "Compliments of the Season," a comedy by Paul Gerard Smith; "The Darling Brute," with Jack Hazzard, and a news reel.

CONFLICT WAGES ON FILMARTE SCREEN

"Lash of Czar" Typical of Older Type of Picture Filmed by Russian Studios

BY ELENA BOLAND

Russia, the cry for food and freedom eternally upon her lips, again demands a hearing.

Sounding the knell of aristocracy, "The Lash of the Czar" wages a defiant conflict upon the Filmarte screen between law and order and that divine abstraction called justice.

Typical of the older style set by Russian films, this builds itself around a story of living people rather than, as is now their mode, explaining a theory through the medium of the human form. A wider interest is thus provoked.

Not so much the substance of the plot attracts attention, because in changes of costume it has already been seen numerous times. But it is the diabolical eye which the camera turns upon its subject that brings forth admiration for "The Lash of the Czar" and also for I. A. Protozanov, the director.

Focusing, like some malicious clown, its glance on the figureheads of power, the camera delights in a series of portraits allt with satire. With details and small gestures as pointed as sword pricks, it tears the men of Russia's dominance to shreds. There are moments when the camera-eye drops one lid in rascally pity, but beneath it is seen the glint of mockery.

Picking the old regime to the bone with sly cruelty, this film endeavors to balance accounts between the rulers and the factory hands. A hunger strike on the part of the workers forms the nucleus of the action. And as Russia must always deal with extremes, her peasantry is pictured in sordid grief. So amusing, however, is the bitter irony coloring the royal circle, that the usual pitiful poverty fails to properly impress.

Performances etched to a sardonic, knife-like clarity are given by V. I. Kachalov, V. E. Meyerhold, A. V. Petrovsky and Ivan Chuvelev. Anna Stenn is seen as the girl.

By way of novelty, "St. Louis Blues," written and directed by Dudley Murphy, experiments with music and sound. On the whole, it presents an interesting study

BOY KILLED BY HIT-AND-RUNNER

Edmond Hughes of Pomona Struck Down on Street

His Companion Says Car Was Running Without Lights

Valley Police in Fruitless Search for Miscreant

POMONA, Dec. 12.—Edmond Hughes, 14-year-old son of Jules Hughes of 1801 East Fifth avenue, was instantly killed by a hit-and-run motorist running without headlights, last night, who was the object of fruitless search by all valley police departments all night and today.

The boy was struck down and fatally injured last night while walking home with a boy companion, Lawrence Green. The Green boy told police that the car was traveling at a high rate of speed without headlights, although it was night time, and that the driver speeded up and was soon out of sight after hitting the lad.

Rushed to the Health Center, the boy never regained consciousness, physicians stating that he was badly crushed and could not possibly survive.

An inquest has been called at the Todd & Reeves mortuary, at 9:30 a.m. Saturday.

Supervisor of Forest Voices Appreciation

SAN DIEGO, Dec. 12.—Appreciation to residents of San Diego city and county and visitors here this past year for their assistance in forest and brush fire prevention in the Cleveland National Forest during 1930, was voiced today by L. H. Anderson, supervisor of the forest. The acreage burned on the national forest land and areas adjacent for this year amounted to 4248 acres, as compared with 39,604 acres burned in 1929, Anderson said. Of the 4248 acres, only 964 acres were actually on national forest land. Sixty-two acres were on private land inside the forest, while 3222 acres were on land adjacent to the Cleveland area.

In 1922, 1010 acres were blackened in the national forest, while 4012 acres of private land inside the forest were burned. The 1929 figure for acreage burned adjacent to the Cleveland area was 39,604 acres. There were thirty-eight fires in 1930, as against fifty-five in 1929. Of the thirty-eight, five were caused by lightning, fifteen by smokers, three by campfires, four by brush burning, eight were of incendiary origin, and three were of miscellaneous origin.

Anderson said that the motoring public is becoming conscious of the need for conservation of the brush and tree covering on the hills and mountains.

School Leaders in Educational Survey Move

SANTA ANA, Dec. 12.—On the heels of representations made to the County Supervisors protesting against a proposed expenditure of about $7000 for a county educational survey, made by a delegation of Fullerton citizens, a counter-movement has been registered.

School trustees and school executives of the county, attending a joint meeting of high school principals and trustees of high school and grammar school districts, held at the Santa Ana High School, adopted a motion to the effect that the Board of Supervisors be requested to authorise and finance the proposed survey.

Ralph McFadden, Placentia business man, representing the Associated Chambers, was elected chairman of the joint meeting. A special committee composed of M. G. Jones, A. Haven Smith, and C. O. Harvey, was appointed to wait upon the Supervisors with the request of the joint meeting.

Southern Cross Leaves Sunday for Australia

SANTA ANA, Dec. 12. (AP)—The Southern Cross, airplane in which Capt. Charles Kingsford - Smith made many record flights, will begin a final trip to Australia Sunday.

The ship was left here by its famous pilot after he had flown it westward across the Atlantic and then here. An effort to place it in the Smithsonian Institution failed and it will rest in an Australian museum instead. Capt. G. Allan Hancock will fly the Southern Cross to San Francisco, where it will be crated to complete its journey by boat.

BLUE BLOOD AND FEATHERS WIN

Macaw Gets Ribbon to Match Color

Mrs. J. E. Arnold and Alma

Alma, the hyacinth macaw of the Catalina aviaries, wins blue ribbon and gold medal at the second annual Foreign Bird Show at Long Beach, held under the auspices of the Avicultural Society of America. Mrs. J. E. Arnold of Long Beach is holding the blue-blooded and blue-feathered bird.

CHANGE IN VEHICLE ACT ADVOCATED

City Prosecutors Indorse Amendment Proposed to Curb Drunken Driving

INGLEWOOD, Dec. 12.—A radical change in the provisions of Section 112 of the California Motor Vehicle Act, relating to driving while intoxicated, was indorsed by the California Association of City Prosecutors in meeting here last evening. The proposed change would make the first offense a misdemeanor only, and the second offense a felony, punishable by a penitentiary sentence.

The prosecutors, whose session last evening was held at the Woman's Club under the hostship of City Prosecutor Lester O. Luce, expressed the belief that if the offense were classed as a misdemeanor in the first instance, offenders would plead guilty and take their punishment. Convictions for second-time offenders would be more easily obtained with the first-time guilty plea to strengthen the prosecution. In this way the heavy expense of trying cases of thousands who plead not guilty in the first instance would be saved by pleas of guilty.

It was pointed out further that out of a total of 1300 cases in the past eighteen months, but four convictions had been obtained under the drunken-driving act, and yet the county had been forced to stand the heavy expense of prosecuting all these cases.

"The move is not intended to weaken the present act," said City Prosecutor Luce, "but rather to strengthen it, by stabilizing the efforts of prosecutors who at present are apparently putting up a futile fight in thousands of strongly contested cases which, under the changed classification, would have brought a plea of guilty. Too few convictions all the way through are at present being obtained, whereas under the proposed new amended law, second offenders would get the punishment they deserve with a guilty plea for a former offense recorded against them."

FINE RESIDENCE TO RISE AT REDLANDS

SANTA ANA, Dec. 12.—Plans and specifications have been completed by a designing and building company of Los Angeles for a new $25,000 residence to be erected by W. A. Suddaby, president of the Smart & Final Company, wholesale grocers. The home will be built on Lemon Heights, one of the city's exclusive residence suburbs. The plans call for a two-story structure of Spanish Mediterranean design, with landscaping of the surrounding grounds.

AVALON (Catalina Island) Dec. 12.—Feathered beauties of the Catalina aviaries flew away with the grand sweepstakes prize, a flock of gold medals and blue ribbons, with a couple of silver cups thrown in for good measure, when the judges got through counting the scores at the second annual Foreign Bird Show held at Long Beach under the auspices of the Avicultural Society of America.

The Avicultural cup, a beautiful silver punch-bowl, was won by the Catalina exhibit for the largest number of points scored in all classes. The Hatch cup for the "best bird in the show" was awarded the king bird of paradise, judged as the rarest and most beautifully plumaged bird in the show. The Vroom cup was awarded for a red-headed parrot finch, scored as the rarest foreign finch exhibited.

Four gold medals were won by the Catalina feathered contestants. These were awarded for the best cockatoos, caiques, macaws and finches. In addition the island birds carried off eleven blue ribbons for first prizes, three second prizes and two third prizes in their respective divisions.

Prize-winning birds in the exhibit included Jimmy, the famous talking Hill mynah, with his admonition of "Go ketch 'em;" Alma, a blue-feathered as well as blue-blooded hyacinth macaw; a king bird of paradise; a giant black palm cockatoo; a pair of green-thighed caiques; two Leadbeater's cockatoos; a pair of scarlet ibis; an aerial toucan; a Rubia lory, a blue mountain lory and a purple-capped lory; a coppersmith barbete and a parrot finch.

Alma, adept in "modeling" her fine feathers to best advantage, took the honors for personality and was voted as the "it" bird; Jimmy, the talking mynah, got the hand as the star of the show, and Mike, the toucan with his big bill, was ranked as the most comical bird with the king bird of paradise rated as an example of the "best dressed."

Supt. E. H. Lewis of the Catalina Bird Park brought fifty rare specimens to the show representing the largest single exhibit. The island collection is owned by William Wrigley, Jr., and is rated as the largest private collection of rare birds in the world.

New Subdivision Ordinance for County Framed

SANTA ANA, Dec. 12.—Uniform width of streets and traffic lanes, as well as adequacy in area of lots, are the two features of the new Orange county subdivision ordinance, drafted and approved by the County Planning Commission, which is now awaiting action by the Board of Supervisors.

Anticipating that it is only a matter of years before the whole coast section of the county will be knitted into a continuous chain of residence tracts, with a resultant heavy increase in travel, particular emphasis is laid on the necessity of providing adequate provisions for streets, highways and other traffic lanes, it was explained by Mrs. Clara Cushman, secretary of the commission.

Protection against the introduction of so-called "postage stamp" lots, in laying out subdivisions, is contained in a provision of the ordinance which reads that all lots shall have an area of not less than 4500 square feet and an average width of not less than forty-five feet.

BOMB QUIZ RESUMES TODAY

Thirty Witnesses Examined by Grand Jury in Sifting Explosion in Filipino Rooming-house

EL CENTRO, Dec. 12.—After examining thirty witnesses during a session that lasted until 1 a.m. today, the Imperial county grand jury is to meet again tomorrow to resume its investigation of the bombing of a Filipino rooming-house and the death of one man in Imperial last Monday night.

Dist.-Atty. Elmer Heald stated today that the result of the grand jury's hearings probably would be known by noon tomorrow. In the meantime, A. L. Hodges, truck driver, who is suspected of having thrown the homemade bomb into the Filipino quarters, is being held under a complaint charging murder, and Anthony D. Patten is in custody of the Sheriff as a possible accomplice.

Many Filipino workers are leaving the valley, according to the report of officers, and those remaining are keeping under cover.

The American Legion post at Calexico canceled a boxing program this week in which four Filipinos were to take part.

ENGLISHMAN IN PASADENA JAIL

Ernest G. V. Harris Held on Suspicion of Bunko

Asks for "Cleanest Cell," as "Used to Amenities"

Officers Say Legacy Story Leads to His Arrest

PASADENA, Dec. 12.—Ernest G. V. Harris, 21 years of age, self-styled son of "a wealthy Englishman who is director of education in England," was lodged in the City Jail today on suspicion of being implicated in bunko activities.

Following his arrest by Detective Lieutenants Stanley Decker and Cecil Burlingame, Harris pleaded with the jailers to be given "the cleanest cell you have," in view of the fact that he is "used to the amenities." He protested in a refined manner when he was confined in the "tank" with drunks.

George Friend, local attorney, notified the police that Harris has been attempting to "touch" professional men in the Security Building for £20 each, or about $100, on the promise of a large slice of a $100,000 legacy the Englishman asserts he is soon to receive.

The detectives believe Harris, alias E. W. Sawyer, Frank Richardson and Frank Scranes, is wanted by authorities in Montreal, Can., for illegal entry.

FIDELITY'S LOSS HELD CERTAIN

Body Found on Santa Rosa Island Believed One of Crew From Missing Seiner

SANTA BARBARA, Dec. 12.—Battered beyond all possible recognition, the body of a man, believed one of the eleven fishermen lost aboard the ill-fated purse seiner Fidelity in a channel storm several weeks ago, was found this morning at Skunk Point on the west end of Santa Rosa Island. The body was found by Capt. James Larsen, skipper of a Larco fishing boat, and was brought into Santa Barbara early this evening.

With the finding of one body, a new search for the other ten men, also believed lost, was immediately launched from this port. A Coast Guard cutter was summoned to the scene from San Pedro and it is expected that more bodies will be found within the next twenty-four hours.

The body was sighted early this morning by the fishing boat, but was not recovered until several hours later, because of a heavy sea making landing impossible. A hasty search in the vicinity revealed no other bodies. According to Capt. Larsen, the body recovered was badly battered, apparently by contact upon the rocky shores of the island.

The Fidelity was believed to have gone down during a storm late last month. It was last seen battling waves four miles from Santa Rosa Island, but signaled it was in no danger. The purse seiner was a San Diego vessel and had sailed out of San Pedro the day before one of the most severe storms ever witnessed in the Santa Barbara Channel broke, evidently swamping the craft, and causing loss of eleven lives.

Lovers' Names Linked in Stars by Astronomer

PASADENA, Dec. 12.—To have a star named for a dear one, consult Dr. Seth B. Nicholson, Mt. Wilson Observatory astronomer.

Dr. Nicholson revealed last night that while he was courting his wife, he immortalised the romance by "placing her name in the stars."

Mrs. Nicholson's former name was Scott, so when Dr. Nicholson discovered a new minor planet, or asteroid, he named it "Scott." In order to beat lovers who inscribed their names on the trunk of a tree at their own game, the astronomer discovered another asteroid near Scott which he named "Nicholson."

BANKERS CHANGE JOBS

RESEDA, Dec. 12.—Assistant Manager H. L. Cady of the Reseda branch of the California Bank has been transferred to the California Bank at North Hollywood. E. A. Frahm of the latter branch bank has been sent to Reseda to succeed Cady.

TOY BALLOON IN LONG TRIP

Tiny Craft Freed by Paul Sullivan, Torrance Boy, Returns from Desert

TORRANCE, Dec. 12.—A toy balloon with a real sailing log is in the possession of Paul Sullivan, local youth. The balloon, bearing young Sullivan's name and address, was released here last August.

Yesterday it was returned to him by Dr. R. D. Jones, a mining engineer of Kramer in the Mojave Desert, who found it near his home there.

Its journey is estimated at about 180 miles.

WHITTIER LIGHTS ITS YULE TREE

City Opens Holiday Season With Ceremonies Beneath Gaily Decked Cypress

WHITTIER, Dec. 12. — To the fanfare of trumpets, the brilliant lights from hundreds of gayly colored electric lights, and around a Christmas tree that towered into the evening sky, Whittier's holiday activities were inaugurated last evening.

Burl G. Martin, secretary of the Whittier Chamber of Commerce, was master of ceremonies and announced the names of the winners of more than fifty handsome presents which the merchants of the city had donated for the Christmas tree. The affair was sponsored by the chamber, the merchants' committee of the chamber, Frank Anderson, chairman, and the merchants of the city.

More than 100 Christmas trees, gayly adorned with Christmas ornaments, and aglow with brilliant varicolored lights at night, adorn the business district of the city, and at the intersection of Greenleaf avenue and Philadelphia street, an immense cypress tree, garlanded with ropes of tinsel, and strands of electric lights, stands sectinel, a mute reminder of the approach of the holiday season.

This year a base, about twenty feet square and ten feet high, was erected, and the tree placed upon this, thus making more room for traffic through the heart of the business district.

Founders' Day Set for Sunday at Redlands

REDLANDS, Dec. 12. — The first founders' day program of the University of Redlands, which will be held on Sunday, will be featured by the unveiling of a portrait of the late Dr. Jasper Newton Field by Thomas Beggs of the art department of Pomona College.

Dr. Field was one of the founders and the first president of the institution. The program at the memorial chapel will be featured by organ music by Arthur W. Poister, a processional, invication by Rev. H. O. Hofstead, D.D., of Redlands; scripture by Rev. Robert L. Dougherty, an anthem by the university chorus, a talk on "The University and Its Alumni" by Rev. Stanley Silke of Pasadena; "The University and the City of Redlands," by Mayor N. Leo Lelean; "The University and the Churches of Redlands," by Rev. Lewis Jacobsen, and a historical address by Rev. Ralph A. Jansen, D.D., of Long Beach.

President Victor L. Duke will unveil the portrait and will be assisted by Hilton Bell and Martha Ligan. Rev. T. A. Ray will give the invocation.

IGLOO GETS HOT IN PARADE AND BURNS

UPLAND, Dec. 12.—A pre-Christmas celebration planned here in the business district almost came to an untimely end, when an igloo mounted on a truck caught on fire, and nearly exploded a forty-gallon gasoline tank. The igloo, intended to represent headquarters for Santa Claus, was made of cotton and other decorations. Within the igloo was a motor to provide current for the tiny electric lights on the float. The motor became overheated, and the igloo went up in smoke, right next to the gasoline tank. Quick repairs were made, another igloo hastily built, and the float was put in the pre-Christmas parade without the public knowing about its misfortune.

RECORD GAS MILEAGE CLAIMED

Hitch-hiker Picked Up by San Clemente Mayor Tells How Five-Gallon Can Carries Him for 14,000 Miles; It Contains Clothes, Not Fuel

SAN CLEMENTE, Dec. 12.—Fourteen thousand miles on a five-gallon gasoline can is the newest report on travel experiences told here. Mayor Thomas F. Murphine of this city discovered the man who holds such a record.

The Mayor was driving at the southern end of this city and passed a man carrying the gasoline can. The Mayor stopped his car and offered to give the pedestrian a lift. The man thanked him, stepped into the car and brought the can with him.

Mayor Murphine said to the traveler, "Don't you think that you had better leave the can on the running board? You are likely to spill the gas on the floor of the car."

"This isn't gas," answered the stranger, "it is my suitcase. I cut the bottom out of the can, fixed it with hinges and an inside catch, and it holds my wardrobe."

The hitch-hiker said that he had traveled 14,000 miles on his five-gallon gasoline can. Motorists, thinking that he is carrying gas, give him a lift on his way. He said, "I have never asked for a ride. I am always asked to get in and when the driver finds that my gas can is my suit case they laugh and carry me on anyway."

BANDIT QUARTET IN COURT

Redlands Police Say Two Women and Two Men Sign Confession Admitting Four Hold-ups

REDLANDS, Dec. 12.—Redlands' mixed quartet of bandits were charged with robbery on two counts in the court of Judge C. O. Potter here this morning and when offered their freedom on $5000 cash bail or $10,000 property bail, they all laughed heartily and asked to be taken back to jail. The preliminary examination will be held Thursday. The mixed quartet is Frank Howell, Robert Boggess, Miss Jean Martin and Mrs. Louise Carter and, according to the police, they have signed a written confession to having held up four places here and in San Bernardino and attempts to hold up two more.

They were also charged with robbery in a complaint in the Colton court and it is probable a complaint will be brought against them in Beaumont.

The two girls entered the courtroom this afternoon smoking cigarettes but one look from the judge and they dropped them on the floor hurriedly and stepped on them.

Mrs. Carter is soon to become a mother and after the arraignment she was taken back to the County Hospital. Both girls are real flapper bandits with bobbed hair and hard faces. Miss Martin reiterated this morning that she would have shot it out with the police if she had had a gun.

"How about some cigarette money?" said Howell.

"Take these off" (pointing to the manacles,) she retorted, "and let me out of here, and I'll get cigarette money in no time."

The mixed quartet enjoyed the court scene immensely for they laughed and talked, and the girls said to their male companions, "Gee, boys, we sure are glad to see you again."

Baja California Governor Takes Reins Next Year

MEXICALI, Dec. 12.—Lower California's newly appointed Governor, Carlos Trejo y Lerdo de Tejada, will arrive to assume his new post soon after January 1, according to information received here today in unofficial dispatches from Mexico City. In the meantime, Secretary of State Miguel Ortega will serve as acting executive of the district.

Gen. Arturo Bernal, who resigned the Governorship on Tuesday, today sent a message to Edmundo Aragon, American Consul in Calexico, expressing the former Governor's appreciation for the courtesies shown by American newspapers and officers along the border during his brief regime here.

Bernal is now in Mexico City, and, according to information received here, is to be reappointed to his former position as Chief of Staff for Gen. Joaquin Amaro, Secretary of War.

Mrs. Bernal, wife of the former Governor, who is still in Mexicali, today resigned as head of the committee in charge of an elaborate program of Christmas festivities. It was announced by prominent social leaders in the capital who have been assisting Mrs. Bernal that they would carry out the program as planned.

Edison Plans Large Outlay at Beach City

REDONDO BEACH, Dec. 12.—An expenditure of nearly $500,000 in the Redondo district has been outlined for the year 1931 by the Southern California Edison Company, it was announced by District Manager C. W. Koiner yesterday. Pay-roll funds of $119,000 will supplement the budgeted expenditures, which in round figures are given as $450,000.

New industrial, agricultural and domestic business amounting to 350,000 horsepower is anticipated by the company in this district, the program of expansion to include provisions for carrying the extra load and construction of a new substation at Westin, a new storeroom for Redondo Beach, and improvement of facilities at the La Fresa substation. He leaves five sons, three daughters, thirty-one grandchildren and six great-grandchildren, constituting one of the best-known and most influential Ventura county families.

FOOD EXPERT FROM CORNELL TO SPEAK

LA CRESCENTA, Dec. 12.—"Food and its uses" will be the topic of a discourse on diet to be given by Prof. George W. Cavanaugh, professor of food chemistry at Cornell University, Tuesday night at the home of Dr. Albin Peterson at 2712 Foothill Boulevard. The meeting is open to the public and there will be no charge and no collection. Scientific information on the subject of diet and the proper uses of foods for consumption is to be dealt with by the learned expert from Cornell.

"We positively dig our graves with our teeth," declares Prof. Cavanaugh, but he qualifies the statement by declaring you can keep good teeth and a fine stomach if willing to study food qualities and their application to the human body.

NO "HARD TIMES" AT POMONA

Increase in Delinquencies on Taxes Reported Very Small by City Collector

POMONA, Dec. 12.—Tax collections for Pomona, according to Robert S. Gregg, city tax collector, showed only a $600 proportionate increase in delinquencies this year as compared with last year, and as a result failed to substantiate rumors that Pomona Valley was suffering from "hard times."

Two hundred nineteen thousand three hundred and seventy-one dollars and seventy - five cents was collected for the first installment out of a total of $378,488.35 in assessments, this amount, including $24,686.05 paid in advance on the second installment. This leaves a balance of $139,116.80 due in second installment taxes which become delinquent on April 20, 1931.

The total first installment delinquencies were $15,406.67 as compared with $14,000 for the same period a year ago.

Dr. Stuart Has Ninety-fourth Anniversary

VENTURA, Dec. 12.—Dr. S. L. Stuart observed his ninety-fourth birthday anniversary yesterday with a quiet family gathering at his home. He was born in Dexter, Me., and came to California in 1868, coming by way of Panama and practically walking across the isthmus, where he again boarded a sailing vessel, came up the coast and landed in San Francisco.

He brought with him his sister and her two children and her friend, who came to marry Joseph Stuart, a grandfather of young Dr. Stuart. The party went by wagon from San Francisco to Sacramento, and encountered a terrific sandstorm, but arrived safely and celebrated the wedding.

Dr. Stuart came to Ventura in 1878 and practiced dentistry here until 1915. He studied the profession in Maine before coming West.

He enjoys good eyesight and hears well and enjoys automobile rides, recently making a trip of 215 miles in one day. His chief joy is his garden and he personally cares for the one around his Kalorama-street home.

Dr. S. L. Stuart is a grandson of Joseph Stuart, famous American painter, whose portraits of Washington are among the finest ever made of the first President. One of his grand-nephews, Harold Stuart, celebrated his twenty-first birthday anniversary yesterday, joining his older relative for the celebration.

REDLANDS, Dec. 12.—A sneak thief entered the Deming Furniture Company on Orange street while the proprietor and his clerks were occupied with customers and stole $80 in money, the bank book and some checks. The money and checks were in the bank book ready to be taken to the bank for deposit. The bank book and checks were later found on West Colton avenue, where they had been thrown by the thief.

EXCHANGE PROFITS SHOW

Ontario-Cucamonga Growers for Third Consecutive Year Exceed $7,000,000 Mark in Returns

UPLAND, Dec. 12.—For the season just closed, 348 varieties of citrus fruits handled through the Ontario-Cucamonga Exchange, known also as the O. K. Exchange, returned a total of $7,101,287.21, Harry B. Harlow, manager, announced at the annual meeting of the organization today. This marks the third consecutive year that the O. K. Exchange has passed the $7,000,000 mark in returns, Harlow said.

Returns were higher this year, in spite of lower shipments and a lighter crop, but the oranges were larger and of better quality, and the demand for citrus fruits was steady throughout the year. Lemons, oranges and grapefruit moved steadily throughout the season.

Navel shipments totaled 117 3-4 cars, which averaged $4.51 per box. Lemon shipments totaled 1638 1-2 cars at an average of $5.33 per box. Valencia shipments amounted to 523 cars for which an average of $5.53 per box was received.

The exchange shipped 58 1-4 cars of grapefruit at an average price of $4.69. Miscellaneous shipments comprising sweets, bloods, St. Michaels and tangerines amounted to 42 3-4 cars, sweets averaging $6.54, bloods, $5.39; St. Michaels, $4.84, tangerines, $4.84.

Loose fruits and [illegible] figures totaled [illegible] oranges and grapefruit [illegible] lemons which added [illegible] total returns.

Harlow said: "In view of conditions that have prevailed in the entire country, it is gratifying that citrus growers as a group have consistently [illegible] years. This goes to show that fruits have well established themselves as a part of the [illegible] diet."

R. O. Price of Ontario was elected president of the board of directors, as were all other officers of the organization.

Practically all packing houses in the district are members of the Cucamonga Exchange.

YULETIDE PACKAGES GO EARLY

Shipping Volume on Par With 1929

Gifts Will be on Time

Blanche Gustafson and Eleanor McLaughlin, both of the Union Pacific System, combine to get their Christmas packages off early. They are shown with bundles and packages of California fruits and nuts which will be sent out this year in car-load lots to the East.

THE slogan, "Mail early" has gained considerable headway in Los Angeles this year, according to F. M. Leake, general agent of the Railway Express Agency, who points to the fact that early day shipping has been on a par with last year and is due to increase if the present standard is maintained.

"Mail and express cars are literally packed with early packages being sent to the East," Leake said. "This can be taken as a prosperity move and the fact that people are buying."

A survey has just been completed by employees of the Union Pacific System for Los Angeles to determine the extent of the Christmas business this season as compared with last year.

PARIS PARTIES TOLD IN SUIT

Davis's Recital of His Montmartre Adventures Recounted by Divorce Fight Witnesses

Recital of the asserted adventures of an Orange county swain in the gay Bohemian world of Paris enlivened Superior Judge Mahon's court yesterday. Witnesses recounted the after-dinner conversation of Austin Sheriff Davis, $200,000 trust-fund heir, whose suit for divorce is being resisted by Mary Helen Davis, member of a prominent Santa Ana family.

Mrs. Davis, to counteract stories of dancing parties at Balboa, where Davis says she spent her time, told the court about her husband's tales of his experiences in Montmartre, which, she said, "made her so ill she had to leave the dinner table."

Davis is said to have recounted the "amusing interlude," which lent color to his European tour before a mixed company at his father's Tujunga home.

"He was talking about his trip to Paris," said Charles Woodfill, Mrs. Davis's brother-in-law, "and he told of one party he attended where the girls didn't wear much other than their shoes."

"After leaving Paris, he took a boat to Havana, and he was bragging about the women he met on that trip. He said they were very nice to him and he learned quite a lot about women from them."

Mrs. Melvine Woodfill, wife of Charles Woodfill, added to the recital.

"Austin was telling about a picture of one of the girls he met in Paris," said Mrs. Woodfill. "He kept it in a safety deposit vault, he said. This seemed to embarrass Mary terribly. She said her husband would have to destroy the photograph, and Austin shouted: 'Nothing stirring!' Then she left the table."

How Mrs. Davis cried and became hysterical shortly after she was served with divorce papers by her husband was told by Woodfill, who said he accompanied her to her home in Tujunga, where she found she had been locked out.

"She climbed the fence, looked in through a window, and thought she saw Austin inside," said Woodfill. "So she pounded on the door, but no one responded and she had to go away."

Mrs. Katherine Lee Woodfill, a sister-in-law of the defendant, called to tell what happened at the Balboa dancing parties which Davis accused his wife of attending without his consent, testified that the

SOL LESSER VICTOR IN LEASE BATTLE

Sol Lesser, motion-picture producer, yesterday won a legal victory when Superior Judge Price decided in his favor in a suit for declarative relief against Albert Harris, proprietor of the Worthmore Dress Shops, Inc. Lesser asserted that Harris's lease to premises at 6530½ Hollywood Boulevard, owned by the plaintiff, expires on the 31st inst. The producer sought a court order termination of the lease on that date. Harris contended that he had an oral extension of lease until May 31, 1931.

Judge Price held that there was no oral extension, and found for the plaintiff.

WHEN THE SANDMAN COMES

by THORNTON W. BURGESS

STUMPY HAS AN ADVENTURE

A brief adventure now and then
Gives zest to life for mice and men.
—Old Mother Nature.

For a long time Stumpy, the three-legged young Muskrat, sat on a tussock on the edge of the open water of the Laughing Brook. Everything about him was familiar, yet at the same time strangely unfamiliar. All the familiar tussocks of grass were there, just as he had been accustomed to seeing them, but when he tried to swim to one a short distance to one side he found, to his surprise, that what he had thought was water was hard. It was ice. He couldn't swim from tussock to tussock, but he could walk from one to the other. This seemed queer, very queer. You see, it was the first time he ever had been on ice.

He ventured from one tussock to another, tussocks that he had often sat on all through the late summer and fall. Presently he was right on the edge of the Smiling Pool. It looked like black water, without a ripple on it. There was the Big Rock, just where it should be. There was the roof of his own home, the big house built by his parents, Jerry Muskrat and Mrs. Jerry. It was hard to believe that he could not swim right over to it.

He went a little way out on the ice, and there he made a discovery. He could look right through it down in the Smiling Pool. Never before had he been where he could look down like that, excepting when he was up on the Big Rock and had looked over the edge of it. It was fun. He quite forgot that he was out in the open and where if an enemy should happen along he couldn't possibly dive to safety. He forgot all about that, and so moved farther and farther from the open water of the Laughing Brook. At last he reached the roof of his own home, and on this he sat for a long time. The air was cold, but jolly, round, bright Mr. Sun was doing his best to warm things up, and Stumpy couldn't resist a sun bath.

How long he sat there he didn't know. What at last put an end to that sun bath was a glimpse of something moving below him. He got down off the house onto the ice. There, swimming right under him, was his sister. Yes, sir, there she was, right under him. He was looking down on her back. It was the funniest thing! She didn't see him, for she wasn't looking up, but he could see her so near that it seemed as if he could reach down and touch her. She was headed for the bank, and he guessed that she was going there for fresh air, just as he had done early that morning. He started to follow her on the ice, but the ice was slippery, and when he tried to hurry he made hard work of it, the more so because he had but three legs. You remember that he had lost one of his front legs in a dreadful steel trap.

A slight noise caught his attention. He looked up. There on the bank was one of those two-legged creatures. As a matter of fact, it was the very boy who had set the trap in which Stumpy had been caught. In one hand the boy held a stout stick. He stepped off the bank onto the ice of the Smiling Pool, reached out and hit it hard with his stick. He was testing it, to see if it would bear his weight. He ventured out a short distance, and the ice cracked. The boy went back.

Meanwhile, Stumpy had started for the open water of the Laughing Brook. It was the only place where he could possibly escape. How he hated this ice now! It would have been bad enough had he had all four feet, but with only three it was slow, hard work on that slippery ice. The boy now started to try to head him off. Would he reach the Laughing Brook before Stumpy did? It began to look as if he might. Stumpy did his best. He was clumsy, but even at that, he got over the ice surprisingly fast. The boy threw his stick at Stumpy. It came alithering across the ice and—Stumpy dived into the open water just before the stick splashed into it.

Chef Wyman's RECIPES

Every Friday at 2 o'clock Mrs. A. L. Wyman will conduct a free class and demonstration of good cookery in the lecture room of the Southwest Building, 130 South Broadway.

CRAB SOUP A LA MARYLAND

To two cupfuls of water add one small finely chopped onion, one blade of whole mace, one teaspoonful of paprika, two teaspoonfuls of salt and allow to come to a boil. Then add two cupfuls of milk and two cupfuls of flaked crab meat. When the mixture reaches the boiling point add two tablespoonfuls of melted butter, to which has been added two tablespoonfuls of flour; cook for two minutes and add one-fourth of a cupful of butter, a little at a time, and two tablespoonfuls of finely chopped parsley. Serve unstrained.

DATE PIE

Wash one pound of dates and soak them overnight, then place them on the fire and cook them in the water they were soaked in until soft enough to rub through a sieve. Add to the pulp one cupful of sour cream, two level tablespoonfuls of butter, the well - beaten yolks of three eggs, one teaspoonful of cinnamon, one teaspoonful of nutmeg and a few grains of salt. Pour into a pastry lined dish and bake until the mixture is thick. Cover with a meringue made of the egg whites.

LAMB STEW, BERKSHIRE STYLE

Take three and one-half pounds of lamb, cut from the shoulder, in pieces about two inches in size, dust heavily with flour, and brown in shortening; shake the pan while doing this, to keep from scorching. When the meat is done, season with salt, pepper and an eighth of a teaspoonful of ginger, add two tablespoonfuls of chopped parsley, two medium-sized onions chopped fine, and braise slowly for two hours, adding half a cupful of water, now and then, until the required amount of gravy has been obtained. Keep the pot tightly covered, place the meat on a deep platter and garnish with rice balls prepared in the following manner:

To one cupful of cold-boiled rice mix one slightly beaten egg, one-quarter of a teaspoonful of salt, a seasoning of paprika and an eighth of a teaspoonful of nutmeg, form into small marbles, and drop into boiling salted water. Skim out carefully and place around the meat.

CLAM FRITTERS

Two cupfuls of minced clams, two eggs, one-third of a cup of milk, one and one-third cupfuls of sifted flour, two level teaspoonfuls of baking powder, a seasoning of salt and pepper, drain the claims of their liquor, beat the eggs until light, add the milk, alternately with the flour, that has been sifted with the baking powder, then add the chopped clams and season highly with salt and pepper. Drop by spoonfuls into deep hot shortening and fry.

Mrs. Wyman does not reply to letters, but requests for recipes are answered in the department. PRACTICAL RECIPES published every Friday.—[All rights to reproduce reserved by A. L. Wyman.]

Health and Diet Advice

By DR. FRANK McCOY

Author of "The Fast Way to Health"

AVOIDING POISONS

If some one said to you, "You're too late, I've just swallowed poison," what would you do? At such a time life may hang by a thread. In order that you will know what to do I am going to tell you how to handle some common cases of poisoning.

Many people die each year from poison taken accidentally. There are others who take poison while despondent, among them even famous people and stars of the stage and screen. Usually, most of these are rescued by the stomach pump in the emergency hospital, and the next morning they are always glad to be alive.

One who has taken poison may not lose his life and yet there is nearly always an injury done to the stomach or nervous system when strong poisons are swallowed, resulting in a damaged or inflamed condition which may last for the rest of the patient's life.

Statistics show that for some reason, Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock is the favorite hour for would-be suicides. Another curious fact is that poisonings usually occur in threes, and it also happens that more people take poisons or sunshiny days than on dull days.

Today the average person does not fear poisoned wines, blades, arrows, rings or lockets, and is in no extraordinary danger of having poison dropped into his food. At one time all prominent people used to make the cook taste every dish first to be sure that no deadly poison has been added to it.

Although we no longer have this fear that poison has been placed in our food, accidental poisonings from home-canned foods are fairly common. If you open a jar or can which looks, smells or tastes bad, it is better to be safe than sorry. Home-canned meats and especially sausages should be carefully inspected to guard against a severe poisoning known as botulism. We often read of people dying of spoiled food such as meat, fish, mussels or sea food, etc., or poisonous mushrooms. There is very little, if any, danger from commercially canned foods as the canneries are subject to such rigid inspection, and the canners, themselves, have found that it pays to give the foods the best care possible. However, if a can is puffed out or blown out at the end, or has a leak, or the food is discolored, it should be discarded.

The treatment from any of the ordinary food poisons is very simple, but it must be quickly applied. First, give plenty of hot salt water or give mustard in water to cause the patient to vomit. If the patient does not vomit readily, sticking a finger down the throat after the stomach is filled with hot liquid will usually accomplish the purpose. The important part is to use plenty of hot water and keep the patient vomiting until the stomach is well washed out. It is also a good plan to give copious enemas if any of the poison has passed through the stomach.

If the symptoms do not appear for several hours after a meal in which poisoning occurred, it is advisable to give cathartics and large quantities of drinking water, with sweating baths and enemas. Often a short orange juice fast, followed by a milk diet is the best regimen to use for a few days when the patient is recovering from food poisoning.

Your Baby and Mine

by MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Mrs. Eldred will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope forwarded to this office will bring a personal reply.

This department offers leaflets on weaning and feeding the child from 6 weeks to 6 years, prenatal care and diet for the nursing mother, constipation, eczema, outfits for the new baby, sleeping, walking, teething, thumb sucking, ammoniacal urine, bed wetting, training in cleanly habits, periods of nursing, cod liver oil, orange juice, hives, worms, vomiting, refractory children, prune juice, lime water, rupture, styes and boils and cradle cap. Before asking a personal question about one of these subjects, it is better to send a self-addressed stamped envelope for the leaflet you need. If your particular problem is not covered in the above list, Mrs. Eldred will be glad to give you a personal reply.

CREEPING IS BENEFICIAL ACTIVITY PRELIMINARY TO WALKING

With the advent of colder weather babies are apt to suffer from lack of opportunities for healthful exercise. It is easier to keep baby in his buggy or bundled in his high chair than it is to put him on a cold floor. If he is put in his crib it is usually for his nap; the windows are opened and he is hustled out as soon as he wakens.

Yet creeping and pulling up to chairs and struggling to stand up are necessary activities for the baby's development. He can't learn to walk without these preliminaries and he grows very peevish and cross and hard to satisfy without them. From 8 or 9 months on, sometimes earlier, the baby's muscles crave this exercise. We must manage a way to give it to him.

PLAY PEN SERVES PURPOSE

There is usually a period in the day, from noon on, that the house is well warmed. It is cold in the morning after many hours of open windows, and it may grow cooler toward evening as the weather sharpens, but in mid-day it is warm and even if the floors are drafty, the child can be put down and dressed in a way to prevent him taking cold. Warm, long hose, and a "creeper" that will hold his petticoats closely about his legs will make creeping a real sport instead of just a battle with dresses. A play pen, or even a corner of the room penned off with stout chairs that won't upset easily and will offer the child a good support for pulling up is more satisfactory than turning him loose in a room.

Naturally the child's whole physical condition, his weight, and his opportunities for freedom of movement are largely responsible for his rate of progress in creeping and walking. No matter how inactive he appears to be or how satisfied with inactivity, it won't help him any if we allow him to sit all day long in crib or buggy or high chair and offer him no better method of getting about.

COLD FLOORS NO LONGER BUGBEAR

If he is long past the age when one should expect him to try pulling up and staggering about, then certainly his physical condition and the way his diet is related to it should be critically scrutinized. We have a new leaflet on the subjects of "Sitting, Creeping and Walking" and it discusses at what time one may expect a baby to begin these activities. Send a self-addressed stamped envelope with your request for it to this department.

Meanwhile get over this terror of cold floors. A baby pen, with the floor in it padded with a quilt kept just for the purpose, and a nice assortment of toys will keep baby happy for an hour or more. This is the very best way of which we know to keep the child out of mischief and still give him perfect freedom to walk about, hanging safely to the edge of the pen. Some of these pens are so made that they can be pushed about by baby, and if chairs are placed so that no matter which way he pushes he will not bump into valuable objects, the baby is happier pushing the pen ahead of him and back and forth than when it is fixed and stationary.

of Winston Churchill and classed him as being just as dangerous as Gandhi, expressing the belief that it would be a good thing if the British government would keep them both in jail.

LEAGUE SPEAKER

The second speaker of the evening was M. Pierre De Lanux, director of the Paris information office of the League of Nations, discussing our international ethics.

"Slowly but surely," said M. De Lanux, "the League of Nations has produced a network of mutual obligations so extensive that few nations could go to war today without disregarding not one, but quite a number of different pledges. People all over the world are beginning to realize the existence of these new international ethics. They are becoming more and more real as more and more people become aware of their presence.

"I do not believe in the least that national allegiance and national service should disappear as a necessary condition of peace and as a result of international ethics taking their place."

RUSSIA'S ADVANCE

With the growing industrialization of Russia by the soviets, the Pacific area is becoming of far greater import to Russia, the afternoon conference of the institute was told by Prince Lobanov-Rotovsky of the University of California at Los Angeles. In the old days the Pacific was loked upon as Russia's "back door." The five-year industrial plan of the soviet makes it the "front door."

With this five-year program calling for a tremendous production by soviet factories to make a grand showing, the Volga and Ural regions are becoming industrialized. The industrial and population center is moving eastward. Thus Russia is looking to the Pacific.

Prince Rotovsky said that Europe is becoming increasingly out of date for the new Russia. She is looking to the United States. The American ways of doing things suit their needs better. She is calling in American engineers and industrialists. American railway methods are better for her; American types of bridge building suit her. Looking to the Pacific, Russia's interest in the Chinese Eastern Railway becomes paramount. It is her outlet to the Pacific.

At present the railway is jointly controlled by Russia and China. The Chinese operate it, mostly. Each tries to hamper the other in the operation of the railroad. Just what the solution will be cannot be foreseen. Russia would not be satisfied with neutral control.

World powers have an interest in the solution, because if Russia is cut off from the Pacific by denial of use of the railroad, she will be throttled and will be a great source of trouble, the speaker said.

TARIFF ATTACKED

Mr. G. Pacci, secretary of the Italian Chamber of Commerce at San Francisco, read a paper in which he suggested the removal of high protective tariffs as a method of developing and improving international economic relations. He argued that the benefits from a high tariff are outranked by the damage done in retaliatory measures adopted by foreign countries to curtail the importation of goods into such countries.

Prof. T. R. Adam, an Englishman, who has spent some years in Australia and is now at Occidental College, projected a somewhat novel idea before the conference. It was that American capital take advantage of the great need right now by Australia for foreign capital.

"Australia," he said, "is now in the world market, offering herself for development." He expressed the belief that one of America's greatest needs right now is to find an outlet for her tremendous industrial and economic expansion. He has heard that America in the next decade will turn to China and to South America for such outlet, but does not think much of the idea. Australia, however, offers an outlet, he believes. The American, he said, must take the attitude that he has just as much right in Australia, economically, as has the Briton.

WASTED MONEY

Australia, Prof. Adam said, has spent a lot of money unwisely through various state agencies; money loaned by Great Britain. She indulged in a lot of activities in competition with private capital. Now she is about at the end of the road on that type of activity. The time is opportune for foreign capital, like that of the United States, under some sort of commercial treaty arrangements between Australia and the United States, to step in and begin to develop the country. The thing could be done, he thought, to mutual advantage.

He felt that the opportunity for America to go into Australia now is comparable to the development of California by the eastern people in pioneer days and the opportunity just as great. The Americans would have to learn to work with the trade unionists of Australia, he said in reply to a question from the floor.

At the luncheon today, Dr. Walter S. Hertzog of Los Angeles was the speaker, with Mrs. J. Sherman Hoyt of Pasadena as guest of honor.

A dinner was held tonight with the National Business and Professional Wome nand the Association of University Women as guests. There was a brief talk by Dr. Florence M. Morse, State president of the former organization.

BRIDE FORCED TO WALK BACK

Desertion on Honeymoon Ride Testified in Divorce Plea

A bride who walked back from her honeymoon motor ride was Mrs. Lettie Hansen, according to the story she testified yesterday in gaining an annulment of her marriage to Larry Llewellian Hansen. She told Superior Judge Henderson that Hansen married her November 26, 1928, in Manti, Utah. Immediately after the ceremony they motored for twenty-four hours.

"He left me next day in a little town 150 miles from Manti, saying he had to go to Ogden to visit his sister who was ill, complained Mrs. Hansen. "I never again saw him or heard from him."

Superior Judge Henderson granted an annulment.

BANDIT PAIR LOSE FIGHT TO GROCER

Wholesaler Wounded in Battle but He Retains Possession of $1500

Waging a fierce battle single-handed and in which he suffered a severe scalp wound when struck with the butt of a gun, William Brown, 40 years of age, last night finally fought off two armed bandits who for five minutes attempted desperately to wrest from him a leather pouch containing $1500. The uneven fight took place in front of the Los Angeles Wholesale Grocery Company, 1209 East Eighth street, of which Brown is general manager.

Having closed the offices, Brown carried the currency to his car and was about to start for his home at 1111½ Palm Drive, when the bandits leaped on the running board and pointed their guns at his head. He seized their wrists and they dragged him from the machine. For five minutes all three men then struggled on the pavement, Brown clinging tenaciously to the money pouch. One of the bandits struck him on the head with the gun-butt. Brown flung the pouch from him. It flew open, scattering the bills in the street. The bandits broke loose from Brown's grasp and started for the money, but when Brown pursued they abandoned the attempt and fled.

Miss Costello Signs Contract to Star in Film

After a pause of eighteen months in her professional career—a pause just long enough to bring into the world a Barrymore heiress—Dolores Costello (Mrs. John Barrymore) is going back to the screen.

DOLORES COSTELLO

Miss Costello is to sign a new starring contract with Warner Brothers Pictures within a week, it was learned at the studios yesterday. She will not play with her husband, also under contract there, but will be starred in her own right.

Miss Costello retired from the screen less than two years ago to await the coming of Dolores Ethel Mae Barrymore, who is now a lusty infant.

During the eighteen months that she was off the screen, Miss Costello's fan letters continued to arrive by the thousands each month, convincing the producers that she has a loyal legion of friends anxious to see her return.

County's Name Twists Court Aides' Tongues

Introduction of the testimony yesterday of Grace M. Sparks, picturesque secretary of the Yavapai County (Arizona) Chamber of Commerce, in the court of United States District Judge Cosgrave, set aside for a time the taking of evidence as to musty documents in the trial of William Anagnosti, accused of using the mails to defraud.

It was not her testimony, but the county she came from that fussed up the court attaches. Asst. U. S. Atty. Redwine gasped when she glibly said she was from Yavapai county.

"I can't say that word," said Mr. Redwine.

"It's easy," said Miss Sparks. "Just like Yav-a-pie, a famous county of Northern Arizona."

The witness testified to buying many shares of Hollywood Dry stock, which the government charges was at a high rate. The case will be resumed on Monday.

"Rhapsody in Blue" Composer Confers

George Gerschwin and (standing) Dr. Artur Rodzinski

GEORGE GERSHWIN, composer of the "Raphsody in Blue," and the latest musical acquisition to Hollywood's motion-picture colony, is conferring with Dr. Artur Rodzinski, conductor of the Philharmonic Orchestra, over the presentation of some of his orchestral works here this winter.

Gershwin conducted at the New York Stadium last summer and played his piano concerto with the New York Symphony under Damrosch several winters ago. His "American in Paris" will probably be used here.

OXYGEN TENT RUSHED BY PLANE TO SAVE GIRL

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, Dec. 12.—Hope of saving the life of a pneumonia patient here depends today on the timely arrival of a bulky oxygen tent which is about to be delivered by airplane from St. Louis. The tent is to be employed as a last resort in the illness of Miss Agnes Johnson, an employee of Mrs. Keith Spalding, philanthropist, who sank into a coma early this morning. It is manufactured only in Wilkinsburg, Pa., and is reported to have been responsible for recovery of numerous pneumonia patients in the East.

When Miss Johnson became unconscious hospital authorities wired the factory to rush a tent here by airpane, believing that it if arrives not later than Sunday morning the patient's chances of recovery will be increased tenfold.

Snow, sleet and fog, however, according to dispatches from Pittsburgh, have deferred departure of the airplane until tomorrow. It is scheduled to take off from St. Louis, the manufacturers having arranged to send the tent there by train tonight.

Messages concerning the request flew about the East by radio, telephone and telegraph during the day, the dispatches stated. When a plane large enough to transport the tent was reported unavailable anywhere in the vicinity of Pittsburgh, of which Wilkinsburg is a suburb, an order for one was sent by telephone to Columbus and thence to Kansas City. J. W. Brennan, eastern division traffic manager of Transcontinental and Western Air, Inc., on a business trip to Kansas City, advised the tentmakers by radio that a suitable plane was available at Harrisburg, Pa. But the departure from Harrisburg was thwarted by weather conditions.

SHOTS FROM UPSTAIRS CAUSE PANIC IN STORE

Four shots fired into a drug store from rooms above late yesterday terrifying those in the store, disclosed a daylight jamboree and resulted in the arrest, under difficulties, of the two participants. The pair in custody are Francis O'Shagnasty, 37 years of age, a meat cutter, charged with liquor possession and the discharge of firearms, and Reuben Enriquez, 28, a glass-blower, charged with intoxication.

W. L. Cohan, manager of the drug store at 1601 South Main street, phoned police and announced four bullets had just plowed through the ceiling and imbedded themselves in the floor. Several customers, in addition to himself and John Clark, soda clerk, he stated, had narrowly missed being struck.

Detective Lieutenants Hamlin and Filby of Georgia-street division responded and traced the shots to a room above, occupied by O'Shagnasty and Enriquez. The former, they reported, admitted he had fired the shots in a moment of exhuberance induced by some of the thirty gallons of whisky the officers found in the room.

O'Shagnasty, according to the officers, resisted arrest for a time by wielding a pocket-knife, but finally was subdued.

Seneca C. Beach Undergoes Knife

Seneca C. Beach, who for many years was executive secretary of the printers' trade division of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association of Long Beach and who retired more than a year ago, was operated on yesterday at the White Memorial Hospital.

Last night it was announced that he was resting easily and has a fair chance of recovery. The operation was performed by Dr. George Johnstone of Glendale. Mr. Beach is 69 years of age. He was identified with the open-shop movement in Los Angeles for a number of years.

DAUGHTER, HURT, SUES MOTHER FOR DAMAGES

Daughter and mother were plaintiff and defendant, respectively, in a $5000 personal injury damage suit taken under submission yesterday by Superior Judge Henderson. The daughter, Franc Rae Jennings, Glendale school-teacher, sued Mrs. Rachel Jennings for damages assertedly received while riding in the mother's automobile.

Miss Jennings testified that she taught school from a wheel-chair for a year following the accident on September 6, 1928, on the Salt Lake City-Los Angeles highway near Holden, Utah. As a result of her injuries, she added, she was compelled to pay $344.25 in hospital bills and lose $55 salary because of absence from the Glendale day school, and $544.50 because of absence from the Alhambra evening school, as well as losing $759.50 because of her inability to fill lecture contracts before the Alhambra Women's Club.

"I was in such pain that I could not walk," she asserted, after detailing injuries including torn ligaments of the hips. "At times it was all I could stand to carry on my work from the wheel-chair, because the pain was so intense. During the first weeks I suffered much from nervousness, also as a result of the strange confinement and great strain under which I worked."

Miss Jennings testified that her mother invited her to motor with her in Mrs. Jennings's car from Salt Lake City to Los Angeles, and that the car was operated by her mother's driver, N. Clyde Fulton. She said she protested against the speed of the car just before it turned over on the road. Attorney Stanley K. Brown represented Miss Jennings.

JURY STILL OUT IN EBERLY TRIAL

Locked Up Second Night Since Receiving Case

Evidence of Fingerprint Witness Reconsidered

Defendant Prosecuted as Melvin Hatch Slayer

Still deadlocked over the guilt or innocence of Percy Eberly, tried for the murder of Melvin Hatch, the jury late yesterday asked Superior Judge McComb to order the transcript of testimony given by Milton Carlson, defense handwriting expert, read to them.

The jurors then returned to the jury room and, failing to reach a verdict, were ordered locked up for the night, the second time since the trial ended.

The testimony in which the jurors were interested concerned the value of a fingerprint in establishing definitely the identity of a person. J. W. Ryan, defense attorney, contended during the trial that a single fingerprint is not sufficient evidence to convict a man of murder.

Joseph Choate, deputy District Attorney who prosecuted the case, contended that a single fingerprint found in the Hatch residence at 2149 Echo Park avenue on the night of April 8, 1927, was left by Eberly. Young Hatch was shot and killed by a bandit who a few minutes before had locked Dr. A. M. Hatch in a closet and then waylaid his son and Mrs. Hatch when they returned.

Since then Eberly was arrested and convicted of four counts of robbery. Police fingerprint experts assert that they discovered Eberly's fingerprint to be identical to the one left by the bandit slayer.

ZONE POLICY DENOUNCED IN COUNCIL

"Spot" Plea Brings Attack on System as Destructive of Citizens' Confidence

The present zoning policy of the city came in for a heavy attack on the floor of the City Council yesterday morning when the matter of granting W. E. Conrad a spot zone at Sunset Boulevard and Fairfax avenue to erect a two-story business building was under consideration.

The Council voted, eight to five, in favor of Conrad's application, this being on instructions to the City Attorney to draft the necessary ordinance. When the ordinance comes up for action another fight is contemplated.

Councilman Cooke, who represents the Hollywood district, vigorously opposed the spot zone. He also adverted to the business spot zone in favor of Ben Frank at Los Feliz Boulevard and Nella Vista Drive, which comes up for a vote Monday morning.

In this connection Cooke read a letter written by Rupert Hughes, author, to the Los Feliz Boulevard Association, in which Hughes wittily protests that after civilization saved its scalp by fighting off the wolf at the cave mouth and the red Indian on the plains, its hair is now threatened by "Escrow Indians," who term themselves "agents of progress," and who wish to put a business building on every lot in the city.

"The people are losing confidence in the zoning laws, believing them to be no longer a protection," Cooke said. "There has been too much spot zoning in residential areas where people built homes under the impression they would be protected against commercial encroachment.

"If the Council continues to violate the zoning rules the whole system might as well be tossed in the discard."

Councilman Webster, chairman of the City Planning Committee, which recommended the spot zone, defended Conrad's request as legitimate, as Sunset Boulevard is a major traffic artery and will not be wholly residential.

TIDE FUND TRANSFERRED

The $20,000 remaining in the Venice Shore Protection Fund was transferred so as to be available for a survey of tides, currents and conditions in the Santa Monica Bay region by the City Council yesterday. The survey is designed to work out a means to prevent injury and erosion to the public beaches. It will be handled by the Department of Playground and Recreation.

SHUT-INS VISIT SANTA AT CHRISTMAS CIRCUS

Faces beaming with excitement, and anticipation running at a high pitch, some forty or fifty youngsters from the Orthopedic Hospital fairly tumbled out of the big bus which had been sent for them by the Union Pacific Stages, in their eagerness to get a close-up of the Shell Oil Company Christmas circus at Wilshire Boulevard and Catalina street, where they were the guests yesterday afternoon of the Junior Chamber of Commerce and the Shell company.

Many of them were with their legs in braces, others on crutches and still others so pitifully twisted they had to be carried, yet all of them were given an opportunity to get close to the gigantic Santa Claus, who presides there, and tell him their Christmas wishes. And to their utter amazement, Santa winked a huge eye and actually spoke back to them. R. E. Hicks, traffic manager of Union Pacific Stages, acted as St. Nick's understudy, and LeRoy Owen, president of the junior chamber, presided over the festivities.

After each youngster had delivered his or her message and Santa supposedly had written it all down in the big record book which he holds before him, a general and wholesale distribution of balloons and ice cream followed, with plenty of extras so that the children could take them back to the less-fortunate ones who could not leave the hospital.

TRIO PLEADS NOT GUILTY IN VICE CASE

Scott, Brown and Taylor Face Trial in February on Conspiracy Charges

Failing in their effort to have the grand jury indictment against them set aside, Ruben Scott, George Brown and Curtis Taylor yesterday pleaded not guilty to the charge of conspiracy to violate the vice laws of Los Angeles when they appeared in Superior Judge Wood's court. Judge Wood set their trial for February 2, 1931, in his court.

The three men were indicted as a result of a grand jury investigation into asserted vice conditions and graft in the Central-avenue district.

Since the return of this indictment, the grand jury has continued its inquiry into county and city affairs but thus far no additional true bills have been returned. At present the investigation centers about the administration of city affairs in the harbor district. Twelve witnesses have been subpoenaed to appear before the grand jury Tuesday to testify concerning this matter.

According to members of the grand jury, however, the inquiry may be deferred temporarily to permit the jury to take up more pressing matters.
